Lock Change On Davis

This morning members of Davis' staff, including his personal secretary, were let into the office by security staff after they were unable to gain access.

Davis is removing his personal papers and other documents and has two weeks to complete the transfer to his new quarters in the Socred caucus office.

Public Works Minister Alex Fraser, the minister in charge of the legislature, said today locks on any minister's offices are changed as a matter of routine if the minister changes portfolios or leaves the cabinet.

He said security staff came to him following the premier's announcement and asked for guidance and he told them to follow normal procedures.

The Davis investigation involves a police agency, but the force involved and the nature of the investigation which led to Davis being stripped Monday of his cabinet post as minister of energy, transport and communications remained unknown today.

A senior government official revealed the police involvement when asked by the Times when details surrounding the case would be made public.

"I don't suppose anything will come out until the police investigation is completed," he said.

Questioned as to what police agency is involved, he refused comment.

Although Davis met Tuesday with Attorney-General Garde Gardom, through whom the investigation is being channelled, he claimed later he still does not know why he is being investigated.

Gardom refused to give any details.

The attorney-general said any premature statements could hamper the probe or hurt Davis.

Davis said he asked for the meeting with Gardom.

"He confirmed that an investigation is being conducted but that's all I know," Davis said.

Davis insisted he does not know any details.

"I really don't know," he said.

"I don't have a real focus for my defence if I need one."

He added he is not prepared to guess about the nature of the accusations against him.

The firing is expected to be discussed in cabinet Thursday.

Gardom told reporters: "I do not propose to comment. To comment now would not be in the interests of the investigation or of the individual."

"I have given my full response," Gardom said, adding he will make a full statement when the probe is completed.

Heavy Sales Ram Dollar To Another 45-Year Low

Times News Services

The Canadian dollar continued to come under heavy pressure on New York money markets today hitting yet another 45-year-low despite the Bank of Canada increasing its rate.

In New York, the Canadian dollar was down 1-50 at $0.8768 at noon. Pound sterling was up 3-5 at $1.8765.

At the close of what dealers described as an "extremely hectic" trading session in the interbank wholesale market Tuesday, the dollar closed at 87.70 U.S. cents, down nearly a-quarter-of-a-cent from Monday's price of 87.97 U.S. cents.

Today was the third day in a row the dollar closed below 88 U.S. cents, its lowest level since May, 1933, when it traded at 86.77 U.S. cents.

Government intervention and the suggestion by Finance Minister Jean Chretien that opposition critics "shut up" to prevent further speculation have failed to halt the slide.

"Obviously we're in definite trouble," said a trader for the Provincial Bank of Canada, "especially when the decline followed an increase in the bank rate."

Traders said the bank rate increase appeared to help the dollar in Tuesday morning trading, when it climbed to 88.23 U.S. cents. But in the afternoon "large" orders for U.S. dollars entered the market, pushing the dollar back below 88 U.S. cents.

"The fact the Bank of Canada has been forced to raise its bank rate twice in less than a month is really quite negative news," said one dealer.

"It seems the government is at its rope's end to support the dollar." He added that many market observers are speculating that yet another rate increase may be necessary to stem the dollar's decline.

The bank rate increases are designed to attract foreign investment to Canada and to ease downward pressure on the Canadian dollar.

One senior trader expressed doubts that the increase would do this. "The basic negative factors are still there — the only thing that's changed is the interest rate differential," he said.

The government's indecisiveness on how to treat the dollar has contributed to the dollar's decline, he said. "The government is reacting after the fact."

The government had a policy of letting the dollar float but then decided to intervene in the money mar-

MORE VOTERS UNDECIDED

Times News Services

A Gallup Poll released today shows the percentage of voters undecided how they would vote in a federal election rose five per cent between February and early March.

The survey, conducted in early March by the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion, shows 38 per cent were undecided.

The latest figures vary by two percentage points from the levels in the last federal election in 1974.

At that time, the Liberals won 141 seats in the House of Commons, the Conservatives 95, the NDP 16 and the Social Credit 11. There was one independent.

The poll also shows that of voters who have made up their minds, 45 per cent favor the Liberals, with the Progressive Conservatives favored by 34 per cent and the NDP trailing with 17 per cent.

In the February poll, Liberals had 43 per cent of the decided voters, Conservatives 36 per cent and the NDP 17 per cent.

As a result of the poll, Progressive Conservative Leader Joe Clark predicted today that Prime Minister Trudeau would call an election next week.

Although the Liberals increased two points to 45 and the Conservatives dropped two points to 34, Clark told reporters he is confident his party will win that election.

"We're pleased with the poll," he told reporters.

Senator Davey said timing of the election still has not been decided by Trudeau.

A spokesman for Ed Broadbent, New Democratic Party leader, said Broadbent is satisfied with the polls.

Means Test For UIC?

OTTAWA (CP) — The government plans to study use of a means test to establish eligibility of unemployment insurance claimants while the official opposition hears a proposal to eliminate the whole insurance program.

Employment Minister Bud Cullen said in an interview Tuesday an internal advisory council will be asked to study the idea of a means test which would bar high-income earners from receiving unemployment insurance benefits. No income cut-off line had been suggested.

Cullen said he personally does not favor the proposal but has been hearing complaints from the public across the country about individuals with annual incomes higher than $20,000 receiving benefits.

Cullen first mentioned the plan in the Commons in reply to Bill Clarke (PC — Vancouver Quadra) who suggested an individual's entitlement to benefits be based on his annual income. He complained of abuse in the system that leads to a rip-off of taxpayers.

Clarke said he plans to propose the Conservative party adopt a policy of advocating elimination of the system as an insurance program because "it's really already welfare now."

Clarke said some self-employed individuals, pensioners and others are contributing to the unemployment insurance fund now through taxes but they are not entitled to benefits. This was unfair.

Under Clarke's scheme unemployment insurance premiums would be eliminated and payments to the unemployed, based on a means test, would be made out of general tax revenues. He estimates half of the $4 billion cost of the program now comes from general revenues.

Under the present system, employers and employees contribute weekly to the fund and an individual must have worked between 10 and 14 weeks to be eligible for benefits. The length of benefits depends on the amount of time the claimant worked and amount to 66⅔ per cent of the person's insurable earnings.

MARGARET

Meg Given Choice

Times News Services

LONDON — The Queen is reported to have given Princess Margaret a royal ultimatum: end her relationship with brewery heir Roddy Llewellyn or withdraw from public life.

Buckingham Palace declined comment on the report today by The Sun.

"I wouldn't dream of contacting the Royal Family about private conversations," a palace spokesman said.

The Sun, quoting "a close friend of the Royal Family," says the Queen was "deeply upset" by criticism of the Royal Family because of the 47-year-old Margaret's friendship with Llewellyn, 17 years her junior.

The unidentified royal confidant was quoted as saying: "The princess is being forced to choose where her first loyalty lies. It's sad but inevitable."

The report came one day after royal spokesmen announced the princess has the flu and has cancelled public engagements.

Llewellyn, who hopes to become a pop singer, has been Margaret's frequent companion since her legal separation from Lord Snowdon two years ago.

Northern Pipeline Bill Moves on to Senate

OTTAWA (CP)—Legislation authorizing construction of the northern gas pipeline was given final approval in the Commons Tuesday night and was expected to rapidly become law after speedy handling by the Senate.

Progressive Conservative and Social Credit MPs voted with the government in favor of the legislation — slightly amended since its introduction in February — with only the New Democratic Party opposing it. The vote was 139 to 11.

Ray Perrault, government leader in the Senate, said in an interview the bill will receive expeditious handling this week.

The Senate special pipeline committee had a long "prestudy" in advance of the upper chamber receiving the bill from the Commons.

The Senate now had a "comprehensive comprehension" of the bill and did not want to delay it when many jobs are at stake.

The bill provides for the construction of a 5,000-mile pipeline to carry natural gas from Alaska through the Yukon, British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan to southern markets.

Construction is to begin 1981. A link will be built later to move Canadian natural gas from the MacKenzie Delta.

OTTAWA (CP) — T. C. Douglas (NDP Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands) is in hospital here undergoing tests because of an unspecified medical problem.

He became ill shortly after giving what was probably his last speech in the Commons during the northern pipeline debate. He has said he will not contest the next election.

CLC Promises Political Fight

THE BYRDS
OF WHAT PRACTICAL USE IS THE STUDY OF THE PALEOZOIC PERIOD?
YOU NEVER KNOW, YOU MIGHT GO INTO LAW.

Times News Services

QUEBEC — Fired-up members of the Canadian Labor Congress today served notice that they will work to defeat any politician who supports a proposal to tie public service wage increases to private sector pay raises.

"We say bluntly to any politicians who support that proposal: You are bastards and we are going to be out there working for your defeat in the next election," said Andy Stewart, president of the 177,000-member Public Service Alliance of Canada.

"This piece of legislation is the most union-busting legislation in the history of this country," said Kealey Cummings, secretary-treasurer of the 230,000-member Canadian Union of Public Employees.

"It will mean negotiations by computer."

Delegates to the CLC national policy convention gave thunderous approval to an emergency resolution which directed CLC executives to "organize wholehearted support for any demonstrations, meetings, lobbies or other actions necessary to defeat Bill C28."

The bill, now before Parliament, would require federal arbitrators to compare total compensation of public servants, including fringe benefits, to total compensation in related private-sector jobs when determining public service wage increases.

In a related development, delegates voted Tuesday to refuse CLC participation in

Tourist Flood Begins Rolling Into City

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Tourists continue to pour into the city and local officials are beginning to wonder what they are going to do with them all.

Hotels, restaurants and motels reported business up 25 per cent from the same time last year and an even bigger flood of visitors is expected this month.

A Canada Manpower survey showed business is good but there is a growing concern that not enough has been planned for visitors to the city, regional assistant manager Doug Yearwood said.

Thousands are coming for the Capt. Cook festival but the major events are in a short period in July.

"What will we do for the rest of the year?"

Yearwood said Victoria merchants are concerned about a lost opportunity with so many people arriving this summer.

"If there isn't something organized for them, they will leave again."

Yearwood said he noticed the problem on a personal basis when California friends indicated they were coming up and wanted to know what was happening.

"What can I tell them? There are so few package tours on the Island, especially in the off-season. How about a two-week golfing tour of Vancouver Island, playing on each course?"

"Where are the competitions that other cities have? Why don't we organize a tournament for left-handed golfers, the Sidewinders Championship? The bridge tournament here brought thousands of people to the city. We need more organized packages and events."

Yearwood said this view has been echoed by many Victoria merchants who are concerned the opportunities offered by the low Canadian dollar and the Capt. Cook festival will be lost by inadequate planning at the local level.

Meanwhile, local merchants are buoyant after a good month and they are optimistic about the immediate future.

Retail sales were strong in most departments and employment was high.

Oakland Fisheries employed 1,000 people in March for the herring roe season, which has now ended. The cannery will be quiet again until the salmon season in June.

March was a busy month on the agricultural front, with 780 workers being hired through Canada Manpower Farm Labor for the daffodil and tulip crop, which was unusually good.

The shipyard labor force is stable at 425 workers.

Weaknesses remain in construction with unemployment at about 30 per cent but more jobs will be available soon in major harbor construction projects.

Gov't Probes Porn Controversy

OTTAWA (CP) — State Secretary John Roberts is concerned that the Canada Council may be subsidizing pornography and is considering ways of giving Parliament some control over it, an aide said Tuesday.

Jeff O'Brien, Roberts' executive assistant, said Roberts, whose department is responsible for appointing Canada Council members, is concerned about books of poetry published by Blue Ointment Press in Vancouver.

He said Roberts has received a number of complaints from MPs and members of the public about the books, with names such as Street Flesh and Cock Tales.

O'Brien said the federal government is studying proposals to change the status of all Crown corporations to give Parliament some control over them. The Canada Council was being studied in this context.

O'Brien was responding to statements Monday by Liberal MP Hugh Anderson (Comox-Alberni) that some of the books financed by Canada Council grants amount to degradation of the printed word.

He called for parliamentary control over the council to stop it from publishing pornography.

The Canada Council is an autonomous agency that provides grants, scholarships and fellowships for work in the arts, social sciences and humanities.

In the Commons Tuesday, Bob Wenman (PC—Fraser Valley West) asked Roberts to refer the mandate of the Canada Council to a parliamentary committee in order to assure accountability and fiscal responsibility to Parliament.

Roberts said he would consider the matter.

In Vancouver, meanwhile, the president of Talonbooks Ltd. of Vancouver says the protests by MPs are irresponsible and damaging.

"Unless you restrict your reading to Harlequin Romances or Nurse Jones stories, it's pretty hard to avoid a few naughty words in today's literature," Siegler said.

SHOOTING SPREE INJURES CHILDREN

EDMONTON (CP) — Four children were slightly injured Tuesday night in a shooting spree that lasted an hour and stretched over several city blocks.

Police said children were shot at from a vehicle in five city areas, beginning at 4:30 p.m., before a man carrying a .22-calibre pistol was captured.

Police were summoned first to the area of 89th Street and 78th Avenue in southeast Edmonton. Within an hour, calls were received from four adjacent areas.

Five police vehicles were involved before a man was captured.

Terry May, 21, of Edmonton, was charged with two counts of attempted murder, two counts of wounding with intent and one count of dangerous use of a firearm.

Psychiatrist Back on Job

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Psychiatrist William Kyne, who last November left the city without any psychiatric practitioners to make more money in Toronto, has quietly resumed his practice here.

Although Kyne refused to speak to reporters, his secretary confirmed that he is practising under the Medical Services Plan of British Columbia.

Kyne announced his resignation in a dramatic letter to a local newspaper, saying that under the provincial medical plan he could clear only $30,000 a year in Prince George despite 16-hour working days and a gross income of $80,000.

Kyne said he was moving to Toronto because he could earn $120,000 a year in private practice dealing mainly with business executives.

Bert Boyd, administrator for the local hospital, said Kyne's hospital privileges will have to be reviewed by the medical advisory committee because they were cancelled after Kyne resigned.

Bilingual Courts Proposed

By DAN POTTIER
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The federal government has introduced legislation seeking to guarantee Canadians the right to use English or French in the courts.

Justice Minister Ron Basford yesterday proposed amendments to the Criminal Code which would provide the guarantees as long as the provinces co-operated.

Basford told a news conference all provinces supported the plan which, once adopted, would be proclaimed province by province after extensive consultations.

He said Quebec, Ontario, New Brunswick and Manitoba had already agreed to proceed as soon as the federal law was adopted. They have the largest official minority groupings.

The language guarantees for the courts were promised in the throne speech last fall, but there is speculation the bill may die on the order paper if a summer election is called.

The proposed amendments would give accused in Canada the right to be tried by judges or jury who speak their official language — either English of French.

However, the judge would retain the right to conduct the trial in a bilingual fashion where circumstances require.

Calling the proposals important to national unity, Basford said "any person in Canada accused of a crime should not require an interpreter in order to state his or her case in either of Canada's official languages before Canadian courts."

The law, however, would not compel prosecutors and court officials involved in criminal trials to speak the minority official language. They could use interpreters.

In addition, the law would allow trials to be transferred from one trial division to another within a province if the minority language capability did not exist in certain places.

This is designed to let the provinces assign certain centres as bilingual in terms of court services. It would ease implementation of the guarantees in provinces with small and scattered minority language groupings.

The administration of the law is a provincial responsibility and at present provisions regarding the language of trial vary from province to province.

In Quebec, the availailability of trial in either official language has been a long tradition.

A provision of Quebec's language law (Bill 101) saying companies must use French in the courts unless all parties agree to use English is being challenged in the courts.

The Quebec Superior Court has already declared that provision, among others, unconstitutional but the Quebec government has launched an appeal.

Delta opens an hotel in Victoria designed to make you feel more like a person than a room number.

The park at Laurel Point Inn.

Delta's new Victoria Laurel Point Inn.

With rooms on only four floors and a quiet, tasteful appearance that blends with its surroundings, Delta's Laurel Point Inn is an hotel built on a human scale.

So, when you stay here, you'll feel more like a friend than a guest; more like a guest than a room number.

Each room and suite has a view of the water, its own private patio and unique decor plus colour TV, AM/FM radio, individual heating/cooling control, over-sized beds, large fluffy towels and fist-sized bars of soap.

From Café Laurel you can watch the seaplanes land.

And there are meeting and conference facilities for groups of up to 225 people right on the premises.

Stay with us on your next visit.

MB Boss Knudsen Earned $271,662 for Year's Work

VANCOUVER (CP) — C. Calvert Knudsen, president of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., was paid $271,662 in 1977, says the annual report filed by the company with the United States Securities and Exchange Commission in Washington, D.C.

Knudsen, a native of Seattle, received a salary of $250,000 and an additional $21,662, believed to have come from the exchange rate on the U.S. dollar.

Both received $107,350 during 1976 but were exempt from the anti-inflation board's $2,400 limit on annual wage increases because they were promoted from group vice-presidents.

MB chairman of the board J. Ernest Richardson received $100,000 last year, up from $98,871 the year before.

In its annual report issued Monday, MB reports earnings after extraordinary items of $38.4 million or $1.65 a share on sales of $1.7 billion in 1977, compared with net earnings of $22.8 million or $1.07 a share on sales of $1.5 billion in 1976.

Bugged, Claims Another Tory MP

OTTAWA (CP) — Another Conservative MP says he is being bugged.

Paul Dick (Lanark-Renvfew-Carleton) said Tuesday someone firt bugged his home telephone and then broke into his house to vandalize the phone.

He called it a bizarre series of events.

His statements in a news conference came only days after Ottawa police charged two men with various offences after investigation of charges that Elmer MacKay (PC—Ecentral Nova) and Conservative Leader Joe Nlark had their telephones bugged.

Dick said Ontario Provincial Police and the provincial attorney-general's office are investigating.

He said he was talking to his wife, who was at home in bed recuperating from knee surgery, on the telephone from his Parliamentary office Feb. 23, when he suddenly heard a loud beep.

On his end the phone went dead, but his wife heard a clicking sound followed by a tape recording of their conversation.

About 40 minutes later, while his wife was lying down in an upstairs bedroom, she heard the back door slam. Going downstairs to investigate, she found the cord of the kitchen telephone cut and the receiver dismantled on a table.

Dick said police have few leads in their investigation. He said he has received assurances from federal Solicitor-General Jean-Jacques Blais that the RCMP was not involved in the incident.

He said Bell Canada said no foreign objects were found in the phone or on the line.

Bigfoot Also Bigmouth?

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — University of Wyoming scientists say that if there is a Sasquatch he may have a big mouth.

U. W. electrical engineer Lynn Kirlin has what he believes is a tape recorded voice of a Sasquatch made in Northern California in 1971.

Kirlin and graduate student Lasse Hertel are analyzing the tape recorded voice.

The two researchers hope their work will provide some of the answers to the Sasquatch controversy. Hundreds of persons have claimed to have sighted ape-like creatures roaming the woods of the Pacific Northwest.

Kirlin said he obtained the tape recording, chosen for study because of its clarity, from a Sacramento journalist last August.

Kirlin said the tape was made by placing the recorder several hundred feet outside of a camp in the Sierra Nevada Range and yelling to suspected Sasquatch lurking in the underbrush.

Kirlin said he is not the first person to study the tapes, which appear to contain three possible Sasquatch voices.

"Linguists, tape recording specialists and speech analysts have done cursory analyses, but ours is the first quantitative study," he said.

Kirlin and Hertel are using a special small computer in an attempt to compare the recorded voice with human voices.

The tape also contains articulation, which Kirlin says is unique to human communication. The vocal tract lengths — distances from the vocal cords to the lips — are also unusual.

"We have found the voice to be proportionally larger for Bigfoot as compared to a human man," he said.

Kirlin said his interest in the Sasquatch was spurred last June after he visited Peter Byrne's Bigfoot Information Center at The Dalles, Ore.

Byrne, a former big game hunter, has collected information about Sasquatch in a book entitled, The Search for Bigfoot—Monster, Myth or Man.

The researchers said they expect to "come up with something conclusive" by the end of the summer.

Quang Permit Raked

OTTAWA (CP) — The government was criticized Tuesday for permitting Dang Van Quang, South Vietnamese general of ill repute ordered deported nearly three years ago, to work in Quebec while one million Canadians are unemployed.

Employment Minister Bud Cullen told the Commons it is better for Quang to work than to receive provincial welfare benefits. He was responding to Derek Blackburn (NDP-Brant) who demanded Quang's work permit be withdrawn.

Quang has been washing dishes at a Montreal restaurant 48 hours a week for a $3.15 hourly wage, an immigration department spokesman said. Previously he worked as a janitor. His current work permit would expire April 28 and likely would be renewed because there was nowhere in the world to send him.

Quang, former military advisor to defeated South Vietnamese president Nguyen Van Thieu, was ordered deported two months after he arrived in Canada in May, 1975, when police told the government he was, in the words on one minister, "guilty of nefarious activities in the drug trade."

Blackburn said Quang has plenty of rich Vietnamese friends in Montreal "who could easily afford to bankroll him."

AirWest Workers Back Thursday

The president of AirWest Airlines said Tuesday that he expects all employees to be back on the job Thursday morning following settlement of a first contract with Teamsters local 213.

Norm Gold said an agreement was reached earlier in the day on a back-to-work procedure which includes a re-training program for flight crews to alleviate any doubts the public might have about safety.

About 90 pilots, mechanics and clerical workers are affected by the new contract which was ratified by an 80 per cent margin. Terms were not released.

AirWest employees went on strike last Nov. 13 and since that time management personnel have operated a limited service to Vancouver Island except for an 18-day period when AirWest was grounded due to safety regulations.

The workers had previously been members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers and have been without a contract since Oct. 31, 1976.

A Little Hysterical

The times are full of ferment over proposed constitutional changes and institutional reform of the governmental process in Canada. Of course, it was the election of a separatist government in the province of Quebec in 1976 that provided the catalyst for the present nonstop round of debates, seminars, federal-provincial talks and media maunderings.

But probably the intense examination of the machinery by which we govern ourselves would have taken place sooner or later anyway because clearly the existing system does not work as well as it should or as a representative democracy could. The Parti Quebecois victory just speeded up things somewhat. In the present fevered atmosphere, some Canadians tend to forget that off and on, constitutional reform has been near the top of the national agenda for some 15 years — the Fulton-Favreau formula, the Confederation of Tomorrow conference, the Victoria constitutional talks, and so on. The talking looks to continue for perhaps that many years into the future as well.

There has been much talk of reforming the Senate into a true second chamber of government, representing the provinces directly at the federal level as the U.S. senate equalizes and counterbalances the overwhelming control that representation by population gives the more populous states in the lower chamber of government.

This is Tory MP Flora MacDonald's House of the Provinces, which our Premier Bill Bennett backs as well. Any proposals to reform the Senate start with this immediate and attractive advantage: "the other place" of Parliament is such a flop and a joke as a national governing body that any changes would be for the better.

Perhaps the solution to the present clogged, overworked state of legislative procedures is a true bicameral system. Perhaps. Let the discussion proceed for a little while longer.

One of the wackier proposals along these lines, however, came from Peter Newman, editor of Maclean's magazine. The coming federal election will probably produce a minority Liberal or Tory government, he predicts, and such cannot possibly deal with the challenge of separatism in Quebec.

The solution is a "national government" such as Canada had during the First World War and governed Great Britain during the second; it would be composed of representatives of all parties. Perhaps people who wish to save Canada could volunteer to form this national government, he suggested.

A mite premature and just a little hysterical, we suggest. Coming from the editor of a publication which is dramatizing the heck out of the Canada-Quebec crisis — one week disclosing Rene Levesque's "final solution" plans on culture, the next deifying Prime Minister Trudeau — this latest is jumping the gun somewhat.

There's still a little life and flexibility in the old British parliamentary system. It's coped before with massive government majorities and teetering minority parliaments too. The country won't crumble away overnight if the Liberals (or the Conservatives) don't win a smashing 200 seats this year.

Leave Royal Oak Buried

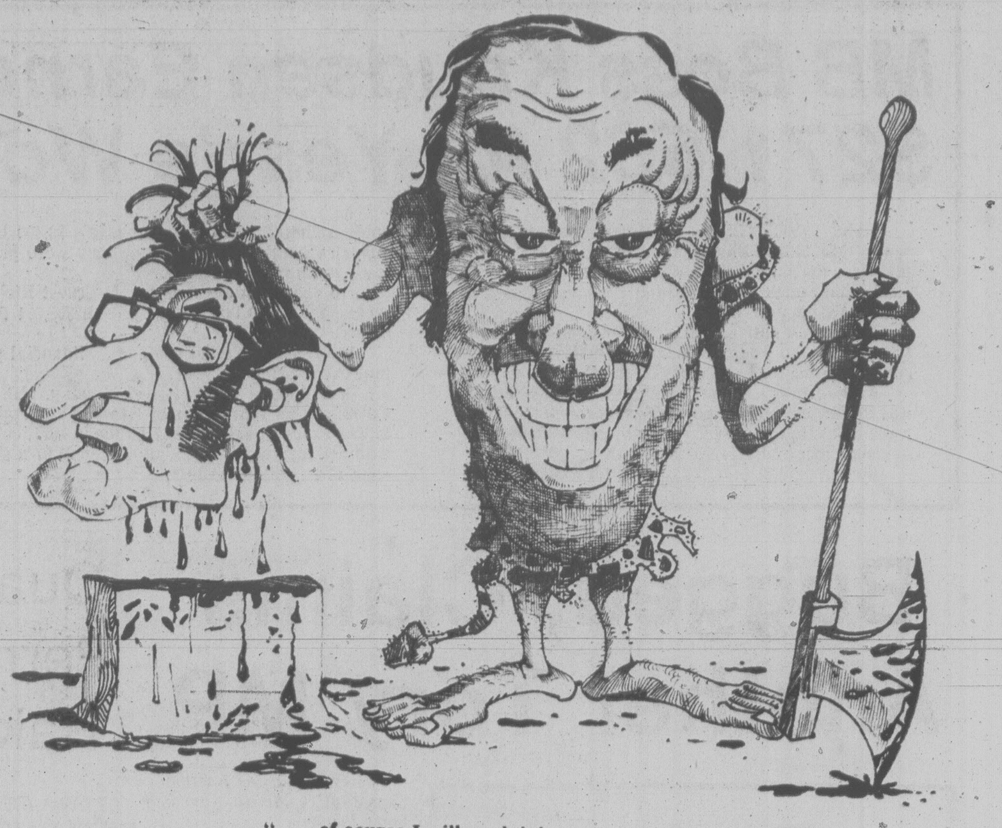
Former Saanich mayor Ed Lum and current Ald. Geoffrey Vantreight probably think they are doing the residents of Greater Victoria in general and Saanich in particular a favor by resurrecting the recently-buried issue of the Royal Oak industrial park.

Vantreight began the new round of speculation when he suggested that other pro-industrial park candidates might run in the fall Saanich elections so the park could yet get the go-ahead. The new candidates he suggested were Lum and former alderman Joe Bourque, and although Bourque denied any such intentions, Lum rose immediately to the bait.

The problem with all this politicking is that it is not helping the cause of economic development in Greater Victoria.

The suggestion that Royal Oak may still go ahead can do nothing but detract from efforts of Mayor Mel Couvelier and others to find an alternative site for industrial development. Since the Royal Oak issue cannot possibly be brought back to council before next December (when a new council is in place), the comments of Vantreight and Lum could succeed in delaying the search for a park site at least eight months.

The two would do the area economy more good by co-operating in the search for a better site for the industrial park.



"... of course I will explain! ..."

Jobless Crisis

Most people today are aware of the fact that unemployment in Canada today is a serious problem. However, I feel that we can never hear enough about the facts and figures. They show that the problem has reached crisis proportions. It is not a problem that we want people to forget about. It is not just a hot news item, it is a national disgrace and an economic disaster.

There are over a million people unemployed in Canada today, 115,000 of them in British Columbia and more than 12,000 of them in Victoria. Close to nine per cent of the work force is unemployed. Reflecting the severity of the problem here in Victoria, the unemployment insurance qualification period is just 10 weeks — the minimum. Victoria has the dubious distinction of being the only city west of the maritimes suffering from such high levels of unemployment. In Alberts, where there is "only" five per cent unemployed, there are still only 19 jobs for every 100 unemployed. The national average is four vacancies for every 100 unemployed.

Yes, we have all heard these figures before but I think it is necessary to remind people daily of the severity of the problem. It will take a massive public outcry to move those responsible to do something about the problem.

Look around Victoria. Construction workers have a 40 per cent unemployment rate. The provincial government, while insisting that it is not responsible for the problem, is moving jobs out of the city and making cutbacks in the civil service. The school board is threatening to close schools, a move that would eliminate 50 or more jobs. The St. Michelle winery will be closing down at the end of April and 75 jobs will disappear from Victoria. How many jobs have disappeared from the tourist industry which has been suffering from a ferry-rate-induced slump? Bankruptcies have increased more than 300 per cent in the last two years, a lot of jobs must have been lost because of it. The future looks no better.

Public consciousness must be raised and the crisis of unemployment must be dealt with. The first major attack on the problem is coming from the B.C. Federation of Labor. Their Citizen's Lobby For Jobs campaign will culminate in a demonstration to be held on Thursday. If enough people come to the demonstration, if they make enough noise there might be some response from this government that has contributed so much to the problem. I urge all those that can to get out and support the demonstration. It means a lot to the unemployed. — John Luton, 727 Wilson Street.

Unique Election?

At least the Oak Bay byelection was unique in that it fielded a candidate of the Socialist Party of Canada who captured 54 votes. Amazing!

Fifty-four people who believe in production for use instead of profit, a society without classes, and accepted this to be practical, as a case against capitalism. And what a case can be made!

Ever recurring crises, wars, depressions, chronic unemployment, pollution, inflation, etc. etc. An ever increasing multitude of problems which defy solution within the capitalist framework.

What a pity, not one reporter or columnist in Victoria or Vancouver could handle this.

Hydro Herbicides

I wish to draw your attention to a situation in which we are not only polluting our environment but contributing to the problem of unemployment simply to save a few dollars. A recent interview on CBC with the vegetation control officer of B.C. Hydro indicates that B.C. Hydro has a very active program of vegetation control using herbicides in its power line rights of way. Granted, it was stated that Hydro adheres to the regulations governing the use of sprays, but I feel that no matter how strict the regulations, spraying contributes to some extent to the pollution problem.

The only reason which B.C. Hydro gave for using herbicides rather than relying on simple hand slashing was that when herbicides are used the brush has to be slashed only every seven years instead of every three if herbicides are not used. I won't even go into the suggestion which was made that herbicides have recently been implicated in birth defects because this was not substantiated in the interview. In addition, I think it is noteworthy that by using 2,4-D, B.C. Hydro appears to be cutting its manhours of employment for slashing crews in half. I don't think that this is a wise way to try to save money at a time when there are thousands of young men and women seeking work. — John Mayba, Victoria.

Overweight?

Mother Cecilia

Let us look after our animals with such love and care that people will say: "British Columbia loves animals."

—Mother Cecilia Mary
Good Shepherd Animal Foundation.

What a beautiful dream has Mother Cecilia, and how sad that it seems so intangible in light of the treatment animals are given in this province. I believe that the greatest abuse animals suffer is at the hands of owners who obtain their "pet" with no foresight as to the amount of attention the animal will be given. Once the animals are no longer puppies or kittens they seem to lose their attractiveness in the eyes of their owners and are sentenced to an existence of backyard living (or to a non-existence with a one-way ticket to the SPCA).

Indeed, Mother Cecilia deserves all the support we have to offer. Man is steward of his natural resources and we must uphold this responsibility by maintaining life and not destroying it. Mother Cecilia exemplifies this responsibility to maintain life — let's not continue to turn away from our responsibility. — Lee E. Jones, 2128 Foul Bay Road.

Disgusting Pictures

I have nothing against the article on the seal hunt in Weekend magazine (March 11 issue) which was informative, but I think most Canadians are skeptical about the accuracy and honesty of som) of them. However, the illustrations were something else. They were disgusting, repulsive and offensive. I am amazed the magazine would stoop to use them in order to play on people's emotions.

I think it was an all-time low in journalism and find it hard to believe Weekend would take such a strong stand on a very controversial issue without some special reason. Could it be that the Greenpeace Foundation paid plenty to have them published? — S. H. Ramm, 403-443 Superior Street.

Tories Saner

All Socreds who are ashamed of their party's lack of principles and performance may well take a hint from the Oak Bay election.

If they must stick to "free enterprise" politics, now is the time to switch to the much saner Conservative group.

Oak Bay is an omen of the imminent disintegration of a party that never was Social Credit but merely an alliance of the bigoted and paranoiac right wing evangelists.

At least a real Conservative would never be lunatic enough to consider Phil Gaglardi for national leader! Let's write "finis" to the biggest hoax B.C. has ever labored under! — P. Simpson, 2536 Forbes Street.

A Couple Getting Ahead in the World

I really did carry my bride over the threshold of our first home — but only after we had walked up three flights of stairs, each flight narrower and steeper than the one before. Inside the door I set her on her feet and kissed her soundly, then stepped back to make a suitable speech.

"Damn!" I said instead, rubbing the back of my head. It was that kind of apartment, a garret under the eaves. In the months that followed I developed a wary crouch. To hurry was to court collision with those overhanging rafters.

Not A Qualm

The kitchen was so small that two of us could hardly get into it at the same time. But the window opened onto a wooden platform, the beginning of an external staircase intended as a fire escape. On sunny days it was a good place to sit, gazing over the rooftops at English Bay and the mountains of the North Shore.

We were serenely happy there, with not a qualm for the future. Why not? The first home of my wife's parents after their marriage was a tent beside a lake in the Okanagan. My parents survived undaunted a succession of draughty, ill-heated rectories in various rough parts of British Columbia.

We learned to budget my $20-a-week salary, though sometimes just before payday we went through some strange exercises in frugality. But on the last day of the month I never failed to knock at our landlady's door and hand over $25, painfully saved.

Sometimes I had to knock twice before there were stirrings within her ground floor suite, followed by a rattling as she unchained the door. She was a large lady, by name Annie Victoria Todd, and she always greeted me with a Biblical text, usually: "To every thing there is a season and a time to every purpose under heaven."

That was Mrs. Todd's way of saying: "Good. The rent is due today and you are paying it."

Sometimes her ample form was swathed in a loose garment with a lace collar which she called her wrapper. It covered her from chin to toe. "Don't be shy, Mr. Underhill," she would exclaim. "You'll see far worse displays than mine on the beaches."

When I presented the money she turned her back on me and bent over to fuss with her clothing in front. This, she confided one day to my wife, was to secrete the cash in a large pocket stitched to her underskirt.

"Every woman should have one, dear," she said.

One morning my wife had something to tell me. A blush, a whisper, as if she were confessing. She was . . . uh . . . with child. I nearly went through Mrs. Todd's shingles like a rocket.

Sober thoughts followed. Dr. Trites, who confirmed her self-diagnosis, charged $100, including postnatal care. From young people like us he would accept $10 a month until his bill was settled.

Mental arithmetic. If we just squeaked by on $20 a week in our present circumstances, how could we finance Dr. Trites and the baby? The answer was to find a place at lower rent, not too difficult in Vancouver in the 1930s. We prepared to move into basement rooms, unfurnished, renting at $15 a month.

"You really have to go?" Annie Victoria Todd asked when I told her. She looked sad. "I could perhaps . . . would it help if I cut the rent to $22.50?"

"I'm afraid not."

"I see. Well . . ." I thought I was going to get a text but she closed the door without another word.

The basement rooms were awful. The floors were laid upon the dank earth and our only means of heating was a wood range. Our furniture was provided by my widowed mother, who had many strange and battered articles in storage. I instantly recognized the iron bedsteads. My brother and I had slept in them throughout our boyhood.

I knew that our move was a blunder even before my mother-in-law began telling horror tales of expectant mothers who had seen spiders or, worse still, been crawled upon by spiders. Their babies arrived with ghastly birthmarks.

"Gwen tells me she woke the other night with a spider creeping on her cheek," she said. Her candid eyes regarded me accusingly, as if I had placed the spider there myself.

I began looking for other, spiderless quarters.

Mr. Gough was a gruff, good man who had built a row of neat duplex houses on Pine Street just south of Broadway. One of them was vacant clean, bright and cheerful, with two bedrooms, a living room and a large kitchen. There was only one catch. The rent was $27.50 a month.

There are times when one should not count the cost. "We'll take it," I told Mr. Gough. Such a look of joy and relief my wife gave me! For a look like that I would have robbed a bank.

But what were the alternatives? A daring idea burgeoned in my mind. Why not ask for a raise? At least it was an original approach. Each night as I walked home I rehearsed the conversation that I would have with my boss. (My duties as a radio news writer occupied me from 4 p.m. to 2 a.m.)

Finally I had it down pat. Confident in the knowledge of what I was going to say, I went to the office half an hour early. Have you ever been tripped up? I was that day. In my typewriter was a note from the boss saying: "Please see me."

My confidence evaporated. The note could mean only one thing. I was in trouble. Maybe I was going to be fired. Assuming a bored expression, I strolled into the boss's office.

He was a man with mild blue eyes and a wispy moustache, fierce only in the pursuit of news. He wrote a news story as deftly as a surgeon cuts and sews but in general conversation he tended to be vague and evasive.

"How's Gwen? I remember when Alice was pregnant . . ." There followed a long story about his wife's morning sickness, her sudden cravings for strange dishes. Then, almost apologetically, he said:

"I've been in touch with head office. They realize that, um, well, you're going to have new domestic, er, responsibilities, so . . ." He inhaled a deep breath . . . "beginning this week there'll be another $5 in your pay cheque."

With difficulty I restrained myself from bolting out the door and running all the way home to tell Gwen.

Should Have Asked

We were snugly installed in our Pine Street home when Carol was born. We never thought of asking Mrs. Todd to the baptism in St. Helen's church where we had been married. We should have.

She would have turned up in her navy blue silk outfit, with the skirt just showing her swollen ankles, and the coat coming somewhere around her knees, and a hat of dark, shiny straw.

Since she was not an Anglican — she once told me she liked her religion "without frills" — she might have disapproved of the minister's robes. But I think she would have been won when she heard him declare that that wailing little scrap would manfully fight under Christ's banner against sin, the world, and the devil, and continue Christ's faithful soldier and servant until her life's end.

Mrs. Todd appreciated talk like that. To her amen she might even have added: "To every thing there is a season and a time to every purpose under heaven."

Rhino on the Run

By DAVID MARTIN

LUSAKA — The rhinoceros, which has survived for 70 million years in various forms despite the depredations of man and nature, is now in very serious danger of being wiped out in parts of Africa.

Like the price of ivory the value of rhino horn has dramatically increased in recent years. Today it is worth about $170 a kilo (2.2 pounds), more than five times the 1975 price.

The main markets are the Far East in particular, where the rhino horn is erroneously believed to contain aphrodisiac properties, and, more recently, in the Middle East where they are said to be in demand as ornate carved handles for daggers.

Unless urgent action is taken, the price boom could herald the death knell of the rhino. In 1968 Dr. John Goddard put the number of rhino in Kenya's Tsavo National Park at 6,000. The approximate total for the whole of Kenya was then estimated to be 11,000.

A similar survey of Tsavo in 1976 put the population at 2,500 and estimated the total number in Kenya at 4,500, a decrease of 60 per cent in only eight years. A census last year suggested that the total may now be as low as 1,800, though this figure may not be as accurate as earlier ones.

The statistics show that, contrary to the fashionable belief, professional hunters accounted for very few of the killings. In Kenya in 1972, for instance, only nine rhinos were shot on licence, although the record horn weight exported that year was equivalent to 3,000 rhinos.

In Kenya's Meru National Park, Somali poachers are blamed for effectively destroying the country's only public white rhino herd. The hand-reared rhino, imported from South Africa in 1964 at great cost, were virtually tame.

Poachers drove the docile, short-sighted animals across the park boundary and shot the herd's only two breeding bulls and a pregnant female. The poachers are thought to have received more than $200 for each horn in Nairobi and the five females in the herd have been left without a mate.

(Last week a private study released in the U.S. claimed that 100 million wild birds are trapped each year around the world to satisfy the growing craze for exotic household pets. As a result, several of the most popular and costly species are being pushed toward extinction. These two stories from the London Observer describe the threat to wildlife on two other fronts )

Somali poachers are believed responsible for much of the decimation of elephants and rhino in East Africa. Last summer Somali poachers ambushed and killed Ken Clarke, head of an anti-poaching unit in Kenya, when he was on patrol trying to protect rhino.

Not all of the rhino horns exported through Kenya originate in that country. In Uganda, since President Idi Amin came to power, the decline of the elephant population in parts of the country has been described as "catastrophic." It is assumed that the rhinos in Uganda are suffering a similar fate.

Somali poachers have been found as far south in Tanzania as the Ruaha National Park, some 400 miles from the Kenyan border. Today the game ranger, who normally patrols on foot, is ill-equipped to deal with the modern poacher with four-wheel drive vehicles and high velocity rifles. On one occasion, Tanzanian officials say, a helicopter from Kenya flew 200 kilometers into Tanzania to pick up game trophies from a poachers' camp.

The decision by Kenya last December to order some 400 shops to stop selling wildlife curios to tourists is not much help to the rhino, although it will help other species like elephants, zebra and the cats. Rhino trophies are rarely sold in tourist shops.

What is needed to help the rhinos in east Africa is more effective anti-poaching patrols and greater control at customs points to stop illegally acquired horns being "legalized" through customs export certificates obtained through bribes.

Loggers Decimate Rare N.Z. Birds

By ROBIN BROMBY

DUNEDIN, New Zealand — While the fight to save the endangered animals of Africa has claimed the world's attention, an equally dramatic ecological battle is taking place in New Zealand.

Thirty-two species of birds, more than 10 per cent of the world's total of endangered birds, are now facing extinction — more than in the entire North American continent. One of the species, the Chatham Island black robin, has been reduced to a population of 10 birds.

Controversy has been raging in recent months over another rare bird, the kokako. A small population lives in a remnant of native forest in the centre of the North Island, where native totara trees provide their habitat.

The New Zealand Forest Service has begun logging the trees and conservationists claim the bird could be wiped out. Protesters have entered the forest and taken to living in the trees, where neither foresters nor police could find them.

Since man arrived in New Zealand 1,000 years ago, 45 full species of birds have become extinct, one of the worst records in the world. The Maori people killed off the moa, a giant flightless bird, for its flesh and feathers.

The Europeans hastened the process in the 19th and 20th centuries as vast areas of forest were felled and burned to clear the land for farms. Then, as the forest industry grew, it was found that North American pine trees grew far more rapidly than any native variety. Since the turn of the century great areas of native forest were felled and replaced by the pine, drastically reducing the habitat of the native birds.

A belated effort is being made by the Wildlife Service to save the endangered birds, but it faces a powerful opponent in the Forest Service. It also happens that the minister of forests is the same person as the minster for the environment, and so far the forestry portfolio has won the battle.

Another bird in danger is the kakapo, a large, virtually flightless parrot. Its numbers have been reduced to a handful, though it was once to be found in forests throughout the country.

The Wildlife Service has now located 41 of the kakapo, some on an offshore island, the others in a remote valley in the South Island. There is one problem — all the birds are male, and efforts to find a female have so far proved fruitless. The wildlife men believe there is still every hope of finding a female, if only on the law of averages.

The Chatham Island robin was found on a small island hundreds of miles off the coast of the mainland and, without the intervention of the Wildlife Service, this species would have become extinct within a short time.

The surviving seven birds were in danger from rats, so they were captured and transferred to another small island free from predators. The World Wildlife Fund provided money to plant 36,000 native trees for the birds to live in. So far, three chicks have been hatched and the robin does have a chance of survival.

Blue Jeans and Crosses Mark Young Soviet Rebels

By MARK GAYN
Toronto Star

Yakutsk, in Northern Siberia, is about as far as you can get from the familiar comforts of Moscow. The living is lean and rugged, the work is hard, the opportunities for diversion are few.

But even this chilled world has its problems with alien ideas — and fashions.

The discovery was made by N. Samsonov, associate professor of Yakutsk University. Too many young people, he reported in dismay, wear jeans and wear crosses as ornaments. One young man he remembered especially had long, uncombed hair, patched-up jeans with a frayed hem, a lage copper belt buckle, and, on his chest, a palm-sized medallion with a cross on it.

When the professor remonstrated, the youth said, "I'm an atheist. This is just a pretty thing. Does it bother you?"

Next, Samsonov ran into a salesgirl, working under a sign that said: "Our sales people belong to a Communist youth brigade." She, too, was wearing a large cross. She defended the ornament. "This is fashionable. Many in this country and abroad wear them."

The third cross-wearer he tackled was a young woman at the university. When he reproached her, she simply hid the cross in her blouse. But Samsonov read the riot act to her: "For the young people of our time, religious beliefs and symbols are an anachronism. This is why crosses on the chests of 16-year-olds look so absurd.

"And, besides, the young people think that a cross is a trifle. It's anything but that. Hideous crimes have been committed under the cross. Remember the crusades of the Middle Ages or the crosses on the Fascist tanks and planes."

Samsonov included the jeans in his lecture to the young deviants: "I don't deny that they are good for physical work, or while travelling, or at leisure. But they must not be transformed into a universal dress, to be worn while visiting, or at a theatre, or in a restaurant.

"Besides, the jeans, like all other clothes, must be clean and undamaged. Neatness and cleanliness are the first commandment for any person. A young woman in a pretty dress, a young man in a well-pressed suit always look noble. One can admire them.

"There are many of these people in our city — people dressed in clothes of good taste, neat young men and women. And, among them, like yellow-blue crows, the 'fashionable hippies,' with a tape-recorder turned on full blast, with a blase smile — and a cross on the neck."

* * *

Abroad, Samsonov said, he has seen a "certain number of young men and women in worn-out, patched-up torn jeans. These are the well-known hippies, creatures of capitalism who, with their torn and dirty clothes, with their whole way of life, protest against the wealth and luxury of the capitalist world. But why does our youth need such a 'fashion?' " Samsonov demanded to know why the Soviet youth mindlessly adopted everything that was fashionable in the West: "Take my word for it, the people in the West admire our Soviet fashion, seek out Soviet goods, love our art and literature, learn to sing our Soviet songs. Why, then, do we need crosses and patched-up jeans?"

The reason I quote Samsonov at such length is that he speaks for the Soviet Establishment, for the brass in the Komsomol (Communist Youth) organization, who have become the bourgeoisie of the revolution, and who would seemingly want every young man to look as bold in his dress as William Lyon Mackenzie King or Calvin Coolidge.

But the young are rebelling against conformity. Along with medallions, bright scarves, or good-looking high boots, jeans are a protest against the dreary stuff turned out by Clothing Factory No. 24, a strike for individuality.

"You must understand," a professor told me, "that our youth is divided into three groups. First, the joiners, the clever and ambitious young men and women who join the Komsomol and the party, voice the right slogans, wear correct clothes — and steadily rise up the ladder."

Next, and by far the smallest group, are the "escapists." They will take any job, no matter how lowly, that would help them to avoid political involvement and responsibility.

The third, and the largest group, is what the professor called "the mass."

These millions of young people are uninterested in politics to the point of apathy, and interested only in material things.

They avoid political seminars, skip the holiday parades if they can, and merely strive to be left alone. It is this last group that will buy jeans, wear crosses, imitate a hair-do seen in a tattered French or Italian fashion magazine.

Samsonov, the poor keeper of fashions in Yakutsk, may feel he is fighting the good fight for propriety and neckties. To the young, he is merely a stodgy type, with no awareness of what it is that delights the Soviet youth.

A Festival of Mud

By PAUL ST. PIERRE
The Sun

THE CHILCOTIN — Spring used to come in three stages here. In February, people painted their licence plates. Then the geese and swans came clamoring north. Finally the highways department put load restrictions on the highways, officially proclaiming that vilest of all annual festivals, the spring breakup.

Nobody has to paint licence plates any more since we standardized the colors year after year, but the other two signs remain.

First, about a week ago, a band of whistling swans was seen sitting on the ice of the little lake in Dog English Gulch. Then came Sunday, and the highways department ordered the heavy trucks off the roads.

* * *

Why?

Because it is spring breakup, that's why. Anybody who lives off the blacktop, which is just about everybody in the Chilcotin Country, knows that this is a rank and evil time of year, the most hideous of all Canadian annual festivals, and spring and new grass and bluebirds all be damned.

The name of it all is mud. Not little flecks and puddles and patches of mud. No. It is one vast rolling plain of pure mud with, here and there and far apart, just the occasional dry oasis amid the slum, such as a ranch house kitchen or, mayhap, the roof of a 10-ton truck which hasn't yet sunk all the way out of sight in a bog hole.

It is a strange, ferocious mud, such as only country such as this can produce. It is, in fact, the very flesh that clothes the bones of the mountain country.

This country, for reasons which must have been bad ones, is constructed of gumbo, goo, Cariboo slum, loon manure, alkali and some heavy stuff that seems to be a combination of moose droppings, garden compost and prune-whip.

In some seasons, this is not bad material for country-building.

In fall and winter it is frozen and useable. You can walk on it, trot a horse on it, drive a car on it and pick up handy-sized pieces of it to throw at the crows.

In summer, all turns to dust and half of it blows away and lands on Moose Jaw. The dust gets in your hat, your socks and your teeth and some people complain. However dust is tolerable stuff. The late Rene Hance, a provincial court judge at Williams Lake who spent most of his life in Chilcotin, always claimed that he was almost a fully-grown man before he discovered that there was anything else to eat. Rene exaggerated sometimes, but not much.

The time the country goes all to hell is now, breakup. The frost in the ground melts, the rain falls on it and you get mud. You know then that this is not the land that God forgot. He remembers it well. He hates it.

For what are laughingly called the roads here, the highways department imposes load limits on truckers. The hope is that if this vast pot of gruel be left undisturbed it will congeal in tolerable shape when the country dries up. The country has to dry up sometime. At least, it always has so far.

* * *

Of all muds, there is no mud quite so muddy as the gumbo, queen of all wretchedness. Gumbo not only sticks to cars and people, it also sticks to gumbo.

Any driver so unwise as to stop his car in a gumbo patch — and all do, because a gumbo patch looks like any other patch to the careless eye — will have his understanding of the basic nature of life vastly enriched when he spins his wheels there. After a time he will inspect his rear wheels and find that they have grown to occupy the entire wheel housing and that the whole mass is churning in happy futility there and will continue to do so until the dry season cometh.

Foolish optimists in such a situation will try pushing, rocking, scraping and packing jackpine boughs. Those who know that man was put on earth to suffer will leave their vehicle where fate has flung her and walk to the nearest ranch.

The mud will attach itself to this traveller's boots, his pants and, by a process not understood, to his hair, which will remain uncombable for a week or more.

At the ranch, where the wife is discussing divorce, as she does each spring, the yard is a truly piteous sight. For much of a summer, she has coaxed grass back into that yard. As breakup has progressed, each visitor ranges farther from the original driveway, hoping to find dry footing on her grass, and each has left ruts deep enough to trap small children and drown dogs which don't swim very well.

* * *

As in Japan, but for different reasons, boots are never worn past the threshold. The mud finds its way indoors anyway.

This mud dries slowly, having the apparent ability to draw moisture from the atmosphere. If accidentally covered with a cloth or piece of newspaper and not subject to any heat as violent as a blowtorch, mud will remain plastic for several months and a patch discovered in some closet in September may still be soft enough to be used for window putty.

When it does dry, the mud has a hardness factor on the Mohs Scale midway between quartz and topaz. It will throw sparks if struck with a hammer or a pick and, if it should solidify in matchstick shape, will serve quite satisfactorily for shingle nails.

There are no known means of removing this mud from car upholstery, from clothing or from anything else that is valuable or that you like. When it attaches to the skin it comes away usually only after a quite long and active life.

There are, of course, good things to be said about the mud of Chilcotin, but nobody has thought of any yet. Or, if he has, he has refrained from talking about it because that would only irritate people.

SCs, NDP Scolded by Shelford For Failing to Deliver on Jobs

SHELFORD
. . . 'we've failed'

British Columbia's Social Credit government and the New Democratic Party opposition were accused Tuesday of lacking courage in the creation of jobs.

Cyril Shelford (SC-Skeena), minister of agriculture during the W.A.C. Bennett Social Credit administration, said the same people who protest unemployment also protest development.

"Society itself creates unemployment by its excessive demands," Shelford told the legislature. "It's all very well to come around chanting 'we want jobs,' but let's ask ourselves how many jobs we have prevented coming in.

"We can't demand a complete end to development and at the same time demand that government create jobs."

He said governments are afraid to make unpopular decisions "and that applies to the government I serve as well as others."

"Everybody else is in favor of protecting the environment, but we must use balanced judgment and reason."

Shelford told the NDP that "like your government, we have failed to do all we could, all we can."

The first, presented by Rosemary Brown (NDP—Vancouver-Burrard), was in the form of an amendment to the throne speech which expressed regret that the government failed "to outline any measures to alleviate the impact of the serious downturn on the economy on women in this province."

Brown accused the government of discriminating against women and of creating civil service ghettos for them.

She said that because the government has advocated that unemployment insurance payments be reduced for secondary wage earners, it is in effect discriminating against women, who form the majority of workers in that category.

Brown said that because the government says civil service salaries should be lower than those in the private sector, and because women form a majority of those in the civil service, the government has created a civil service ghetto.

Premier Bill Bennett said in an interview later that he didn't consider the non-confidence motion important enough to reply to in the government's defence, terming Brown's remarks nonsense. He denied his government is promoting sexist policies.

Pat Jordan (SC-North Okanagan) told the house Brown's comments could damage the women's movement because there's a great danger in exaggeration which could provoke a backlash.

Labor Minister Allan Williams, in opposing the motion which was finally defeated 30 to 17, said unemployment increased from 108,000, one month after the government took power, to 109,000 in February of this year while the number of employed increased by 89,000 to 1,062,000.

"In the first month we became government there were 358,000 women employed in the province and in February of 1978 there were 405,000 women employed, an increase of 47,000 employed now as compared with the first month we became government."

Williams said that at the end of the NDP term in 1975, there were 23,000 fewer women with jobs than when that party took power.

He said the government recognized that one reason women cannot achieve higher-paying positions is because the training has not been made available to them.

"We will make greater opportunities for skilled training for women available and they will take their place commanding higher-paying jobs in this province."

"We're talking about the obligation of the current government to provide jobs and to provide opportunities for women in the province. It's not good enough to come on with the kind of diatribe the minister has and shrug off responsibility and talk about what happened even under the NDP administration."

"When there is a surplus of workers in the province and when there is a stagnant economy created by Social Credit, then it's criminal, it's vicious for women to try to find jobs that they need to sustain their families," the NDP house leader added.

MLA Recall Urged

Liberal leader Gordon Gibson told the legislature Tuesday the government should set up an initiative or a referendum process which would provide the taxpayers with direct means of control over their legislators.

Speaking in the throne speech debate, Gibson said he would also support a recall procedure on a constituency-by-constituency basis.

He said if the province had had an initiative process there would have been a legislature question period long before 1972.

The Liberal leader also said the controversial Mineral Royalties Act, approved during the former NDP administration, would not have become law if a referendum process had been available to combat it.

The recall process would allow voters in each constituency to dismiss their MLA from office between elections if they were dissatisfied.

The North Vancouver-Capilano MLA called for legislative reform to give the legislature more power — and suggested a greater separation of the executive branch from the legislative branch.

"Ways have to be found to increase the relevance of this chamber," he said, noting that all laws and budgets are prepared by the cabinet, and easily approved by the government majority in the legislature.

He proposed that the legislature be elected for a set term, such as four years.

Kitwancool TV Subsidy

The northern British Columbia community of Kitwancool has been given a grant of $93,000 by the provincial and federal governments to build radio and television rebroadcast facilities, the governments said Tuesday.

The grant to the Kitwancool Television Society will enable the Skeena district community to receive CBC programs.

Searchers Tuesday found more debris from the wrecked United States fishboat Nancy L but there is still no sign of the vessel's three-man crew.

Three aircraft and two Canadian Coast Guard cutters are continuing the search in the area around Calvert Island where flotsam from the wreck was found last weekend.

The Nancy L left Anacortes, Wash., for Craig, Alaska, on March 23 and was reported overdue March 28. Aboard were Albert Freshour, 68, and Bob Castleberry, both of Colorado, and Clarence Freshour, 40, of Craig.

PC Urges Tax Cut in Maiden Speech

Vic Stephens, B.C.'s newest MLA, rose in the legislature Tuesday amidst thundering desk thumping to make his maiden speech.

The Oak Bay MLA, sole member and leader of the provincial Conservative Party, found himself more in agreement than disagreement with the Social Credit government position as outlined in last week's speech from the throne.

But Stephens said he was disappointed the throne speech contained no indications of tax relief — especially sales tax.

In return, Stephens promised he wouldn't "try and get in the Guinness Book of Records by occupying 10 per cent of Hansard."

Stephen's serious tribute to Wallace, however, was met with another protracted round of desk thumping from the members.

In calling for a reduction of taxes — an oft-repeated campaign promise leading up to his March 20 victory — Stephens said he wasn't alone.

The Economic Council of Canada, the Bank of B.C. and the provincial Chambers of Commerce had all expressed the same solution for stimulating the economy, he told the house.

He called the Social Credit pledge to make another $20 million available for low-interest loans to business through the B.C. Development Corp. a wasteful laundering of tax money.

Rather than tax businesses and running up administrative costs before loaning it back to them with interest, he said it is far better to reduce taxes and leave the money at the source.

New Speaker Quits Ombudsman Hearing

Newly-appointed Speaker of the legislature Harvey Schroeder Tuesday resigned from the committee to find an ombudsman although that committee doesn't technically exist at the moment.

Prior to his appointment as Speaker on Wednesday, Schroeder was deputy speaker and chairman of the ombudsman committee.

But at an unofficial meeting of a sub-committee of the committee, Schroeder told the other members he felt it would be better if he left.

One of the committee members Howard Lloyd, (SC—Fort George) said Schroeder told them he didn't want to ruin the chance of jeopardizing the position of ombudsman in the future although Lloyd said the other members felt there wouldn't be any problem if he stayed.

The committee, which is charged with selecting B.C.'s first ombudsman, dissolved when the legislature prorogued Wednesday.

Attorney-General Garde Gardom said Tuesday the committee will be reappointed probably within the next few days.

Last week NDP House leader Bill King (Revelstoke-Slocan) accused the government of bungling in allowing that committee and the standing committee studying agriculture to die.

King said all their books, evidence, transcripts and records died with the committee.

But Gardom said that is poppycock. As soon as the committees are reappointed, they will carry on where they left off.

Meanwhile, the agriculture committee headed by Len Bawtree (SC—Shuswap), which has been holding hearings on food prices, is expected to table its report in the legislature any day.

At the Bank of British Columbia, we can guarantee a high return on one to five year investments of $1,000 or more, with Inflation Fighter Certificates.

And we can help you fight inflation.

Because when the cost of living goes up, our unique inflation fighter adjustment automatically adds to your interest.

The rate of interest at the time of your investment is guaranteed for the full term of your certificate. Interest is paid semi-annually on June 30th and December 31st. Or, if you prefer, your interest may be deferred until your certificate matures.

And on deposits of $5,000 or more, you can choose to receive your interest monthly.

Then, on your certificate's anniversary, the interest you received in the preceding year will be increased by the percentage increase in the Consumer Price Index.

So when inflation hits, don't roll with the punch.

Cries Broke Quiet Night

VANCOUVER (CP) — A fisherman told a British Columbia Supreme Court jury Tuesday how a quiet evening beside the Fraser River was shattered by the sound of gunfire and a woman crying "I don't want to die; I want to live."

Allan Shepherd told the trial of Walter Murray Madsen, 24, that the woman sounded as if she was pleading for her life.

Madsen has pleaded not guilty to the July 18 slayings of Evert Den Hertog, 19, his brother Jan, 16, Bert Menger, 19, and Leola Guliker, 16. The body of the girl has never been recovered.

Shepherd told prosecutor Jack Gibson that he was leaving the area when Eddie Menger, the brother of one of the victims, ran up to his car.

Shepherd said Menger told him "someone is shooting and killing my friends."

In earlier testimony, Ed Menger told how he and his four friends were attacked as they sat sipping beer beside the river.

"All of a sudden I heard a shot," he said, "and I turned my head. I saw the gunman and I ran to my right along the river bank."

Menger said he scrambled up onto the roadway and looked back, but was unable to see the gunman. He said he then heard Evert Den Hertog shout "please don't shoot" and heard Leola Guliker scream.

Menger said he thought he heard a total of six to seven shots fired within a very short period of time. He said he ran along the roadway and then Shepherd drove him to a farmhouse where he called police.

Asked if he could see the gunman in the room, Menger pointed at Madsen and said: "Yes. That man there."

But cross-examined by defence lawyer Gerry Young, Menger agreed that he was not positive that Madsen was the gunman.

Madsen also was identified by a service station operator from Aldergrove, near the scene of the shooting, who said he serviced a truck matching the description of the one that had been driven to the scene by the teen-agers and driven away after the shootings.

The operator pointed at Madsen when asked to identify the man who drove the truck to the station about 11 p.m. the night of the shooting.

Sales Tax Cut Sought For Alberta Visitors

VANCOUVER (CP) — Alberta residents visiting Dawson Creek will not have to pay British Columbia's seven-per-cent sales tax if the town's mayor has his way.

Arnold Dahlen, mayor of the northeastern B.C. community, said in a telephone interview Monday that he plans to ask the provincial government to give him the authority to allow Albertans to buy goods in his town without the tax.

Dahlen said that in this way he hopes to fight the increasing trend of British Columbians from his area travelling to Alberta to buy goods free of sales tax, including liquor and gasoline.

He said his proposal is one way of dealing with "the fact that Alberta, with no provincial sales tax, automatically offers seven per cent off everything sold."

The authority he seeks was once enjoyed but was rescinded in the late 1960s.

Alberta last weekend removed a 10-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax. Regular gas at northern Alberta border towns now sells for about 82 cents a gallon compared with $1 a gallon at Dawson Creek.

ICBC Chairman Quits MB Executive Position

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ralph Gillen, chairman of the Insurance Corp. of British Columbia and a vice-president of Macmillan Bloedel, confirmed Monday that he has resigned his duties at the forest company.

Gillen's resignation, effective March 31, gives the company six months notice. Gillen said he will remain on call to the company and receive his salary until Sept. 30.

Gillen said he and Calvert Knudsen, president of Macmillan Bloedel, "have agreed that my personal interests and career objectives and the future directions and management of Macmillan Bloedel do not tie closely enough together to warrant continuation of our relationship."

Gillen, who has been on loan to ICBC, said the decision to resign his $80,000-a-year post was made March 14 in a meeting with Knudsen.

"I have very much enjoyed my time at MB and trust that the happy personal contacts I have built up there will continue," he said.

Gillen, 49, joined Macmillan Bloedel to head the strategic planning division, a special arm of the company designed to find non-forest ventures in which the company could invest.

CAPT. COOK CHEERED BY MPS

OTTAWA (CP) — Captain James Cook, the discoverer of British Columbia, received a warm welcome from MPs when he visited the Commons Tuesday.

The explorer's modern day stand-in, wearing a blue and gold period costume, stood in the public gallery to acknowledge cheers and desk-thumping by MPs from all parties.

Liberal MP Simma Holt (Vancouver-Kingsway) called on MPs to share British Columbia's celebration of its bicentenary. Captain Cook landed in Friendly Cove 200 years ago.

The British Columbia Bicentennial steam train also arrived in Ottawa Tuesday to begin a 38-day tour of 16 cities in the United States and Canada as part of an effort by the British Columbia government to attract tourists.

Cabaret's Licence Rejected

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver city council Tuesday rejected a request by owners of the Penthouse Cabaret for reinstatement of their cabaret, restaurant and booking agency licences.

Mayor Jack Volrich said the city used its discretionary authority under the Vancouver charter in refusing to issue the licences. He declined to comment on why the applications were turned down.

The cabaret, operated by Celebrity Enterprises, can appeal the decision.

Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Rafe Mair said in Victoria that the Penthouse owners can still apply to the provincial government for a new liquor licence but they should get their problems settled with the city first.

The nightclub owners were embroiled in two court cases last year — one on charges of living off the avails of prostitution and the other of bribery — but convictions in each case were reversed by a higher court decision.

Tax Holdback Denied

VANCOUVER (CP) — Harbour Tax Services Tuesday was ordered by a British Columbia Supreme Court injunction to hand over to personal income tax payers at least 85 per cent of the tax refund it buys from them.

Justice R. P. Anderson granted the injunction to Michael Hanson, B.C. consumer protection director, after ruling last week the company violated the Consumer Protection Act by holding back 25 per cent of the expected refund until it receives it from federal tax department.

The supreme court judge was told income tax discount firms operate by buying personal income tax refunds from persons entitled to refunds but who do not want to wait until the tax department remits them the money.

The firms charge a fee of 15 per cent of the refund, and in addition hold back another 25 per cent for the weeks it takes for the companies, now the new owners of the refund, to receive it.

The consumer branch contended the holdback was illegal under the act which says the refund seller is entitled to be paid at last 85 per cent of his refund at the time he sells it. The branch said the holdback resulted in the seller being deprived of the use of 25 per cent of his refund for the period the firm holds it.

TENNIS IN THE RING?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Tennis is the game, but the Vancouver park board thinks there isn't enough love in the sets being played on the courts at Stanley Park.

Park tennis coach Al Hitchins told the board Monday that arguments over use of the courts have resulted in an increasing number of fistfights. One player, he said, was taken to hospital last fall after a raquet-swinging brawl.

As a result, the board voted Monday to begin charging, on a trial basis, for the use of tennis courts at the park.

Strongboxes for Taxis?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Yellow Cab general manager Thomas Scarr said Tuesday the company is considering use of strongboxes bolted to taxi frames following the second holdup of a company driver within a week.

Following the latest incident Tuesday, David Paul Birchard, 18, of no fixed address, was to appear in court today charged with robbery.

Meanwhile, police said they still have no leads in the death of Thomas Man Tang, 26, shot March 29 after apparently refusing to hand over $70.

Inquest Resumes

CRANBROOK (CP) — An inquest into the Feb. 11 crash of a Pacific Western Airlines jet which claimed 43 lives will resume May 8, cornoner Dr. Allan Askey said Tuesday.

The Boeing 737 crashed while attempting to land during a snowstorm at the Cranbrook airport.

Askey said the inquest could take at least a week to complete once it resumes.

Shortly after the crash, a seven-member inquest jury made a preliminary inspection of the crash sight and of the bodies so that death certificates could be issued.

Camper Gassed?

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — RCMP said carbon monoxide poisoning is suspected as the cause of death of a man whose body was found on the floor of a camper trailer at Stamp Falls Park, about 13 kilometres northwest of here.

Cattlemen Wait

VERNON (CP) — British Columbia cattle producers will have to wait until at least April 15 for their beef income farm assurance cheques.

Henry Blazowski, secretary-manager of the British Columbia Cattlemen's Association, said the cheques will arrive at least a month later than they did in 1977.

"This will undoubtedly impose an unnecessary hardship on the producer by way of interest on loans," he said. "When you consider the rate of interest these days, you know it is going to cost the ranchers quite a bit of money."

4% Pay Raise

DELTA (CP) — Delta council Monday gave final approval to a bylaw giving themselves a four-per-cent pay increase, but Alderman Bill Reid said he won't take the extra money.

"Just to put my money where my mouth is, I won't take the raise for the next two years," he told council.

No Fraud Found

SURREY (CP) — A computer check of all persons who voted in the Nov. 19 municipal election has revealed no indication that anyone voted more than once, municipal manager Dan Closkey told city council Monday.

The check was made after several defeated candidates charged that voting irregularities had allowed some voters to cast more than one ballot in the election.

Assault Alleged

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three members of the striking international Union of Operating Engineers, Local 882, have been charged with common assault following an incident March 25 at the University of British Columbia's heating plant.

RCMP said charges have been laid against Terry Derouin, 26, Henry Houston, 51, and Joseph Vizjak, 48. Derouin also was charged with wilful damage in connection with the incident.

The union has been on strike at the plant since Feb. 21 and supervisors are carrying out the work. An RCMP spokesman said charges were laid after supervisor Walter Busch, 51, told RCMP three men beat him about the head and back and broke his glasses.

Bridge Studied

PORT COQUITLAM (CP) — City council Monday agreed to set up a building committee to review proposals for the construction of a $100,000 bridge across the Coquitlam River at the Patricia Street alignment.

Alderman Mike Thompson told council that the technical information had been assembled and that only a political decision must be made for construction to proceed.

Cruelty Charged

ABBOTSFORD (CP) — Gordon Learmonth, owner of the Puppyland kennels, pleaded not guilty to a charge of cruelty to animals when he appeared in provincial court Tuesday and was remanded to Sept. 5 for trial.

Learmonth was charged following a raid March 3 when SPCA and RCMP found four dead and 14 undernourished puppies.

Sultan Dies

JAKARTA (AP) — Sultan Hamid II of Pontianak, 65, former ruler of West Borneo, now West Kalimantan, died last week from high blood pressure and a liver ailment, a family spokesman said Monday.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were generally higher in light to moderate trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange. Walker A gained ⅜ at $33⅛, Seagram ⅛ at $26, Inco A ⅛ at $18¼, F.C.A. International seven cents at $2.45 and Alcan ¼ at $28¾. Du Pont lost ¼ at $12 and Dofasco A ¼ at $24. Among speculative issues, Dynamic Mining Exploration advanced one cent to $1.40 on a volume of 13,900 shares traded.

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Continued gains in resource issues sent the Toronto stock market moderately higher in active mid-afternoon trading.

Volume of trading by 2 p.m. totalled 2.97 million shares compared with 2.07 million at the same time Tuesday.

Trading was halted about noon in shares of Prado Exploration Ltd. at the company's request pending an announcement. Earlier, shares fell 20 cents to 70 cents on the sale of 7,000 shares.

Venpower Ltd. rose 20 cents to $1.00 a share and New Providence Development Co. Ltd. fell 13 cents to 47 cents following their resumptions at the opening.

Venpower has announced it will pay a 40-cent dividend, while New Providence denied any reason for Tuesday's 20-cent-a-share climb. The company reported a six-month loss in earnings of $334,000 in Bahamian dollars compared with a $420,000 loss the previous year.

Among other industrials, Great-West Life Assurance climbed 2 to $78, Markborough Properties 1½ to $14, Westburne International 1¼ to $24½, National Drug and Chemical 1⅛ to $10¾ and British American Bank Note 1 to $30.

Bow Valley Industries fell ⅝ to $25¼, Woodward Stores A ⅛ to $18½, John Labatt A ⅛ to $21¼, Bank of Nova Scotia ⅛ to $19 and Royal Trust A ¼ to $17.

Rio Algom rose ½ to $30, Hollinger Mines A ⅜ to $31⅛ and Yellowknife Bear 27½ cents to $5.12½. United Siscoe Mines slipped ¼ to $7 and Hudson Bay Mining A ¼ to $16¼.

Ranger Oil Canada gained ⅝ to $30, Numac Oil and Gas ⅜ to $24⅞ and Skye Resources ⅜ to $9⅛. Canadian Reserve Oil and Gas was down ½ to $8⅞ and Oakwood Petroleums ¼ to $5¼.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market struggled ahead, adding a bit more to Tuesday's gains.

Gainers outpaced losers by about an 8-to-5 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading was active. NYSE volume came to 17.18 million shares at mid-afternoon.

Marine Midland Banks climbed 1⅛ to 15⅞. Late Tuesday an agreement for Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corp. to acquire control of the company was approved by Marine Midland directors.

Meighen Heads Argus Corp.

TORONTO (CP) — Maxwell C. G. Meighen of Toronto has been elected chairman of Argus Corp. in one of several corporate changes announced following the recent death of John A. McDougald.

McDougald was both chairman and president when he died March 15 at his Florida winter home.

A. Bruce Matthews, who took over as acting president after McDougald's death, was elected president and chief executive officer Tuesday while Alex E. Barron was appointed executive vice-president.

The elections were revealed in a brief statement from Argus headquarters, and ended speculation as to who would succeed McDougald, who had been one of Canada's most powerful and influential industrialists.

Meighen is also a vice-president and director of Ravelston Corp. Ltd., the holding company created by McDougald and several Argus directors to insure control of Argus does not change hands.

Revelston owns about 61 per cent of Argus voting shares.

GOLD

LONDON (AP) — Closing gold prices Tuesday in U.S. dollars an ounce: London 179.75; Paris 180.80; Frankfurt 180.91; Zurich 180.375; Hong Kong 177.85.

SILVER

TUESDAY

Closing basic price of 1,000-ounce certificates in the Victoria area, according to the Scotiabank, $5.20 U.S. bid per troy ounce and $5.25 asked. Previous day $5.28 and $5.32.

Christie Bread Sold

TORONTO (CP) — General Bakeries Ltd. of Toronto has reached an agreement in principle to buy the bread division of Christie, Brown and Co. Ltd., saving the jobs of 230 workers at Welland, Hamilton and Toronto.

Christie announced plans earlier this year to close its bread division May 6 because of poor sales and stiff competition in the industry.

Announcement of the sale was made by J. Peter Wygant, president of General Bakeries, and Lloyd Weir, president of Christie.

Earnings

J.D. Carrier Shoe Co. Ltd., three months ended Jan. 31: 1978, $48,325, 8.2 cents a share; 1977, $45,105, 7.7 cents.

Coles Book Stores Ltd., year ended Jan. 28: 1978, $2,512,000, $1.71 a share; 1977, $1,852,000, $1.26.

Gibraltar

Gibraltar Mines Ltd. has reported a net loss of $142,000 or one cent a share for the year ended Dec. 31, 1977, compared with net earnings of $943,000 or eight cents a share in the previous year.

Sales increase to $40.5 million in 1977, comparied with $26.6 million in the previous year. Ore production increased to 12.8 million metric tons in 1977, compared with 7.7 million tons in 1976.

Company president R. G. Duthie said the company experienced difficult conditions in 1977 due to the low price of copper.

Grouse Mtn.

The year ending Oct. 31, 1977, was an "unparalleled disaster" for Grouse Mountain Resorts Ltd., said president John Hoegg in the company's annual report.

Hoegg said that because of a non-existent ski season during the 1976-77 winter, the company had a pre-tax loss of $2.5 million.

To illustrate the lack of snow, the report includes a graph of Feb. 1 snow levels for the last 28 years. On that date last year, Grouse Mountain on the north shore had 11 inches of snow, well below the previous minimum of 49 inches.

The company had a net loss of $1,799,255 or 60 cents a share compared with net earnings of $109,036 or four cents a share in the previous year. Revenue from operations dropped to $3,383,557 from $4,473,265.

Hoegg said problems of the unseasonable lack of snow during the 1976-77 winter were made worse by warm weather that prohibited use of the company's snowmaking machine. The ski runs were closed in early 1977 until mid-March.

Norcen Energy

Norcen Energy Resources Ltd. said it has acquired a 10-per-cent interest in a petroleum exploration contract offshore in the Amazon River delta of Brazil.

A company spokesman said drilling is expected to begin within the next few weeks on the Petroleo Brasilieroa S.A. (Petrobras) contract which covers an exploration area of 3,050 square kilometres. Petrobras is the state oil company of Brazil.

Chieftan Dev.

Chieftain Development Co. Ltd. of Edmonton and Delhi International Oil Corp. of Dallas announced that an agreement in principle has been reached for Delhi to acquire 600,000 shares of Delhi common stock owned by Chieftain. The purchase price would be $6.975 a share in United States currency.

Chieftain will use the money, equivalent to approximately $4.7 million in Canadian funds, to expand its exploration and development program in Alberta and the U.S.

Chieftain now is the largest shareholder of Delhi, owning 698,848 shares or 15.9 per cent of the outstanding stock.

Monenco Ltd.

Monenco Ltd. reports consolidated net earnings for the year ended Dec. 31, 1977 of $5,027,000, or $1.72 a share, compared with $5,834,000, or $2.00 a share, for the corresponding period in 1976.

Operating revenue increased 15.2 per cent in 1977 to $95,222,000 from $82,638,000 in 1976.

The company attributed the decline in net earnings to "reduced margins due to the more competitive nature of present-day business, an increase in the volume of construction work on which margins are traditionally lower, and the substantial cost of establishing operations in the United States."

BONDS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were fractionally lower in active trading on the Canadian bond market Tuesday. The short end of the market was off 20 cents. Mid-, long-term and provincial issues dropped one-eighth of a point. Corporate issues were unchanged. Day-to-day money was available at 7¾ per cent.

TROLLERS ON SHOW

An open house will be held by the Pacific Trollers Association at 1.30 p.m. Sunday at the Inner Harbor.

A demonstration of life-saving equipment by the Canadian Coast Guard will be a feature of the program.

Music will be supplied by the Naden band.

At 2 p.m. there will be short speeches by Recreation and Conservation minister Sam Bawlf and by Ald. William Tindall.

Meeting Features Capt. Cook Theme

A man with naval and maritime experience from the age of 13 makes the Cook connection when Canadian hydrographers meet in Victoria this month.

He is British historian Prof. David W. Waters, deputy director of the National Maritime Museum at Greenwich, opening speaker at the 17th annual Canadian Hydrographic Conference, April 18-20, at the Institute of Ocean Sciences, Patricia Bay.

Waters' address, Captain Cook and the Pacific: A Graphic Survey, touches on some of man's most competent hydrographic and scientific achievement, lasting into the 20th century, and covers Cook's final voyage in which white Europeans landed for the first time on the West Coast of what would become B.C.

Mariners today consider Capt. Cook the grandfather of hydrography, said program chairman R. W. Sandilands.

The conference is expected to attract 200 delegates from hydrographic centres in Canada and the U.S., and possibly some European and African observers. It is sponsored jointly by the federal Hydrographic Service and the Canadian Hydrographers Association and is dedicated to the Cook bicentennial by featuring four addresses with a Cook theme.

A navigation and Cook scholar, Waters retired from the Royal Navy as a commander, having joined the service as an executive cadet, aged 13½, in 1929. He was a fleet air arm flier on European and Mediterranean service when he became a prisoner for nearly five years during the Second World War. After the war he was 14 years on the admiralty staff and joint author of The Naval Staff History of the Battle of the Atlantic (1956). He joined the museum staff in 1960.

Waters has written A History of the Art of Navigation in Elizabethan and Early Stuart Times (1958 and 1978), and The Rutters of the Sea, the First English and French Sailing Directions (1967). This year he will publish Elizabethan Navigational Books — 1527-1640 — an Illustrated, Annotated Bibliography.

In the National Maritime Museum, Waters was responsible for the mounting of the Cook and four other 18th century exhibition galleries.

He is visiting professor of history at Simon Fraser University where he will take part in a Cook bicentennial program the week following the conference.

A second paper of general interest will be given by Cmdr. Brian S. Dyde, superintendent of surveying equipment in the hydrographic department at Taunton, England, who is involved with design of survey ships and development of modern electronic sounding and charting systems.

From Hand-Lead to Hydrosearch will describe the history of hydrographic survey techniques from Cook's time.

Dyde has served the Royal Navy since 1953 and has been a hydrographer since 1959 on surveys in the UK, Caribbean, South Pacific and Indian Oceans and in the vicinity of Malaysia and Hong Kong. He was responsible for the introduction of towed, side-scanning sonar surveying.

A Canadian hydrographer Camille Mageau, of CHS headquarters, will talk about Cook and the Crumpled Echogram, in which she discusses systems for preserving hydrographic records, and colleagues C.G. Champ and P. Warren, also from Ottawa, will speak on Back to Cook: The Role of the Hydrographer in Delineating Topography and Culture.

Sid Wigen, Pacific region hydrographer and Canada's representative in the International Tsunami Warning System will discuss the nation's role in that Hawaii-based service.

Second-day luncheon speaker will be Rear Admiral G.S. Ritchie, president of the directing committee of International Hydrographic Bureau, Monaco, who also will take part in the SFU Cook bicentennial event. A director of IHB, Rear Admiral D. C. Kapoor, retired from the Indian navy, will attend the conference.

Our Top-of-the-Inn revolving restaurant has a fine reputation for its food. And from your table, you and your client will have the finest view in the entire city of Vancouver's constantly changing harbour.

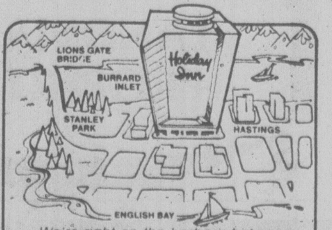
Other examples are free indoor guest parking, 7 fully equipped meeting rooms, secretarial service upon request and a free morning paper at your door. We're also central, near all major office buildings and Gastown.

Our rooms are different, too. Extra big and extra quiet, with an extra long double bed, a desk, table and 2 easy chairs so you can work properly, and sliding glass doors to let in the fresh sea air.

So next time you visit Vancouver, stay with us and make your business trip a pleasure.



We're right on the harbour between the Baxter Building and the Board of Trade. Georgia is three blocks away. Burrard just one block east.

French Plans Praised

Federal official languages commissioner Max Yalden Tuesday congratulated B.C. on its promotion of French language programs in the province.

Education Minister Pat McGeer's plan to introduce a French core curriculum this fall in areas where demand is greatest, will be a tremendous advance for minority language education in Canada, Yalden said at a press conference here.

Educating in French should be no more expensive than operating the standard English curriculum because the federal government plans to help the provinces with payments totalling $200 million this year, Yalden said.

Yalden said the government is having a hard time keeping track of what the money is actually being used for.

"What happens to it here is a little obscure," he commented.

Yalden said he is here to meet with Premier Bill Bennett, McGeer and Recreation Minister Sam Bawlf before flying to Vancouver to talk to representatives of the Canadian Parents for French organization and a group of Franco-Columbians.

The visit is his first since being named official languages commissioner last fall.

Yalden commended the education ministry for its plans to study the need for more basic French instruction in schools.

McGeer announced recently that French programs at the elementary school level will increase in September according to demand and the number of qualified teachers available.

Yalden also said there is no reason why federal services in B.C., such as manpower, unempoyment and the post office can't be provided in French as well as English.

"I don't think that's too much to expect," Yalden said. "There's no reason why you can't phone the tax office this time of year and get somebody to explain in French."

Two Victorians Picked for Bisley

Two Victorians are among Royal Canadian Army Cadets selected to Canada's army cadet rifle team competing at the Commonwealth rifle matches at Bisley, England this summer.

They are Donald Hughes, 17, of 1723 Triffin Place and Paul Brule, 17, of 2716 Claude Road, members of the 2483 Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry Army Cadet Corps.

Two other representatives from B.C. are Cameron Woiden, 17, of Vernon and Daryl Zeleny, of Fort St. John.

The four were finalists in a match held in Victoria March 23-30 during which 18 cadets from across Canada were chosen for the team.

The team, headed by Lt.-Col. Vincent Lilley of Vernon and coached by Major Richard Hampton of Ottawa, will attend a week's practice in Ottawa at the Connaught Rifle Ranges before leaving for England and the prestigious Bisley rifle competitions.

PWA Keeps Schedule, Despite Disputes

EDMONTON (CP) — Pacific Western Airlines has maintained normal schedules since the airline sent its ground support workers home March 26, an airline spokesman said Tuesday.

Edmonton workers handling flights at both the Edmonton Municipal and International Airports say no real problems have occurred in flight scheduling.

The Canadian Air Lines Employees Association (CALEA), representing 550 ground support personnel in 50 centres served by PWA, have been without a contract since last Aug. 31.

The workers began a series of rotating strikes and working-to-rule March 22 to force the regional carrier back to the bargaining table.

Negotiations began last June and broke off in January after a federal conciliator was unable to resolve the dispute.

The union says it wants pay parity for its workers with those of other airlines. At present, top PWA employees receive $1,259 a month while Air Canada personnel are paid about $150 a month more.

CALEA wants a two-year contract that would bring PWA salaries in line with other airlines. But PWA has offered only six per cent, the maximum allowable under anti-inflation board guidelines.

The union has said it will accept six per cent this year but wants the additional increase in the second year of the contract.

Twins' Mother Killed

DUNCAN — A mother of young twins was killed and her husband and the children received multiple injuries in a two-car crash Monday evening on the Lake Cowichan highway near here.

RCMP said Mrs. Donna Jonnelle Gough, 29, of Lake Cowichan, died in the crash of her husband's car and a pickup truck driven by John R. James, 38, of Duncan, three kilometres west of the city.

Her husband, Victor, 32, who was driving, and their four-year-old twins Stacey and Selena were admitted to Cowichan District Hospital. They are in satisfactory condition.

An inquest is expected to be held.

$340 Stolen From Ferry

Vehicles and passengers were checked by Sidney RCMP and B.C. Ferries security staff at Swartz Bay terminal Monday night after theft of about $340 from a steward's office.

CREW RESCUED AS TUG SINKS

The 47-foot Vancouver-based tug Magna sank early this morning north of Campbell River after its crew of four was taken off by another towboat.

The rescue co-ordination centre said the sinking occurred in Cordero Channel, 35 miles north of Campbell River as the Magna headed for Alert Bay.

The Swiftsure III went alongside about 4 a.m. when the vessel began taking on water for unknown reasons.

Skipper Gordon Stuart, Leroy Olson, Keith Hawley and D'Arcy Dragineti, all of Vancouver, were landed at Thurlow Island.

Naval Vessels In Manoeuvre

Four Canadian war ships as well as military aircraft from Comox are part of a giant four-nation naval exercise which got under way Tuesday in the mid-Pacific.

The exercise, called Rimpac 78, involves maritime forces from the United States, Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

With 47 ships, 225 aircraft and about 22,000 men, it is the sixth in a series of major fleet exercises involving Pacific Rim nations.

Canadian Forces units participating are the destroyers HMCS Restigouche, Kootenay, Terra Nova of the Second Canadian Destroyer Squadron in Esquimalt, the operational support ship HMCS Provider, and Argus aircraft from the 407 Maritime Patrol Squadron at CFB Comox.

The exercise is under the overall direction of Vice-Admiral Samuel Gravely, Jr., commander of the United States Third Fleet. Captain S.W. Riddell, commander of the Second Canadian Destroyer Squadron is one of four major at-sea commanders.

The naval operations will include surface, air and anti-submarine warfare, at-sea re-arming and replenishing, carrier operations, and missile firings at the Pacific Missile Range Facility at Barking Sands, Hawaii.

Following the exercise the Canadian ships will make a port visit to Pearl Harbor between April 22-26. They are scheduled to return to Esquimalt on May 4.

Work Injuries Up Last Year - WCB

The number of industrial injuries and the cost of compensating the injured continues to increase in B.C., the annual report of the Workers' Compensation Board shows.

The report, tabled in the legislature Tuesday by Labor Minister Allan Williams, shows the WCB received 149,653 reports of injuries and paid out $122.7 million in compensation in 1977.

These are increases of 7,383 reports and $11 million in payments over the previous year.

The over-all assessment rate to provincial businesses will remain unchanged in 1978 from 1977 although costs continue to rise.

The report says funds from industry have not met increased costs resulting in "substantial unfunded liabilities of the board."

Full funding of the liabilities will be spread over the next nine years in some cases.

The report is the first one under the new commission established in February last year following the firing the year before of Terry Ison who had been hired by the NDP.

When Williams appointed Adam Little chairman, he also replaced the vice-chairman and two other commissioners.

The new commission under Little said it intended to embark on the problems of reorganizing the highly criticized WCB by running it like a private business.

In the annual report, the commissioners called 1977 a stablizing year, and a year of progressive changes.

The board has promised not to reduce any aspect of compensation and to increase accident prevention and industrial hygiene programs.

Training and research facilities are a possibility to overcome the problem of lack of hygienists, nurses, technicians and physicians to carry out the new programs.

WCB staff carried out 25,000 on-site inspections in 1977 which led to 32,800 orders being issued, some of which resulted in temporary closures of a site.

Only one closure, however, was for longer than 24 hours.

Penalties totalling $89,000 were handed out, but there were no prosecutions.

The revised WCB Industrial Health and Safety regulations were implemented Jan. 1 this year.

The forest industry counted for 23 per cent of the industrial injuries last year. A total of 1.5 million man days were lost in all industries.

Star-gazing Season Opens

The star-watching season started Monday night with the Oscars and carries on every Saturday night until the end of October.

But the stars won't be on TV.

These heavenly bodies are up in the sky and they'll be on view through the huge Dominion Astrophysical Observatory telescope on Little Saanich Mountain.

The public can go star-gazing from 8 to 10 p.m. Saturdays until April 30 and from 9 to 11 p.m. on the Saturdays after that date.

Chess Moves Pondered

Former Ottawa chess champion Mike Horvat struggles over his next move in marathon chess contest that lasted for five hours in Ottawa. Horvat played 35 opponents and won 22 games. He drew three and lost 10.

TEAMSTERS' VOTE FINAL - EMPLOYERS

The Teamsters Union has a new one-year contract with 97 B.C. cartage firms despite rejection by Interior members, a company spokesman said Tuesday.

David Thomas, president of the Transport Labor Relations Association which bargains for the firms, said the employer considers the contract accepted because local 31, which represents 4,600 of the 5,000 truckers involved, has ratified the agreement by 81 per cent.

Local 213, which represents Teamsters in the Interior, rejected the agreement by a substantial majority.

Some Rights Favored

Donald Munro, Conservative MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, said Tuesday possibly some government employees should have collective bargaining rights but others should not.

He said he didn't tell John Hart, regional representative of the Public Service Alliance of Canada, that he was opposed to collective bargaining for all public service employees.

Munro said he told Hart that when he was a public servant he didn't seek collective bargaining rights and that Hart must have misinterpreted that statement.

Hart told a PSAC rally Monday night that Munro had told him public service employees don't need collective bargaining rights. Hart says he has a witness to verfify his version of what Munro said.

The PSAC is engaged in a battle to have the federal government scrap Bill C-28, which would amend the Public Service Staff Relations Act.

kets to prevent it from sliding too sharply. "The government should have made up its mind," he said.

In Ottawa, Chretien said Tuesday Canadians will have to wait until he brings down a new budget later this month to find out whether the government stands by its predictions inflation will drop to an annual rate of six per cent this year and the economy will grow by five per cent.

Pressed on the issue by Conservative leader Joe Clark, Chretien told the Commons: "I will give those answers in the budget speech which I will be making in this House very soon."

The finance minister said earlier this week that he will announce the precise date for his budget presentation after the regular Thursday cabinet meeting.

Clark accused Chretien of attempting to deflect criticism for the country's economic problems onto Bank of Canada Governor Gerald Bouey, saying: "It must be very comforting for the minister to have another public servant upon whom he can lay the blame for the economic failure of this government."

The Tory leader was referring to Chretien's statement in the Commons that the decision to raise interests rates by one half per cent Monday night in an attempt to strengthen the falling dollar couldn't have been taken earlier because the governor "came to see me only yesterday (Monday) night."

"So I could not have made the decision on Friday," added the minister in response to Clark's suggestion he should have acted before the weekend.

The Tory leader said the delay caused an unnecessary drain in the Bank of Canada's foreign exchange reserves "in the neighborhood of another $100 million."

Chretien said the government is continuing its policy of allowing the dollar to float internationally while intervening to ensure the process is "rational."

On Monday, Chretien announced that the government spent $500 million to support the dollar during the month of March.

Chretien also said the amount the government may draw under its revolving standby credit arranged with the Canadian chartered banks is being increased to $2.5 billion (U.S.) from $1.5 billion.

Foreign exchange reserves figures released Monday show an increase of $271.3 million to $3.97 billion (U.S.), in the country's foreign exchange holdings, which includes the additional $750 million borrowed from the banks.

While the dollar has lost ground against its U.S. counterpart — which has also been sliding on international markets — its losses against other currencies have been far greater.

Since the beginning of the devaluation of the dollar, in November, 1976, the Canadian dollar has lost more than 57 per cent of its value against the Japanese yen, 54 per cent against the Swiss franc and 40 per cent against the German mark, the three strongest currencies in the Western world.

any post-controls monitoring body.

They demanded an immediate end to the wage and price control program, noting that "the Anti-Inflation Board has directed almost all its interest at controlling wages with little consideration to escalating prices and profits."

"The federal government's anti-inflation program has resulted in shackling the labor movement and the collective bargaining system and brought about a decline in real wages and living standards," stated the resolution approved by delegates.

Delegates also voted a resolution requesting that the federal and provincial governments establish a minimum wage of $4.50 an hour for workers in their respective jurisdictions.

The minimum wage should be adjusted quarterly on the basis of the consumer price index and the increase in the gross national product, delegates agreed.

Current CLC policy calls for a $4-an-hour minimum wage. Delegates noted that wage controls have "aggravated the very precarious situation" of workers now earning a minimum wage of $3 an hour in some cases.

Meanwhile, Canadian Union of Postal Workers president Jean-Claude Parrot continued to criticize the CLC's policy statements as not going far enough.

"The CLC should be far left of centre if we want to stand up and oppose the government," said Parrot, who took over as president of the 23,000-member CUPW last July.

Storms Cause Chaos

PERTH (Reuter) — Freak storms tore across western Australia Tuesday night killing at least five persons and causing bushfires that forced the evacuation of 500 persons from two townships.

A spokesman for the state rescue service said the storms and bushfires caused millions of dollars worth of damage to hundreds of homes and crops as they carved a trail of destruction that started from Kalbarri, north of Perth.

Power lines brought down by high winds started the bushfires.

Residents of the townships of Arrahwood and Yornup, about 240 kilometres south of Perth, were evacuated just before flames swept through both communities.

At the height of the storms, huge seas smashed through a retaining wall at the port of Bunbury, about 200 kilometres south of Perth, and washed into residential areas. Gales swept the water into the town and some families escaped only minutes before their homes were under water.

About 50 sick and elderly patients were evacuated from the Bunbury nursing home. The matron, Carol Dye, said she tied her four-year-old son to a veranda post to save him from being washed away.

"I put a pair of waterwings on him and just tied him to the post while we dealt with the old people," she said.

Fair People Cry Foul Over UVic Manoeuvre

What's in a name? Shakespeare once asked.

That which we call a rose, by any other name would smell as sweet, the Bard explained.

Perhaps. But Gina Rohr and friends think there IS something in a name — particularly if it is a title that hasn't been earned and isn't deserved. That's just what's happening, they say, and the whole thing smells far from sweet.

The problem is that tomorrow a four-day craft fair opens in the Student Union Building at the University of Victoria. It is a UVic craft fair but it isn't THE UVic Craft Fair.

That may sound confusing but stick with me. It gets worse!

As all the Island's arty and crafty people well know, UVic Craft Fairs have been held each spring and Christmas for the last seven years. Between 8,000 and 9,000 people went last Christmas to look over what is regarded as the finest craft fair in B.C.

This year was to have been the eighth for the fairs at UVic. But it won't be. Feeling it wasn't getting enough out of such a popular venture, the Alma Mater Society this year tripled the rent for the site in the SUB from $5 a day to $15 a day for each of around 30 exhibitors.

"This means the rent for our usual three-day fair instead of being about $450 would be nearer $1,500," a rather angry Gina Rohr explains.

Gina, the fair co-ordinator, says she protested the rent increase but didn't get anywhere. So she took a lawyer with her and marched in to see Alma Mater Society officials and they were both thrown out.

The fair people decided that kind of relationship couldn't go on so they pulled out of UVic and will now stage their annual spring and Christmas craft fairs in the foyer of the McPherson Playhouse. Their first one will be on April 21 and 22 and will be billed as "the former UVic Craft Fair." From then on they'll be known as the annual "McPherson Craft Fairs."

This new spot is delighting the fair committee. It's more attractive and because it's so central they believe even more people will flock to the fairs. So all's well — but it hasn't ended well.

The UVic people decided to have a fair of their own. Naturally, it's being called the UVic Craft Fair because after all that's where it is.

There's already been a little skullduggery, though, as the new UVic fair (it's on this Thursday through Sunday) has been billed in the Martlet as "the popular spring craft fair." And everyone knows a thing can hardly be described as "popular" if it's the first one and hasn't been held yet!

★ ★ ★

"They're cashing in on our name and that's what we're objecting to," an irate Gina says. "Our exhibitors are all professionals and we judge all the crafts to ensure a very high standard," she explains. "They are not doing this up at UVic now and it will be mostly a student-oriented fair."

Gina is still upset by a letter in which Ben Webb, academic affairs director of the AMS, described her committee as "a mercenary group that has caused us a lot of problems."

"We just don't like being called mercenaries and feel the Alma Mater Society has acted very badly in this and extremely rudely," she says.

Webb doesn't know what all the fuss is about.

"It's a bit absurd that Mrs. Rohr should think we shouldn't use the words UVic Craft Fair since it's at UVic," he says. "We were thinking of canning the whole affair as she was just a renter in the building. But since we had built up a clientele, both of students and outsiders, we decided we may as well continue."

That's just it, complains Gina. It isn't THEIR clientele, she says, and they've made no attempt to explain this to the public.

"We feel we have a responsibility to the public to make this change clear," Gina says.

"We object to this — not that their new fair is on but that they're going under our banner."

So, now you know. When you go to the UVic fair it won't really be the UVic fair and when you go to the McPherson fair it won't really be the McPherson fair.

Well, they will be, sort of . . . oh to hell with it!

SUDDENLY HER RADIO WENT BLUE

Mrs. Gordon Whyte was sewing a foot away from her kitchen radio Tuesday afternoon when it began to glow with a blue aura.

The glow was followed by the biggest clap of thunder she's ever heard.

There was no discernible damage at the home but an electric transformer on Wilkinson Road was knocked out and an alarm system was triggered at Tillicum Lodge.

Mrs. Whyte said the whole kitchen seemed to light up and several small rumblings shook the house near Prospect Lake.

"I really was scared," she said.

"There were sparks all around the radio and stove, then this terrific boom. It was right over my house and I thought, 'the next one is going to get me'.

"My whole kitchen lit up. I just stood and watched it. I thought the whole place was going up in flames."

She called the fire department — first getting Victoria instead of Saanich — and was relieved to find the lightning had not started a fire.

She found no scorch marks on the kitchen counter or on the stove and the lights and stove worked fine afterwards.

Firemen said there should have been signs of damage if the lightning had made a direct hit on the house, which is among tall trees.

Golf Bill Sliced By Mika

Other recreational needs of Saanich residents are being ignored while the municipality is lavishing costly improvements on the Cedar Hill golf course, Saanich Ald. John Mika complained Tuesday.

Apparently teeing off at Ald. Ian Cass, chairman of the municipal golf course committee, Mika said the spending proposals presented for budget approval involve far more than merely completing a five-year development program begun three years ago.

"It is all being added to every year and the 1980 program is being doubled in richness," he said during a lengthy council meeting to review the draft 1978 budget.

"We're sinking a lot of money into this facility while the rest of the community is beginning to get uptight about the things they are not getting.

"What you are doing is a covert operation of improving that facility, not maintaining the original five-year expansion."

Cass retorted that he did not like being accused of sponsoring a covert operation.

And it ended with council agreeing to cut $36,000 proposed for the completion of the sprinkler system and $24,250 from a $35,900 request for parking improvements.

Those are in addition to two major capital projects earmarked for Cedar Hill this year: a $250,000 driving range and $120,000 for an addition to the clubhouse. Provincial government grants will offset $126,666 of the $370,000 total.

Cass objected strenuously to the cuts because he said the work would cost the municipality more in the long run.

He told council a new fee structure should produce a "profit" of $80,000 to $90,000

Stabbing Charges

A 16-year-old boy has been charged with attempted robbery with violence and wounding with intent to cause bodily harm after an 11-year-old girl was stabbed Tuesday.

The incident occurred in an access tunnel under Douglas Street Tuesday afternoon.

Saanich police said the girl was walking through the pedestrian way near Town and Country shopping centre about 5 p.m. when she was attacked and received one small wound to the abdomen. Treatment was given at Royal Jubilee Hospital and the girl was released.

Boulevard Soil Cost Going Up

Saanich residents will have to pay as much as 50 per cent more for the topsoil they buy from the municipality to improve municipal boulevards on a do-it-yourself basis, Saanich council decided at a budget session Tuesday.

In the past, residents have been able to buy the topsoil dirt cheap for $3 per cubic yard, which merely covered delivery costs. Meanwhile, Saanich has been paying $5, apart from trucking costs.

A sum of $12,000 was proposed for the boulevard soil service in this year's budget, but by a narrow 4—3 margin council voted Tuesday to reduce that by half.

The net result could be, according to estimates by municipal administrator William Tremayne, that residents will be asked to pay an additional $1 to $1.50 per cubic yard.

The cut was proposed by Ald. John Mika, who said at the very least residents should be charged the costs incurred by Saanich.

"It may be civic pride but it is also done by people to enhance their own property, their use of the land," he said.

But Ald. Ian Cass disagreed. He claimed that by providing the topsoil to residents prepared to undertake boulevard beautification, Saanich avoids boulevard maintenance costs many times higher than the cost of the material.

"There is no question in my mind but that the householders concerned are making a very substantial contribution to the municipality," he added.

Gov't, Region Requested To Head Off Genstar Plan

The provincial government and the Capital Regional District will be asked to purchase 22 acres adjoining Butchart Garden to block its use for housing, stores and a marina.

The request to buy the land comes from the Thetis Lake Park Nature Sanctuary Association which opposes a Genstar Development Company proposal to develop the property.

"It will be a disaster for B.C. if the development is approved by Central Saanich council," said association director Harry Bond.

Bond said the vista view of Tod Inlet from the gardens would be obliterated if the housing and marina development is allowed.

The association's other reason for wanting the land purchase is because it is waterfront property.

The provincial government and the CRD should give priority to waterfront property when it is purchasing land for park or greenbelt purposes, the association said in a prepared statement.

It warned as the population of the Saanich Peninsula increases, the lack of adequate publicly-owned seafront property will result in recreational and social problems.

It noted that Tod Inlet provides a unique setting for the gardens and should be preserved.

"I don't think Victorians realize yet the importance of preserving those 22 acres" said Bond.

"If they did, I think there wouldn't be any question of developing it."

Broadmead Submits New Plan

Broadmead Farms Ltd. has submitted a formal application to Saanich for a revised housing development on a 70-acre property in the Ten Mile Point area of Cadboro Bay.

A public hearing may be held on the application next month and a spokesman for the Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association said Tuesday the association's executive will meet soon to discuss the proposal.

Ratepayers' association president Richard Boss said although the design concept has been changed from an earlier proposal submitted by the company, the association is still concerned that the density involved would be incompatible with Cadboro Bay's single-family home character.

Student Job Plan Okayed

A city of Victoria summer employment program for students that was earlier scrapped because of union objections will go ahead in part after all.

Municipal manager Jim Bramley told council's public works and personnel relations committee Tuesday that one of the two union locals blocking the student progam has changed its position.

Initially Canadian Union of Public Employees locals representing both outside and inside workers had been against the hiring of students under a Young Canada Works program.

But the inside workers local reconsidered its position last week and decided to approve the city's participation.

Last year 18 young people had been hired, mostly for inside positions, and this year there are 27 openings. Students are to be paid about $3.20 an hour.

CUPE was against the proposal because students were to be paid less than union rates.

The inside workers' local reversed its stand, however, after Bramley wrote to Ald. Larry Ryan, chairman of council's personnel committee.

In his letter Bramley said that he agreed when the union argued that no one should be expected to accept less than a living wage, but did not feel that the wages offered students were unfair.

"I certainly agree with this principle when one has a home and family to support. But in this case, most of the young people who would have been taken on would not have these family responsibilities, would be looking for work experience and would be very pleased to make a few dollars during the summer prior to going back to school or university this fall," wrote Bramley.

Saving Seen on Garbage

The City of Victoria could save an estimated $88,000 a year simply by picking up its garbage differently, council's finance committee chairman Ald. Murray Glazier said today.

Glazier said that the saving could be achieved by completely switching over to the motorized carts that are being used by garbagemen on one experimental route at present.

'That one route using those buggies has worked extremely well and the men seem to like it," said Glazier.

Fritz Scores Winner as Cougars Clip Hawks

By ERNIE FEDORUK
Times Staff

In 77 games, counting the 72 regular-season games and five Western Canada Hockey League playoffs, Geordie Robertson has scored 71 goals.

"Fritz," says coach Jack Shupe. "The moment the puck is on his stick and he has a clear run, his head comes up. He's always looking to see what the goaltender is doing."

Fritz got one chance Tuesday, did what his coach expected him to do and Cougars stuck with their heart-rattling habit of winning the big games by defeating Portland Winter Hawks 4-3 in overtime.

The 18-year-old rookie, set up neatly by Gary Lupul after being left unattended in front of Portland netminder Bart Hunter, scored the biggest goal of his WCHL career at 9:58 of sudden-death overtime at Memorial Arena. He took his time, waited for Hunter to make his move, then pumped the puck into a yawning net to send the home fans into delerium.

It provided Cougars with a 2-3, won-lost record in the eight-game round-robin semi-final series and a definite chance to advance to the WCHL's Western Division final. The Winter Hawks, first-place finishers during the regular campaign, are 1-4 while New Westminster Bruins are undefeated in four starts.

A crowd of 3,604, mostly partisans, exploded noisily as Fritz connected for his game-ending goal 20 minutes before midnight to climax another Victoria comeback. Stung early by a weak goal, the Cougars trailed 3-1 as they started the final period.

But Lupul and captain Curt Fraser broke out of playoff slumps to score a pair of quick goals in the third that forced overtime. Lupul's goal was only his second while Fraser scored his first of the playoffs.

Doug Lecuyer, captain Brent Peterson, returning to the Portland lineup after a three-game absence, and Ron Chorney scored for the Winter Hawks, who play the Bruins in Vancouver's PNE Coliseum tonight and then go back at the Cougars here Thursday night.

Fritz emerged as the hero, but the victory couldn't have been achieved without the efforts of other Cougars who continued to add character to their makeup.

Robertson, hammered time after time by Portland's huskier checkers, bounced up time after time. Fraser, Lupul, Bill Jobson and Dennis Fenske also skated untiringly to keep Victoria's attack going.

And the defence, anchored by 17-year-old Kevin Eastman in goal, came up big to nudge the divisional champions a step closer to elimination. Still playing without injured Leroy Heck, the Cougars got excellent defensive performances from the four remaining defencemen — Mark Robinson, Glen Cochrane, Scott Lang and Kim Spencer.

And behind them stood Eastman, the young iceman from Ladysmith. He knew he was caught napping on the game's opening goal, by Lecuyer at the 42-second mark.

Lecuyer scored from an extremely sharp angle.

"Only an idiot would take a shot from that angle," Eastman said. "But he did, and I was napping on the play."

But Eastman settled down and couldn't be blamed on the goals by Peterson, coming with the Cougars two men short as the result of penalties, and Chorney, from a scramble.

Lecuyer didn't hang around too long after his goal. Upset by the antics of the fans behind the south-end goal, he slapped the protective glass with his stick in an effort to inimidate the fans. Referee Ian Sandercock tagged Lecuyer with a game misconduct.

In other games Tuesday, Billings Bighorns seemingly clinched a final berth in the Central Division by defeating Medicine Hat Tigers 5-3 while Brandon Wheat Kings took command in the Eastern Division with a 5-1 victory over Regina Pats.

Lakers Lower But Safer Than Sonics

By Associated Press

Seattle SuperSonics lead Los Angeles Lakers by half a game in the Pacific Division of the National Basketball Association, yet the Lakers have clinched a playoff berth and the Sonics have not.

The Lakers, getting 27 points from Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, including nine in the fourth quarter, edged Milwaukee Bucks 103-102 Tuesday night to raise their season record to 44-35. Golden State could still tie the Lakers for the sixth and final Western Conference playoff spot, but since Los Angeles swept its season series (the first tie-breaking criterion) from the Warriors, the Lakers are in the playoffs.

If Seattle loses its remaining four games and Golden State wins its three, the teams would end up in a tie. But the playoff spot would go to Golden State on the basis of having won the season series 3-1. Actually the two clubs are 1-1, but they have two meetings left and the Warriors must win both to achieve their tie.

New Orleans Jazz needs to win its three remaining games and have Atlanta Hawks lose its two in order to achieve a tie for the final Eastern Conference berth. If that should happen, the teams would also be even in the first three tie-breaking criteria—season series, record within conference and record within division. It would then go to record against all other playoff teams, and those might not be determined until Sunday, the final day of the season.

"I only hope it goes that far," says New Orleans coach Elgin Baylor, whose club stayed alive by edging Philadelphia '76ers 120-119 while the Hawks were beating New York Knicks 105-101.

In other NBA games, Golden State Warriors beat Kansas City Kings 130-119, New Jersey Nets defeated Indiana Pacers 129-121, Cleveland Cavaliers beat Buffalo Braves 116-105, San Antonio Spurs beat Phoenix Suns 125-119, Chicago Bulls beat Boston Celtics 116-104 and Houston Rockets defeated Portland Trail Blazers 101-89.

Credibility Key In Pro Baseball Fuss

VANCOUVER — For a good part of Monday and Tuesday, Molson's Brewery considered pulling out of Harry Ornest's muddled baseball project. Instead, there was a compromise: Molson's stayed in and told Harry to butt out.

You will not read that in the press release, but it is true nonetheless.

In addition to hammering out a press release rightly calculated to soothe the populace and get the Vancouver Canadians' baseball operation on track again, the brewery people gave Ornest some strongly worded advice.

He was told that in the opinion of the group involved in the meeting he had dropped the ball rather heavily thus far — particularly in the matter of Fred Whitacre, who was brought in as general manager on the handshake promise of full control and had so little of it he felt impelled to resign after 45 days in office.

It was further suggested—strongly—that Ornest had used up much of his credibility with the local media; that he should find himself a public relations man to handle such matters; and that he should concentrate on getting the stadium and the team ready for the season — preferably while assuming a profile lower than an anthill's basement.

The brewery people could merely suggest. It is, after all, Ornest's baseball team to run as he pleases. But they are in the business of selling beer. The essence of sales is publicity, which is why they put $70,000 into the team in the first place. And they do not like the publicity generated to date.

So, in the marathon but futile attempt to convince Ornest he should mend fences with Whitacre and lay out some clear lines of authority, they advised that if he had to run things himself, better he should do it quietly.

* * *

Last night, Ornest named Whitacre's "interim" replacement as general manager. His name is Harry Ornest.

Ornest says he and Whitacre are parting friends. Wrong again. Whitacre is no more his friend than he was ever truly the general manager. They're both saying all the proper things because name-calling would serve no point. But if they are friends, so were Montgomery and Rommel.

They do, however, agree on one thing: Ornest obviously didn't want to be the 'gentleman owner' as he professed when hiring Whitacre, and Whitacre says that as a former owner he can see how difficult it would be for Ornest to step aside and yield that control.

There is, however, a fundamental difference:

Whitacre didn't come here and demand control. He was promised control by Ornest as a condition of his employment. Without that promise he would never have left a secure position in Hawaii. He was here before he found out he didn't have it.

All the talk in the world isn't going to change that.

So where does all this leave the Canadians?

On credentials alone you'd have to assume they're weaker in the front office. Whitaker has been an owner and general manager; Ornest has been neither. As Ornest was so happy to admit when he hired him, Whitaker is hailed by knowledgeable people as one of the brightest young men in the game. He may have proved it by quitting. We have yet to be inundated with similar reports on Harry.

I will always wonder whether the brewery stayed in because it is satisfied that Ornest will keep his head down, or because the risk of leaving was greater than the risk of staying. How would it look to the guy in the pub if the brewery pulled out of a baseball operation and those left behind said "Well, Molson's is gone, but we're determined to bring baseball to this fine city and we'll just have to carry on alone."?

For what little it's worth, Whitacre made a strong impression with media types in the area. Ornest, perhaps in his enthusiasm to get things moving, came on a mite strongly for some tastes. He has some catching up to do. PR man Greg Douglas, briefly in the employee of the club, has severed connections—refusing to take on the job because he honestly feels that to do so might affect his own credibility. And Douglas is a baseball fan.

What Ornest is obviously counting on is that the on-field team itself will sell baseball here. He contends—and he is correct—that in the long term the fans don't give a damn about managerial changes or executive feuds; that they'll come out to see baseball, not general-managers.

Whitacre agrees. "It's all over," he says, "and in a week people will be asking: 'Fred who?'"

I'd hate to believe that. The Whitacres came here on a handshake promise that was all windup and no delivery. The team itself obviously has to come first, but it would be a shame if their treatment was shrugged off just because someone yells 'Play ball!'. It should be tucked away, but remembered.

As for the team itself, I wish it well. So does Whitacre.

That would be a change. So far, despite the platitudes, it hasn't fooled anyone at all.

Austin Wins Three Games

EDMONTON — Ed Werenich of Scarborough, Ont., led his team to a 4-0 record after five rounds to take the lead in the national firefighters curling championship here Tuesday.

The Dick Austin rink of Victoria won three games to run its record to 4-1. Manitoba and Quebec also have 4-1 records.

The B.C. champions had to come from behind to get by Manitoba 6-5 in the morning and also trailed early before edging Northern Ontario 7-6 with a steal of one in the 10th. On the final draw Austin trimmed Nova Scotia 8-3.

Against Ernie Kovacs of Winnipeg, Austin scored singles on the sixth, seventh and eighth ends after trailing 4-2. Austin had a free draw to an open house for the win.

Against Northern Ontario, Austin needed two on the eighth to draw even at 6-6 and won when skip Ralph Curtis of Northern Ontario was wide and slightly heavy with his last rock in the 10th.

In an unusual fifth-round match, in which two former national champions faced each other, Don Nelson of Calgary defeated defending national champion Howie Brazeau of the Northwest Territories 2-1. Nelson took one on the second end and Brazeau one on the ninth. Nelson won when Brazeau was slightly heavy trying to outdraw shot rock in the 10th. It was Brazeau's fourth defeat.

Earlier, Ontario recorded an 8-4 win over New Brunswick and Northern Ontario came from behind to defeat the Territories 7-3.

Alberta scored a 5-4 win over Nova Scotia while Prince Edward Island suffered its third loss in a row at the hands of Quebec, 9-6.

The Territories scored its first win of the tournament defeating Nova Scotia 7-5. Manitoba edged P.E.I. 6-5, Quebec beat winless New Brunswick 9-5 and Ontario came from behind to defeat Saskatchewan 6-5.

Peewees Open With Tourney

Canucks Snap Back; Gain Edge on Rockies

Times News Services

Third-period goals by Jere Gillis and Dennis Ververgaert gave Vancouver a 3-2 decision over St. Louis Blues and kept the Canucks' playoff hopes alive Tuesday night in a National Hokey League game at Vancouver.

Gillis broke a 1-1 tie at 7:05 of the final period and Ververgaert made it 3-1 at 11:51 and the Canucks managed to hang on for the win after a goal by Red Berenson of St. Louis.

The win pulled Vancouver into a second-place tie with Colorado Rockies in the Smythe Division after Colorado lost 5-3 in Minnesota to the North Stars. Both teams have two games left in the regular season schedule, and if the teams remain tied Vancouver would have the edge in that second place goes to the team with the most victories.

Rookie Glen Hanlon, making his second NHL start for the Canucks, stopped 15 shots as Vancouver won for the first time in nine games. Netminder Doug Grant of the Blues stopped 31 shots.

Lever scored in the first minute of the game and the Canucks had several good scoring chances in the opening period, but Grant kept the Blues in the game with several spectacular saves.

Richardson tied the score at 12:42 of the first period by jamming a close-in shot past Hanlon after Vancouver defenceman Dennis Kearns failed to check the St. Louis winger after a faceoff.

Both teams played as if they wanted to miss the playoffs until the final period, with the Canucks opened up the game with their skating.

Grant was hit in the head by a shot from Gillis at 6:59 of the final period and the game was delayed several minutes while the St. Louis netminder recovered. Just six seconds after the ensuing faceoff, Gillis put the Canucks ahead by deflecting a shot by Kearns into the corner of the net.

Ververgaert put the Canucks ahead 3-1 when he stickhandled around St. Louis defenceman Barry Gibbs, but Berenson narrowed the margin to one goal shortly after on a fine setup from Bob Hess.

Colorado finishes off its schedule with games tonight at Chicago against the Black Hawks and Saturday in Denver against St. Louis. Vancouver plays Los Angeles Kings twice, here Friday and Saturday in Los Angeles.

Meanwhile, Buffalo Sabres could not have picked a worse time to go on their longest losing streak since the 1973-74 season while Washington Capitals have started playing their best hockey of the season a little bit late.

The Sabres, destined to finish second in the Adams Division for the third consecutive season, dropped a 4-3 decision to Washington for their fifth straight loss and now find themselves fifth in the National Hockey League over-all standings.

Philadelphia Flyers, still with a chance to capture the Patrick Dvision crown, moved into fourth place in the over-all standings with a 3-3 tie against New York Islanders.

The Sabres have been stalled at 101 points since edging Colorado Rockies 4-3 in Denver March 25.

The Capitals, who have 15 victories to their credit, have tied Boston and Montreal Canadiens while dropping a 3-2 decision to the Islanders in the last week with a pre-holiday show of strength.

"I just wish hockey was something like baseball," said Washington coach Tom McVie. "The way we're playing now, I'd like to take the team to Puerto Rico for a summer league.

Rookie Brad Maxwell broke a 1-1 tie early in the third period and the North Stars erupted for four goals in the final 20 minutes.

Grass Again Grows On World Cup Pitch

BUENOS AIRES (AFP) — Grass is growing again on the soccer pitch to be used for the World Cup final in June.

Military authorities have reopened the River Plate Stadium, where the opening and closing matches will be played, after a month of secrecy and fears about condition of the field.

A heavy-handed groundsman apparently mixed in too large a proportion of fertilizer when watering the pitch and a hot summer sun combined to destroy the grass.

It was dug up and replanted and authorities said it would be back to full health by June.

Tardif Breaks WHA Record

QUEBEC (CP) — Left winger Marc Tardif broke his own World Hockey Association record for most points in a single season Tuesday night with two goals and two assists to run his total to 150 while leading Quebec Nordiques to a 9-1 triumph over Edmonton Oilers.

Tardif, who had 148 points during the 1975-76 season, now has 62 goals and 88 assists. During the 1975-76 campaign, he had 71 goals and 77 assists.

Tardif drew his record-breaking point with an assist on Chris Bordeleau's ninth goal of the season with 11 seconds remaining in the middle session as the Nordiques completely dominated the Oilers. (Summaries are on page 26)

Spaniard Can Skip School

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Severiano Ballesteros, the dynamic young Spaniard who won last week's Greater Greensboro Open, is unsure whether to accept a precedent-setting invitation to join the U.S. pro golf tour.

"I will have to think about it," Ballesteros said Tuesday.

The invitation to compete on the tour, foregoing the necessity to pass the qualifying school, was extended to Ballesteros after a decison by the tour's policy board Monday night.

Tour commissioner Deane Beman said Ballesteros, 21, the youngest man to win a tour title in 15 years, has 60 days in which to accept or decline the invitation.

On the action of the sponsor, Ballesteros also was extended, and accepted, an invitation to compete in next week's Tournament of Champions in Carlsbad, Calif.

He was unsure about future American play, however. "I am very flattered, very gratified, to be given the invitation," he said through an interpreter. "But I am invited to all the tournaments in Europe and Japan. They have been very nice to me. If I play in America I cannot play in the European and Japanese tournaments. I must consider it."

Ballesteros, the leading player in Europe for the last two seasons despite his youth, tried and failed the American tour's qualifying school in 1975.

As a non-tour player, Ballesteros is allowed to compete in only three American tour tournaments. Last week, when he won by a single shot over rookie Jack Renner, was his first try on the U.S. tour.

Thoughts of Fishing Prompted By Spring

Spring is in the air, mayflies were hatching over the weekend and I'm getting itchy feet.

It happens every year about this time.

A four-wheel-drive jaunt through the Sooke hills on Sunday touched at Shields and Council lakes but the water felt a little too cold yet for really good trout angling.

But, if we get a few more sunny days, most of the lakes on this end of the Island could get really productive.

In the meantime, I've got a lot to do before heading out on that first trip, including some things that probably should have been done last fall.

I'll have to replace the old eight-pound test line on my spin-casting reel with six pound test in order to get a few more yards capacity and the capability of casting light lures a little further. Six pound test should be enough for anything on the Island and replacing the line also eliminates the possibility of losing any fish because of age and nicks.

Then there's my fly-fishing gear. Only a few tattered flies were left after last year and some new ones will have to be tied up in the near future. There is an extra thrill in landing a large trout on something you have created.

* * *

My fly lines — one wet and one dry — should last another season but all my reels should be taken apart, cleaned and greased and/or oiled.

Lures, too, have to be inspected. All hooks need to be sharpened or replaced and most of the spoons could probably stand shining.

Weights and other minor pieces of tackle will also have to be checked. It's too late to find out something is missing when you're out on a lake or stream 30 miles from nowhere with the bite just coming on.

Most of my rods are in good shape, but in the next few years some of the winding might need replacing. It's also a good idea to check the line guides before the season starts. A rough edge could fray the line and lose a lunker.

At least one new item will be added to my gear in the near future — a new canoe paddle with an eight-inch blade. It's amazing the amount of extra control and thrust you can get with a wider blade.

* * *

Then there's my vehicle. A whole new ball of wax.

I still have to finish off a roof rack for safely carrying my canoe over rough roads. The four metal cross-bars are now in place, anchored to the roof with stainless steel screws.

The next step is to buy about five redwood one-by-sixes to place lengthwise over the metal pieces and two two-by-two cross-pieces for the ends. Redwood is just about as light but stronger than cedar.

Notches in the cross-pieces, lined with carpet, will ensure the canoe doesn't shift sideways on even the most rugged access road and long rubber straps, coupled with clip-on safety ropes, will hold it down firmly in the notches.

I built a similar rack for my last vehicle on a three-quarter inch thick piece of plywood but found it far too heavy. On some roads, when your vehicle is tilting 30 degrees, the last thing you need is 200 extra pounds sitting on the roof.

Another project for this year is a tailgate extension for my Ramcharger. Extending the tailgate two feet with some plywood will give me eight feet of sleeping space behind the rear seat. Then it will be a simple matter to design a light nylon tent to clip over the roof rack and under the tailgate for added living space.

But first of all, I MUST remember to renew my fishing licence.

HEBB, HIGGINS NAMED ROOKIES OF THE YEAR

Crook, Bibby Top UVic Awards

JAN CROOK
. . . field hockey star

Jan Crook and Dave Bibby received the President's Award, presented to the two students best combining high academic and athletic abilities, during the University of Victoria's annual athletic awards banquet Tuesday night.

Crook, a fourth-year arts and science student, plays for the field hockey UVic Vikettes and has been a member of the national team and the British Columbia senior team since 1974.

Bibby, a third-year arts and science student, took the over-all title on the first day of the two-day Canada West University Athletic Association gymnastic championships this year and went on to capture all six individual titles during the second day of competition.

Two basketball players, Luanne Hebb of Vikettes and Craig Higgins of Vikings, won the Robert Wallace award as women's and men's rookies-of-the-year.

Hebb was second in team scoring with 241 points and averaged 12.1 points per game. A first-year education student, she is also a member of the junior national team and was runner-up in the CWUAA all-star voting for the 1977-78 season.

A first-year arts and science student, Higgins was third in field goal percentage for the Vikings, connecting on nearly 50 per cent of his shots. He is also a member of the national junior team, earned a starting spot with Vikings midway through the season and managed to finish with 80 assists, second in the club.

Both Vikings and Vikettes won CWUAA championship honors during the past season.

Other awards went to Bev Draper of the basketball Vikettes, named manager-of-the-year, and Ted Zinkan of the rugby Vikings, who won the Martlet award for outstanding contribution to the athletic program by an athlete.

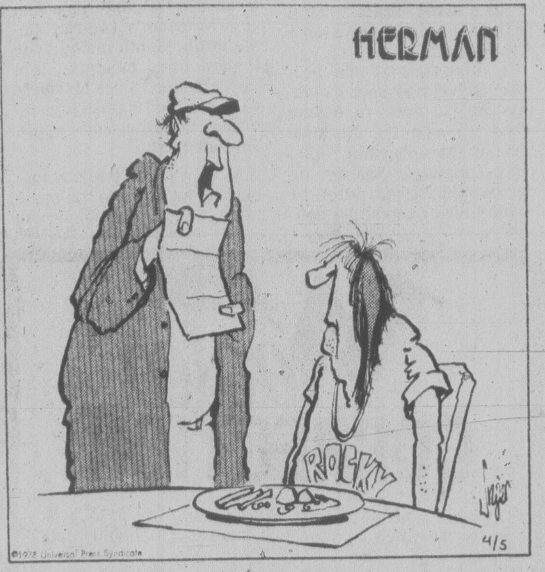
Zinkan, a fifth-year education student, is captain and scrum-half of the Vikings. He has been a team leader, both on and off the field, and has served on many committees, including the president's task force on athletics.



"There you go! I forged your signature. You're in the Marines."

Turner's Teams Produce Deficit

ATLANTA (AP) — Turner Communications Corp., which owns the Atlanta Braves baseball team and the Atlanta Hawks basketball team, has reported a loss of $1.2 million, or $1.26 per share, for 1977.

The loss compared to a net income of $648,000, or 66 cents a share, in 1976.

President Ted Turner says that revenues for the corporation, which also operates several television stations, were up 14 per cent from $25.3 million in 1976 to $28.8 million in 1977.

He said the loss of income for last year resulted from the net loss posted by the National Basketball Association Hawks and from increased operating expenses for the Braves.

EXPANSION PLANS CARRY HIGH PRICE

QUEBEC (CP) — It will cost about $10 million to enlarge the 10,012-seat Quebec Coliseum to 15,000 seats, city officials said Tuesday.

Mayor Jean Pelletier said that a study showed the expansion was feasible, but that the city had not made a decision on the project.

Expansion of the facility would be contingent on Quebec getting a franchise in the National Hockey League and some financial support from the provincial and federal governments.

Quebec Nordiques, like several other members of the World Hockey Association, have indicated they will apply for membership in the NHL since the WHA members announced their plans a few weeks ago.

Mariners Hope to Give More

By Associated Press

Minnesota Twins and Seattle Mariners aren't considered contenders in the American League West, but one of them will be all alone in first place sometime tonight.

The major league baseball season gets under way when those two teams square off in Seattle's Kingdome. The National League kicks off Thursday afternoon in Cincinnati with the Reds playing host to Houston Astros, and all 26 major league clubs are scheduled for action by Saturday.

"As a second-year club, people will expect more from us," says manager Darrell Johnson. "I think we can give them a little more. I expect us to wind up in the mid-70s somewhere. There's just no way we're not a better ballclub than last season."

On the other hand, people expect less from the Twins, who held onto first place for all of May, most of June and even as late as Aug. 15-16 before fading to fourth, 17½ games off the pace. Although Rod Carew and his .388 bat are back, the Twins lost league RBI leader Larry Hisle and batting runnerup Lyman Bostock in the free-agent draft.

Seattle's Glenn Abbott, a 12-game winner, will have the honor of throwing the first pitch of the season. He will be opposed by Dave Goltz, who won 20 last season.

The National League opener pits Cincinnati's Tom Seaver against Houston's J.R. Richard.

"I think this is the best team we've ever had, including the '75 and '76 teams when we won the National League championship," Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson said Tuesday after the Reds rallied from an 8-1 deficit to beat Detroit Tigers 9-8 in the final exhibition game.

"Your record in the spring doesn't really matter, but winning some games late to establish a winning atmosphere is important," said Anderson. "I'm going out on a limb. By Oct. 1, I expect to win. We're absolutely ready, not from a rah-rah standpoint but as ready as professionals as I've ever seen them."

As the exhibition season wound down, the defending NL champion Los Angeles Dodgers suffered their seventh consecutive defeat, bowing to Oakland A's 6-5 on Jeff Newman's two-run single in the eighth inning even though third baseman Ron Cey, sidelined since March 26 with a pulled hamstring, returned to action and rapped out four hits.

As the various teams struggled to cut down to the opening day limit of 25 players in the AL and 24 in the NL, there were a couple of surprising deals.

Kansas City Royals sent slugging first baseman John Mayberry to Toronto Blue Jays for a player to be named later, opening a spot for rookie sensation Clint Hurdle.

"I think John can go to Toronto and hit 35 home runs," said manager Whitey Herzog. "I just didn't think he could play well for us any more."

With Duffy Dyer out with a broken thumb, Pittsburgh Pirates reacquired catcher Manny Sanguillen from Oakland A's for relief pitcher Elias Sosa, outfielder Miguel Dilone and a player to be named later.

"I just prayed to God that he would send me where I was to go," said the 34-year-old Panamanian. "It makes you feel good and happy to be back."

Aeros Submit Bid For NHL Franchise

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Aeros owners said Tuesday they would not field a team in the World Hockey Association next season, while, at the same time, announcing they were applying for a National Hockey League franchise.

Kenneth Schnitzer, one of five stockholders who purchased the team earlier this season, said the team would either play in the rival NHL or he and his partners would drop the WHA franchise.

Houston hockey fans will have to purchase 7,000 season tickets in the next 30 days if they want to retain the team, Schnitzer said. However, Schnitzer said meeting the season-ticket goal was no assurance the team would obtain a NHL franchise.

"While it will take approximately 10,500 paid admissions per game to support a NHL franchise, we have determined, as owners and investors, that we are willing to take our chances on achieving that average attendance," Schnitzer said.

The Aeros have averaged 5,900 per game this season. Two years ago they sold 5,832 season tickets, but figures for this season fell to 3,250.

Schnitzer said the ticket sales campaign must depend a great deal on corporate backing and also on media exposure.

Buyers are being asked to pay down only 10 per cent of the ticket price which runs from $4.50 to $10.50 per game. Funds will be held in escrow in the Texas Commerce Bank and will be refunded if sales fail to reach 7,000.

Schnitzer, who also owns the National Basketball Association Houston Rockets and the Area Operating Company, which runs The Summit—where both hockey and basketball are played—said the owners have made an informal application for an NHL franchise.

Asked whether 7,000 was an NHL-established figure, Schnitzer said there were "a lot of sick franchises in the NHL" but added that 7,000 is not a sacred formula.

"We're not trying to drive spikes into the WHA but we are trying to do well for Houston," he said.

Watford Sure Of Promotion

LONDON (Reuter) — Watford, clear leaders in the Fourth Division, became the first team to clinch promotion in the English League when they scored a 2-1 victory at Bournemouth on Tuesday night.

Watford needed just one point from the match to make sure of playing in the Third Division next season and Brian Pollard and Bobby Downes got the goals that saw them safely through with two points.

At the other end of Division Four, Rochdale lost 1-0 at home to Hartlepool and must seek re-election to the league for the seventh time in their history.

In the First Division, Newcastle gained a valuable away point in a 0-0 draw at Coventry, but still seem set to be relegated to the Second Division. In the only other top division match, Chelsea remained close to the danger zone after losing 2-0 away to Middlesbrough.

Orient, which meets Arsenal in the semi-final of the English Football Association (F.A.) Cup on Saturday, gave watching Arsenal boss Terry Neill little to worry about as they scrambled a 0-0 draw at home to Division Two promotion contenders Blackburn.

THREE ISLAND SIDES IN SEMI STRUGGLES

Three teams from the Lower Island Juvenile Soccer Association will compete in semi-finals of the British Columbia Youth Soccer Association's Provincial Cup playdowns on Saturday.

And two will have home-field advantage at Hampton Park.

Victoria Lakehill Jadresco Construction meets Powell River Huskies at 12 noon in a sixth division battle and Victoria Gorge FC tackles Burnaby Edmonds Spartans in a seventh division stuggle at 2 p.m.

The other Victoria side, Gordon Head Smith Bros., faces Fraser Valley Guildford Celtics in a fifth division tussle at Surrey.

Rugby Wins One-Sided

Oak Bay Barbarians and Victoria Titans came up with one-sided decisions in Russell Division matches Tuesday in the Greater Victoria High School Rugby League.

Paul Vaeson led Barbarians to a 21-6 victory over Clarémont Spartans by kicking three penalty goals and two conversions. Andrew Johnstone and Don Driedger each added a try. Joe McAlister scored a try for Spartans and Glen Prevost booted the conversion.

Terry Siklenka scored two tries to spark Titans to a 17-4 triumph over Spectrum while Dave Marcussen added the other four-pointer. Mike DeGoede kicked a penalty goal and one conversion.

In Hodgins Trophy play, Parkland topped Esquimalt 8-4 to advance to the final against Mt. Douglas Mountainmen next Wednesday on neutral ground.

SIDELINED with eye injury is veteran Gordie Howe, who was hit by puck while sitting on New England Whalers' bench during World Hockey Association game Monday against Houston Aeros. Howe suffered "contusions near outer part of his left eye and inflamation of the eyeball itself" and will be out of New England lineup for games against Edmonton Oilers tonight and Winnipeg Jets on Thursday. The 50-year-old top scorer for Aeros is expected to be skating by weekend.

CPGA Golf Tour Hits Hard Times

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Professional Golf Association has all but given up on finding a sponsor to back its tour, CPGA tour director Herb Holzscheiter said Tuesday.

"The matter of a national sponsor is all but dead for this year," said Holzscheiter. "There's difficulty in finding the amount of money needed to run a tournament this size. Peter Jackson put up about $250,000 a year for prize money and promotions and that didn't include the Canadian Open or the Ladies Classic."

The tobacco company withdrew its support after last year's tour and announced it will continue to sponsor only the Canadian Open, this year with a total purse of $250,000, and the Ladies Professional Golf Association event.

That leaves the tour, which had seven provincial events last year, in disarray. The Atlanta Open has been cancelled, the Quebec Open will likely be held with a purse as little as $3,000 and the Manitoba Open is not yet confirmed.

The Ontario Golf Association is putting up its own money to stage a $20,000 Ontario Open at St. Thomas, June 16-18.

Among other Canadian events this year are the Shrine Pro-Am for $50,000 July 4-6 in Toronto and the Labatt's International, formerly the CPGA championship, this year with a $100,000 purse at Vancouver, Aug. 14-20.

Because of the reduced schedule, Holzscheiter said the CPGA expects no more than a dozen players will apply to the association's annual school to earn their pro cards.

"The qualifying will still be held but the decision to do it and to play this year in Canada is a tough decision for any golfer."

The Canadian Open this year makes its second appearance at its permanent Glen Abbey site near Oakville, Ont., and defending champion Lee Trevino, course architect Jack Nicklaus, two-time winner Tom Weiskopf and Hubert Green have confirmed their entries.

SOCCER TRIUMPH

EAST BERLIN (aP) — Sweden warmed up for the World Cup finals by defeating East Germany 1-0 in an exhibition soccer game Tuesday.

Racquet Club Tops Net League Tussle

Racquet Club defeated Glen Meadows 6-2 in men's "A" division play in the South Island Tennis League at the weekend.

GOLF OFFICIALS GETTING TOUGH

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Slow play on the pro golf tour, to be judged and administered by officials bearing stopwatches, could result in drastic action up to and including fines of $1,000 and suspension from tournament competition, PGA tour commissioner Deane Beman said Tuesday.

He said he and the tournament policy board—the governing body for the tour—are taking "drastic, stern and immediate action," to improve the pace of play in regular tour events.

The move, he said, follows a lengthy time-study of tour events and subsequent action by the policy board setting up rules governing the pace of play.

Slow play, he said, "is a continuing concern."

Should players be found to be taking too much time—and he admitted this would be a judgment call by officials who have been issued stopwatches—the first offence would call for a $200 fine.

A second offence in a 12-month period also would bring a $200 fine. A third offence in the 12-month period carries an automatic fine of $1,000 and suspension from three tournaments.

Those penalties, he said, are in addition to—and not necessarily connected with—the assessment of two strokes for slow play.

"The two-stroke penalty is a rule of golf," he said. "We do not want to interfere with the rules of golf. This is an additional guideline for the conduct of the tour."

The new rules will go into effect within two weeks, after the tour's membership is informed in writing, Beman said.

Firemen, Postmen City's Final Hope

By BILL WALKER
Times Staff

It's the postscript to the curling season this week with the Canadian Firefighters Curling championship at Edmonton . . . and yes, the mails are getting through . . . the annual Canadian Postal Curling championship at Calgary; and two city rinks are involved.

In reference to the mails getting through, it was noted here a while ago that Victoria had two teams in national curling finals this season — Dick Austin in the firefighters and Bob Hawkes in the police — but it was unadvertised that "Black Bart" (that's Bart Longmore) and his Victoria rink were the best of the postmen in B.C.and worthy of mention. But only lately was that advice received.

So be it, and the other members of the rink are lead Russ Clarke, second Bill Wylie and third Wayne Bissell.

And there is also the fact that Victoria will host the provincial postal event in 1980 and the national in 1982.

* * *

Curling with Austin in the firefighters' championship are third Al Beasley, second Ray Burley and lead Gerry Lister. And they are doing nicely, thank you.

And the measure of competition is well illustrated by the fact that the defending champion and this year's Brier Rep, Howie Brazeau of Yukon-NWT, is no better than 1-4 starting today's play. The two other parts of his Brier rink are Jim Schaefer at third and Mickey MacEachern at lead.

Otherwise, the plug has been pulled in most rinks by now, with the Blue and Gold at the Racquet Club this week and a golf-curling type mixed affair set for Glen Meadows April 15-16 still on the program.

* * *

Last week the Playland Windup Bonspiel had Murray Walker, Ann Pugh, Carl Christian and Cathy McKeachie winning "A" event. Ray Benwell, Carol Rowe, Gry Rowe and Judy Thomson took "B"; Jim Gallaugher, Donna Fraser, Frank Wright and Cheryl Gallaugher captured "C" and Stu Palfrey, Ev Flynn, Barry Rankin and Barb Lalonde won "D".

The bonspiel featured an eight-ender by the Ross family over Jim Oslund who otherwise might be recalled as being the skip of the Victoria Club men's championship rink this year. Duncan Ross was the featured skip who accomplished the eight-ender. Loraine Ross played third, Dean, second; and Jody, lead.

With Oslund on his VCC rink which downed Gordie Zorn in the final and Gordie Carmichael in the semis were Jack Long, Dean Forsythe and Ray Logan.

At Esquimalt on the weekend, Jack MacBeth's Totem League men's rink took the playoff championship of the 17 leagues with an 8-7 extra-end victory over Pat Marshall's Dockyard mixed rink.

With MacBeth were third Owen Moore, second Vic Stanker and lead Rick Picard. With Marshall were his wife Pat, and the Shacks, Perry and Fern.

* * *

The Sportsmen's Curling League championships also were decided on the weekend. Bob Abbott's rink of Peter Jonsson, Laurie Pimlott and Cliff Newman (who was relaxing in Hawaii at the time) won "A" event; Brian Scroggs, Bert Waring, George Gibson and Leon Hall took "B" event, and Bill Walker, Bill Ferguson, Roy Okell and Don Wakelyn, "C" event.

League championship went to the Robbie Dunn rink skipped by Harry Irwin with Bill Prior at second and King Lee at lead.

* * *

His rink came into the World with a record of 46 and 1 on the season. It was unbeaten in league play, in the state championship and the U.S. nationals. The only defeat came in a bonspiel at Duluth. When Nichols left 'Peg his rink was 55 and 3.

Murdoch Trial Set Thursday

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Don Murdoch, 21-year-old New York Rangers winger, is scheduled to go on trial in Ontario provincial court here Thursday on charges involving narcotics.

Murdoch was arrested at Toronto International Airport last Aug. 12 and charged with possession of 5.6 grams of cocaine and possession for the purpose of trafficking in cocaine.

He appeared in court Sept. 11 and was granted a postponement to April 6.

$119. Where else but at Jack Fraser

This is how a little advance planning can pay off. Handsomely. JF's buyer many moons ago decided to herald in the new season by gathering up a sizeable, higher-priced collection of Jack Fraser label, all-wool and wool blend suits. Each to be priced for a penny-pinching 119 dollars. Fabrics are plain and patterned, Spring coloured and popular sized. Need we say more except buy now . . . or forever wish you had!

What FA Cup Soccer Event Is All About

Orient Hopes for Miracle

LONDON (AP) — Orient hopes on Saturday to achieve one of those rare soccer miracles for which the English Football Association Cup is famous.

The homely little Second Division club from London's East End—still not safe from the threat of relegation—takes on mighty Arsenal, most famous of all London's clubs, in a semi-final that sums up exactly what the FA Cup is all about.

And the odds could hardly be stacked higher than they are against Orient, which has already disposed of such First Division sides as Norwich, Chelsea and Middlesbrough.

Arsenal, a finely-tuned machine, has hit peak form over the last few weeks while Orient has played miserably, has key player David Payne doubtful for the match, and relies almost entirely on one man to find the net.

Up front, Malcolm MacDonald seems to have rediscovered his avaricious appetite for goals and is ably supported by the talented if sometimes erratic Frank Stapleton. Manager Terry Neill's only real problem would seem to be where to play Alan Sunderland if the England B forward is fit.

Orient, robbed of the precocious talent of John Chiedozie some months ago, now relies almost solely on the marksmanship of Peter Kitchen—27 goals this season, seven in the Cup—and a tight five-man defensive system that revolves around sweeper Glenn Roeder.

Manager Ron Atkinson, fortunate to have taken over a well-moulded West Bromwich Albion side from Ronnie Allen, takes his team to meet Ipswich, out to save a season that has been, by its own high standards, a dismal failure.

Badly hit by injuries from the start of the year, Ipswich is certain to be without Trevor Whymark.

WEST HAM STAR READY TO MOVE

LONDON (AP) — Trevor Brooking and West Ham United will part company if West Ham is demoted from the First Division of English League soccer.

Brooking, who has been with the club since boyhood, feels his career at the top level would suffer if West Ham was to be relegated.

And the England international, whose smooth, stylish approach epitomizes football the West Ham way has made it known to the club that if it goes down he will want a move, possibly to a European club.

"Second Division football would be very difficult for me," said Brooking after West Ham had eased its relegation problems slightly at the weekend by beating Coventry City 2-1.

With Leicester City and Newcastle already doomed, the remaining relegation place faces Queen's Park Rangers, Wolverhampton Wanderers or West Ham.

And the East London side, the third longest surviving team in the First Division, is still the most precariously placed although Wolves appear to be slumping badly at a critical stage. Wolves have lost four consecutive matches and manager Sammy Chung had to face a weekend crisis meeting with directors.

New Track Meet

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Track and Field Association has announced the Colgate Women's Games, a one-day track and field meet on June 24 that will enable women athletes to compete for grants-in-aid for education.

UNESCO Warned: 'Hands off Sport'

LONDON (AP) — Denis Howell, Britain's minister of sport, has warned UNESCO to keep its hands off the running of the Olympics and international sport.

Howell, who presided at the second conference of European sports ministers, said:

"We have to beware of the slogan that is emerging from UNESCO, calling for the democratization of sport. I am not quite clear what this means, and I don't think anyone else is clear about it either.

"If it means bringing sport and the Olympics under political control, then we in Britin cannot welcome it. If it is designed to change the balance of voting in international sport, so that decisions are made by politicans and not by sportsmen, it is not to be encouraged."

UNESCO—the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization—is due to meet in Paris this month. Three weeks ago the International Olympic Committee rushed through a manifesto defining its role and the responsibilities of the international sports federations, and sent it to UNESCO in time for the Paris meeting. Clearly IOC leaders were concerned that UNESCO might usurp their role as guardians of the Olympic Games.

Delegations from 11 Western European nations were present at the opening of the conference, along with officials of the Council of Europe and observers from sports organizations. Monique Berlioux, director of the IOC, represented the Olympic movement.

Howell called on European sports ministers to establish closer contacts with their counterparts in Africa and the Communist bloc. He maintained that if stronger political links had existed at the time of the Montreal Olympics in 1976 the disturbances that threatened to wreck the Games—the big African walkout and Canada's refusal to admit the athletes of Taiwan—might have been averted.

Howell showed little enthusiasm for current moves to spread multi-racial sport in South Africa.

"Apartheid is an abomination, and an intrusion into the whole concept of international sport. Countries which allow the practice of apartheid automatically exclude themselves from international sport.

"I know a lot of South African sportsmen are trying to integrate sport and I welcome that. But I don't think it is any good trying to do a botched-up job. It is not possible to have multi-racial sport while apartheid exists in society."

GYMNAESTRADA AT PARKLAND

Parkland High School will be the site of the inaugural Vancouver Island gymnaestrada at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Rythmic gymnasts from Vancouver Island and Vancouver's "Rhythmika" club will be competing in both solo and group routines.

OTTAWA REJECTS OFF-TRACK BETTING

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has no intention of approving off-track betting, Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan said Tuesday.

"There's no chance of off-track betting becoming a factor in the near future," Whelan told the Commons agriculture committee.

His statement followed weekend meetings between the racetrack industry and federal officials. Ottawa has said it would consider making off-track betting legal if all components of the horse-racing industry agreed.

"Much remains to be ironed out" before Ottawa will consider changing the law and then it would expect the provinces to supervise any such betting system.

Betting is currently allowed only at racetracks. Crawford Douglas (L—Bruce), said many small tracks fear a forced closing if the betting system is changed.

Whelan said many countries and states which have allowed off-track betting now are having second thoughts. He also said the meetings didn't resolve his concerns about who controls horse breeding and the major tracks.

The minister warned the industry before the weekend meetings that he had no intention of allowing off-track betting if it would result in horses racing in front of empty stands. Some of those tracks were built in part with federal funds.

Some track people have said that 20,000 jobs could be lost if off-track betting is approved.

Separate Post Office, Tories Urge

OTTAWA (CP) — A special Progressive Conservative study group will recommend the government consider turning the post office into a Crown corporation, Walter Dinsdale said Tuesday.

He said the committee looked at problems of mail delivery in Britain, the United States, West Germany and Japan and had discovered some of them had turned their post offices into government corporations.

Waving his finger at postmaster-general Gilles Lamontagne, Dinsdale (PC—Brandon-Souris) demanded: "Why does the minister not move in this direction? To continue to do nothing is to court disaster."

Lamontagne replied that he is prepared to discuss the possibility of a Crown corporation with the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW).

"But our appeals for a joint study have fallen on deaf ears," he said.

Lamontagne said his major pre-occupation at the moment is to avoid growth of the power struggle between labor and management in the post office.

There would be no cuts in existing postal service until he completed a major re-evaluation of the department which would include discussions with labor.

It was the second time Tuesday Lamontagne had been called on to defend the post office.

He demanded that all taxpayers be told how much "this wasteful exercise" had cost them.

Stan Darling (PC—Parry Sound-Muskoka) said Postmaster-General Gilles Lamontagne owed users some explanation for his April 1 rate increase, which was accompanied by no improvement in service.

"Your predecessor said there would be no increase until service was improved," he said. "Now we have reductions in door-to-door delivery, delays in Toronto and complaints from rural areas."

Red Cross Boost

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is providing $360,000 in grants to the League of Red Cross Societies and the International Committee of the Red Cross to help African refugees, External Affairs Minister Don Jamieson said Tuesday.

The minister said in a statement that the government is giving $200,000 to the Red Cross league to help 150,000 Katangans from Zaire's Shaba province who now are living in Angola.

The Red Cross committee will receive about $50,000 for use in the Ogaden region in Ethiopia where 300,000 Somalis have fled the cities and sought refuge in the countryside following battles between Somali and Ethiopian troops.

The committee will also get $110,000 for its role as protector of prisoners of war, political prisoners and their families, the minister said.

N-Satellite Hazard Left

OTTAWA (CP) — After spending $6 million and more than two months searching for fragments of a Soviet nuclear-powered satellite, the defence department has recovered a basketful of metal — enough for a case against the Soviet Union but not enough to eliminate health hazards in the North, says Defence Minister Barney Danson.

Danson said Tuesday the department is still not sure that all pieces of the radioactive core of the Soviet satellite have been recovered.

Northerners will have to take care not to "go around picking up spare pieces of metal" for years to come, he said. They would have to check with the RCMP when discovering metal pieces—"it will have to be a way of life up there."

Earlier, the minister told the Commons defence committee that the armed forces will be making recommendations soon on how intensely the search should be continued.

The external affairs department has informed the soviet Union it will be presenting a bill for the search effort and environmental damage.

Danson said the Sovjet Union is prepared to accept its obligations.

But a Soviet note to the external affairs department Feb. 20 carefully avoided accepting Canadian claims that pieces recovered by the defence department are from the Cosmos satellite. The Soviet note said the objects recovered are "presumed by the Canadian side" to be from the satellite.

CANADA TURNS TO PBS

OTTAWA (CP) - Canadians are turning more to U.S. public service broadcasting and not to the CBC to get away from American junk television, says Stuart Leggatt.

"The public is tired of the CBC and tired of the expenditures of the CBC," Leggatt (NDP—New Westminster) told CBC president Al Johnson Tuesday at the Commons broadcasting committee.

Public service television in the U.S. relies on donations from its viewers and provides programs without advertisements.

Johnson, seeking government approval for a $552 million budget, says the CBC could offer the same sort of programming with second English and French television services.

The proposed service is part of CBC's master plan to wean Canadians away from U.S. television.

Through the plan, called Touchstone, the CBC hopes to increase viewing time of Canadian programs to 50 per cent.

FLQ Kidnappers Deny 'Insurrection'

MONTREAL (CP) — For the first time since the October, 1970, kidnapping of British trade commissioner James Cross, two former members of the the terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec took to the airwaves Tuesday to "demystify" the October Crisis.

In an interview on Radio-Canada, the French-langauge network of the CBC, Jacques Cossette-Trudel and his wife Louise Lanctot took the opportunity to reassert their desire to return to Quebec.

"It's necessary, after eight years, to start again, to look back on the October crisis and, moreover, the future of Quebec and Canadian society," said a mustachioed Cossette-Trudel.

"We must demystify a lot of the story — it's been called a conspiracy, an apprehended insurrection," he said. "No."

For several months, the two have been asking to return home from France, where they went after spending four years exiled in Cuba.

Last September, they wrote to Quebec Premier Rene Levesque asking that all charges against them be dropped. The appeal was rejected by Levesque and Justice Minister Marc-Andre Bedard.

Cossette-Trudel said the kidnapping of Cross was committed by a "junior college generation," and was undertaken "without much thought of what the implications could be."

He said they were "surprised" by the kidnapping of then Quebec labor minister Pierre Laporte several days after Cross was abducted, and maintained that the act was "dissociated" from theirs, although they had been in contact with the FLQ cell that kidnapped and murdered Laporte.

FLQ members Jacques and Paul Rose, Francis Simard and Bernard Lortie are serving jail terms after being convicted in the Laporte incident.

The Cossette-Trudels added that they believe Prime Minister Trudeau personally asked the RCMP to let them accompany three other FLQ members who were permitted to go to Cuba in exchange for Cross's safe release.

She said they reacted with "panic" when the War Measures Act was invoked and troops ordered into Quebec by Trudeau, but her husband said there was more "astonishment and surprise" than panic.

The two said they had sensed from open-line radio shows and news reports that Quebecers "supported" the FLQ manifesto issued at the time of the kidnapping.

FLQ APPEAL VETOED

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec Justice Minister Marc-Andre Bedard says there are no political prisoners in the province, despite a petition signed by 42,000 people calling for the release of six prisoners associated with the Front de Liberation du Quebec.

"I don't think these prisoners should have any special privileges, but they should not be deprived of the same rights as other prisoners," Bedard said Tuesday.

Bedard made the comments at a news conference called to announce that Quebec was demanding Ottawa pay $937 million in compensation for provincial police services that are performed by the RCMP in eight other provinces.

Bedard said a decision on whether to hold a commission of inquiry into the 1970 October Crisis will be taken when special prosecutor Jean Francois Deschenes completes his present investigation. The inquiry would not be launched "unless we are completely convinced that it is necessary."

Prime Minister Trudeau has said that any Quebec inquiry into the crisis will not be allowed to "meddle" in areas of federal jurisdiction.

The prisoners named in the petition were Francois Schirm, Pierre-Paul Geoffroy, Paul and Jacques Rose, Francis Simard and Bernard Lortie.

Schirm is serving time for an FLQ raid on an arms warehouse in 1964, Geoffroy for setting off bombs, and the other four were connected with the kidnap and murder of Quebec labor minister Pierre Laporte in October, 1970.

Quebec Within the Rules On FLQ Probe in France

By DAN POTTIER
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Quebec officials acted within the rules by going to France recently to interview members of the Front de Liberation du Quebec (FLQ), but the federal government would have liked prior notice.

External Affairs Minister Don Jamieson told reporters yesterday "they might have notified our (Paris) embassy — but they did not have to."

Jamieson told the Commons earlier Quebec contacted the French government directly to arrange the interviews as is permitted by a 50-year-old Canada-France treaty.

The Quebec justice department has interviewed five FLQ members as part of its continuing work to rebuild the file on the October Crisis of 1970.

Prime Minister Trudeau told Eldon Woolliams (PC—Calgary North) he found it "puzzling" that French intelligence officers would have attended the interviews.

When asked why that was puzzling to the government, Jamieson merely said "we do not know why they took that particular route."

The minister said his department was unaware of the contact with FLQ members in France until recent press reports revealed what took place.

Pot Bill Revised

By JIM ROBB
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The federal government is revising its marijuana bill, which passed the Senate in 1975 and then sat on the Commons order paper for 18 months without being called for debate. It died when the last session of Parliament ended.

Health Minister Monique Begin told the Commons Tuesday the bill, which would have decriminalized simple possession of Marijuana and greatly reduced fines for possession, was being revised by the solicitor-general's department to improve certain sections.

Begin and Solicitor-General Jean-Jacques Blais would not say when the bill would be introduced in the House.

Justice Minister Ron Basford announced in August, 1977, that a bill was being planned to take marijuana out of the Narcotics Control Act and put it under the Food and Drug Act. It has yet to be introduced.

At that time, Basford said it was plannef to declassify marijuana as a dangerous narcotic and impose lighter penalties for simple possession.

In February the Liberal' Party's policy convention passed a resolution, introduced by the party's youth wing, that called for decriminalization of possession.

In 1976, convictions for possession totalled 30,523, a jump of 15 per cent over 1975 convictions. Jail terms were handed out to 1,240 of those convicted, with 35 individuals getting terms of two to four years.

The government's bill that passed the Senate would have imposed a maximum fine of $500 for first time possession of marijuana and fines of up to $1,000 for subsequent possession offences.

The present penalties include fines of up to $2,000 and imprisonment for up to seven years.

Begin said the current revisions of the government bill followed unspecified representations made by the Canadian Medical Association.

Gov't Unites In Jails Plea

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberals, Conservatives and New Democrats united Tuesday to urge Solicitor-General Jean-Jacques Blais to implement basic structural changes in the federal prison system.

The plea came as Blais and officials of the Canadian Penitentiary Service appeared before the Commons justice committee.

Committee members last June recommended to Parliament that the penitentiary service be an independent agency resembling the RCMP.

Chairman Mark MacGuigan (L — Windsor-Walkerville) told Blais the committee is unanimous in urging the minister to divorce the prison system from the public service altogether.

MacGuigan said the MPs are particularly concerned about continued reliance on the Public Service Staff Relations Board to handle procedures when prison employees are disciplined.

Prison wardens last year told the MPs it is virtually impossible to get rid of corrupt or incompetent employees because the board tends to roll back suspensions or reject dismissals.

Blais reitereated his contention that the adjudication process through the board really hasn't been tested by the prison system.

He said he has talked directly to board officials to give them more insight into the system's problems. He also was implanting a code of ethics in regulations to guide employees and adjudicators.

"If you're not going to change the structure, you're not going to improve the system," Stuart Leggatt (NDP — New Westminster) told Blais.

Leggatt and Simma Holt (L — Vancouver-Kingsway) said prisoners in British Columbia Penitentiary — and probably other maximum-security prisons as well — still are idle nearly a year after the MPs recommended emphasis on work programs.

"A year is too darn long to start showing some meaningful change," Leggatt said.

Mrs. Holt maintained that officials "with a vested interest in keepking the status quo" are blocking real change.

JOINT PRACTICE

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — U.S. Air Force units will soon conduct their first ever joint air manoeuvres in Canada with Canadian forces, the U.S. defence department announced Tuesday.

It said more than 300 U.S. fighters, bombers and helicopters, and 325 U.S. military personnel will participate in the month-long training exercise starting April 22.

The manoeuvres will take place at the Cold Lake, Alta., military base, 168 kilometres northeast of Edmonton, a densely-wooded area similar to the central European plain defended by U.S. and Canadian NATO forces.

Seal Pup Flippers Sell Fast

TORONTO (CP) — The owner of Gosse's Newfoundland Grocery says orders are pouring in for seal pup flippers, considered a delicacy by some.

Mrs. Herbert Fowler said in an interview that a lot of customers are ordering three or four dozen flippers, which weigh about 1½ pounds and sell for $2.89 each.

"I just got a call for 18 to go to Calgary. A guy's going to pick them up."

Some people prefer seal pup carcasses to the flippers, Mrs. Fowler said. The carcasses, about 12 pounds each, will arrive shortly.

She said the price of the flippers is only up about 10 cents from last year, adding that air freight from St. John's, Nfld., is expensive. The flippers can be roasted or stewed.

Mrs. Fowler, originally from Conception Bay, has owned the grocery store for six months.

CONGRATS FOR NFB LEFT TO ACADEMY

OTTAWA (CP) — Cyril Symes (NDP—Sault Ste Marie) was unable to convince all his fellow MPs Tuesday that Parliament should congratulate the National Film Board for winning two Oscars.

He failed to get unanimous consent to put a motion to congratulate the NFB for winning the best animated and best short film classes with its films, The Sandcastle and I'll Find a Way.

He did get some applause.

M-m-m-m, Those Beanpot Beans!

tiny bennett

Recently, while discussing the superb quality of beans baked in traditional earthenware pot, my daughter-in-law, Barbara, stunned me with a notion.

"Yes," she said, "and they do a beef stew, or what is it — a casserole of beef? — better than any way that I know."

Of course, Barbara was right, yet it was a use of a fine cooking idea that had never occurred to me. And I just couldn't wait to try it out.

When we moved into the country 12 years ago, I found that the local hardware stores carried as a matter of course traditional beanpots of earthenware and fitted lids, and I bought two — one big, the other bigger. They cost about $2 and change each, at that time, and although they cost much more today, they are to be found in all gourmet centres.

I adore home-baked beans, and for years I've made up batches in one or the other of those two bean pots, and all our guests have drooled over them. Here's my own special recipe:

TINY'S BEANPOT BEANS

Wash and rinse two cups white navy beans the night before and soak overnight overnight in 12 cups of water. Strain off in the morning, reserving the water, put into a large saucepan, cover an inch deep with fresh water, bring to a low simmer, and simmer uncovered until the skins of the beans split and wrinkle when you blow on them.

Set the oven on 250 F., drain the beans and spoon into the crock, and bury, deep in the middle, one small, peeled onion. Then mix together to pour over the beans, ⅓ cup brown sugar, 1 tbs. salt, 1½ tsp. dry mustard, ½ tsp. ground black pepper, 1 cup coarse unrefined molasses, and ¼ cup maple syrup or substitute corn syrup.

Cut a ¼ pound hunk of salt pork into finger size, poke each down into the beans, and boiling up the bean-soaking water, add to the pot until the beans are awash.

Cover the pot and bake in the 250 F. oven for eight hours, removing the lid for the final 30 minutes, to brown the beans. And what you don't eat that first day can be set up with lean ground beef to make a chili con carne that is out of this world.

At a party at a neighbor's house I was carving a Georgia ham, with a fine knife at that, when she asked: "Do you like the beans?" I tasted them and they were fabulous. "Navy rum — I thought I'd try it," said Janet Berton, well known cook and cooking writer.

Beans in a pot are typically North American, and very good too, but thinking over what Barbara had said, I could have kicked myself, because the use of such pots for the long, slow cooking of all kinds of casserole foods is centuries old. And well used in country cooking in France, Belgium and Germany.

I've specified country cooking because this is a method that allows homemakers to set a pot of food into the bake oven in the morning, go out and work in the fields, and to come in and settle down for a drink with dinner all ready.

That same game plan applies equally here in the setting of a food pot in a slow-slow-oven, to be ready at dinner-time.

ONE-POT BAKED LAMB

Take one or two shoulders of lamb, cut into shoulder chops, and using a sharp knife, remove all the lean nuggets, throwing away the fat. Cut the lean pieces into inch-squares.

In a heavy skillet, saute the lean lamb squares until browned on all sides, in the oil of your choice.

Combine in a bowl, ¼ cup flour, 1 tsp. salt, dash of thyme, and ground pepper, plus a bit of powdered marjoram. Mix well together and sprinkling over the browned meats, stir and turn until mixed and double-browned . . . about five minutes.

Cut two pounds of peeled potatoes and pound of peeled onions and carrots into thin slices.

Now, layer down into your earthenware bean pot, or in your tight-lid, oven casserole dish, a layer of about one-third of the thinly sliced vegetables in the bottom of the pot. Cover this with half the browned lamb, and then another layer of vegetables, the rest of the lamb, and topping off with the last of the 'mixed' vegetables.

Once again, bring up a quart of stock to the boil, pour in to bring the stock above the level of the food, and sealing the lid with dough made by mixing flour with water, pop into a 250 F. oven.

Sealing off the pot by sinking the lid into a layer of dough, prevents the escape of steam, and thus there is no need to replace lost gravy.

But oh, that wonderful aroma, when you crack the dough at the table, and that beautiful, slow-cooking baked lamb dish breathes out at you.

Sausage Cakes For Just 88 Cents

Mary Moore

Constantly my mind is on economy. But I do not want to sacrifice flavor, appetite appeal and most of all, good nutrition.

For 88 cents I bought a one-pound "chub" of sausage meat and made it into an attractive platter of sausage cakes garnished with orange sections.

COUNTRY SAUSAGE FLORIDA STYLE
(9 sausage cakes)

1 chub of frozen sausage meat, 1 lb., thawed
1 egg
½ slice whole wheat bread
1 tsp. crumbled dried sage (home grown by Pete)
1 tbsp. fresh frozen orange juice concentrate ¼ tsp. nutmeg
shake of cayenne pepper
9 orange slices or wedges

Thaw sausage meat. Slit plastic wrap and scrape meat into beater bowl. Add the egg, bread, sage, orange juice concentrate and spices. Beat all together on high until mixed.

Spoon nine mounds into your cold ungreased electric frying pan and with two knives shape them into rough mounds. Turn heat on high and with back of lifter (or spatula) flatten cakes a little. Cook until underside is rich gold. Turn over and cook other side. This took me about nine minutes to achieve a rich gold finish on both sides.

Transfer to preheated platter. Have ready the orange wedges or slices and arrange between sausage cakes as an accompaniment and garnish.

I served ours with mashed sweet potatoes and broccoli in a small amount of thin cheese sauce made by melting 1 tablespoon margarine and stirring in 1 tablespoon flour and ½ teaspoon salt. When blended I stirred in 1 cup milk and ½ cup grated old cheese until thick. I poured this boiling hot over the cooked broccoli in preheated vegetable dish. Extra popular.

Note: I strained and reserved the surplus sausage fat from pan and will use it for cooking pancakes or browning meat balls or as the fat ingredient for fried rice or browning breadcrumbs for stuffing.

Plenty of Oils Pass All the Tests

By RUTH FREMES and ZAK SABRY

DEAR RUTH AND ZAK:

What oil do you recommend? The corn oil in our local supermarket has monoisopropyl citrate and dimenthylploysiloxane added to it. Are these harmful?

I know sunflower seed oil is good. The brand sold in our local supermarket mentions no ingredients at all. Does this mean no chemicals added? — Name Withheld, Dorval, Que.

DEAR READER:

The oils we recommend are those high in polyunsaturated fat, such as corn, sunflower, safflower, soyabean, cottonseed and peanut oils. The only vegetable oils we warn against are palm and coconut and any vegetable oil that is designated as hydrogenated; these would have substantial amounts of saturated fat.

The chemicals added to the brand of oil you saw are antioxidant and antifoaming agents, which will help preserve the oil and prevent it from frothing. These are not added to every oil. As you pointed out that they were not in the sunflower oil; if they were added they would have been on the label.

Now, we come to the question whether or not these chemicals are harmful. Clearly they are not, considering the quantities of oil you are expected to consume.

eating right

You are not about to drink the stuff by the glassful. So, there is no question of harm. If, however, you wish to avoid oils with antioxidants and antifoaming agents, you should appreciate that there are oils available in the supermarket to which none of these chemicals have been added. It is good to know that you can still buy nutritionally good oil, with or without chemical additives.

DEAR RUTH AND ZAK:

Some years ago, I used to buy raw wheat germ. It was rich and had to be kept under refrigeration. It has become almost impossible to find this any more. Even the health food stores keep the wheat germ on the shelves although some of them mark it raw. It is obvious that most, if not all, the oil has been removed.

My question is this: Is there any nutritive value in this product and is it worth buying? — C.H., Coburg, Ont.

DEAR C.H.:

We wouldn't buy raw wheat germ unless we were sure of its freshness, as we would in buying it from a mill. That's difficult to do nowadays. Most of us have to buy our foods, wheat germ included, from stores and supermarkets. Since wheat germ contains a fair amount of oil, and it is a polyunsaturated oil, it tends to get rancid quickly. Rancidity will also mean that the amount of vitamin E in the wheat germ has decreased substantially. This is why it is better to buy the roasted wheat germ. The roasting destroys the enzymes in the wheat germ that speed the process of rancidity. Some manufacturers package the wheat germ, after roasting, in a jar or a tightly sealed plastic pouch. This is certainly desirable to keep the fresh flavor of the product. We wouldn't buy wheat germ that has been loosely packaged in a plastic bag that has been stapled or closed with a piece of adhesive tape.

Now, you should be aware that wheat germ is often sold after removing the oil from it completely. This product should be labelled accordingly and the words "defatted" or "oil removed" or others to this effect should appear on the label. This labelling is certainly the case in wheat germ products sold in supermarkets. Labelling of such products in smaller stores, such as most health food stores, may not be carefully regulated or closely watched by government inspectors. In this case, it will be hard to know what you are buying.

The removal of the oil (or the defatting of wheat germ) actually takes away the oil and the fat-soluble vitamins, such as vitamin E, from the product. You still get the protein and the water soluble B vitamins and minerals. So, it is not completely devoid of nutritional value but, if you are taking wheat germ for the vitamin E it contains, it will not be in the defatted product.

DEAR RUTH AND ZAK:

I read in one of Adelle Davis' books that the body cannot utilize the calcium in skim milk unless fat is consumed at the same time. If I eat two soft-boiled eggs with my skim milk, will the fat of the eggs facilitate the absorption of calcium from the skim milk? What if I eat a raisin bran muffin (ingredients: stone-ground whole wheat flour, raisins, soya oil, unsulfured molasses, wheat bran, fresh eggs and milk, raw sugar, leavening) with the skim milk?

If neither the eggs nor the muffin would help the absorption of calcium, how much oil do I need to consume with one cup of skim milk to do the job? — Name Withheld, Dorval, Que.

DEAR READER:

We wish Adelle Davis hadn't said that. There is no truth at all in her statement. She must have turned a lot of people away from drinking skim milk, considered to be one of the best foods for the money.

The ability of the body to use calcium is dependent on the presence in the diet of the right amount of phosphorus and on having vitamin D either in the diet or formed in the body from exposure to sunlight and being outdoors. Skim milk itself has, in addition to the generous amount of calcium, plenty of phosphorus. What's more, all skim milk sold in Canada has vitamin D added to it in the needed amount. So, you don't have to worry about what else you should eat with it. Skim milk goes well with many foods, including eggs and muffins.

The value of skim milk comes from the fact that it contains hardly any fat. With so many of our foods loaded with fat, it is encouraging to find a food that provides nearly all the nutrients needed except for much iron, vitamin C, and fat, of course.

dear abby

Savings Habit Leaves Her Cold

DEAR ABBY: Do you think a refrigerator is a good place to keep money stored? My husband keeps all our savings in our refrigerator, and when I think of all the interest we're missing out on, it's very upsetting to me. Don't tell me to try to convince him to open a savings account, because he'll only say he wants his money where he can get it in a hurry.

Any suggestions you have will be greatly appreciated.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: A refrigerator is a poor place to store one's savings — whether it's hot money or cold cash. Aside from the interest you're losing, you risk being robbed. Tell that lunkhead you're married to to do himself a favor and put at least part of it into a savings account!

DEAR ABBY: When I got home from work last evening, my wife said to me, "Rory (our 15-year-old son) sassed me back so I am giving him the cold, silent treatment, and I want you to do the same."

Abby, I told her that I was not going to go along with that kind of stuff — that if the boy sassed her back, it was HER problem. He never sasses ME BACK.

The wife got mad and now she's giving ME the silent treatment, too. Was I wrong, or was she?

ATLANTA QUERY

DEAR ATLANTA: She was wrong for demanding that you punish the boy per her prescription. And you were wrong, too, for letting her down. Although Rory wasn't guilty of sassing YOU, his rudeness to his mother calls for some kind of punishment. And since his mother appears unable to discipline the boy, it becomes YOUR responsibility.

A few well-chosen "hot" words from you could have accomplished more than the cold, silent treatment. Unless you want a father-son team versus mother, try to develop better communication with your wife.

DEAR ABBY: It is the height of stupidity when a smoker starts to light up, stops abruptly, then hypocritically asks, "Is it all right if I smoke?"

Of course its NOT all right!

In addition, I'm tired of having my home stunk up. I want to breathe clean air and so do my children. I'm dumping every ashtray I own.

I sympathize with smokers. I used to be one, but I quit. It was't easy. Now I would like to apologize to everyone whose air I fouled up when I smoked around them.

NEW BRIGHTON

DEAR NEW: It's hardly "the height of stupidity" to ask, but it is the "height of rudeness" to smoke if the answer is no. And "no smoking" is a movement whose time has come.

DEAR ABBY: Women are constantly on guard against the tall, dark, handsome type who has a reputation for sweeping a girl off her feet. But who would believe that a short, fat, 50-year-old, balding man with dentures could come so close to ruining my life?

What did he have? Charm! His words were absolute poetry. He had me believing I was the most desirable woman on earth. (Ha! I am 48, skinny and look every bit my age.) You guessed it. It worked for him for years before we "discovered" each other. We are both married to others.

What brought me to my senses? One night I heard him tell his wife on the phone why he wouldn't be home for dinner. How convincingly he lied to her! Then I asked myself, "How can he be so false to her and true to me?" And then it ended.

Thank God, I saw the light. and now, when I realize how many innocent people could have been hurt had I continued this affair, I shudder. Print this. Perhaps another woman is still trapped as I was.

Apricot Oatmeal Muffins

1¼ c. rolled oats (instant or regular)
1 c. unsifted all-purpose flour
⅓ c. sugar
1 tbsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
⅔ c. milk
One 4½-oz. jar apricot puree (baby food)
1 egg
¼ c. oil
1 tsp. vanilla
½ c. finely chopped dried apricots
½ c. raisins

Into a mixing bowl measure the rolled oats, flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Mix thoroughly.

In another bowl beat together the milk, apricot puree, egg, oil, vanilla. Tip this liquid mixture into the dry ingredients and beat only enough to blend. Remove beaters and stir in apricots and raisins.

Line an average-sized muffin pan with twelve large paper cupcake liners. Spoon batter in to ⅔ full. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes. Remove from oven and serve warm in bun basket.

Sweet Way to Cut Down Sugar

Stuffed dates and stuffed prunes are usually considered as candies, for their fillings are both sweet and highly flavored. Yet these nutritious fruits can be made into snacks that are even more desirable as good food.

If we use a filling that combines flavor with interesting texture and slight sweetness which complements that of the dates and prunes, the result is a delicacy to enjoy as part of a meal or as a snack at coffee or tea time, or for youngsters with a glass of milk.

Enough has been written and spoken about the harmful effects of the high daily intake of sugar by North Americans (these include us Canadians) that each adult, at least should now be aware of the need to decrease. One third of a pound — 150 grams — each day is the average per person, as quoted from a new York Times News Service column a few years back.

You may use more, I may use less, but only the average shows in statistics.

Early in 1975 sugar prices rose abruptly to a poiint where everyone complained. A few bought less and made it last longer but I know some consumers claimed they could no longer afford to bake at home so bought pies, cakes and cookies ready made. Their intake of sugar was thus actually increased — not lessened; it is hoped their error in thinking was discovered before the family budget became bankrupt.

Sugar, white or brown, not only causes overweight, but can also be the source of malnutrition and underweight for its curbs the appetite for a normal variety of vegetables, fruits and grains.

But blackstrap molasses, according to Dr. Jean Mayer (professor of Nutrition, Harvard), provides 16 per cent of the day's calcium needs in a tablespoonful, together with 12 per cent of the day's iron and some B vitamins.

With a nutritious snack food in mind, (not in place of a complete meal) take a look at the ingredients for the Stuffed Dates and Prunes below.

For molasses see above. Peanut butter contains protein with vegetable oil, a little calcium, iron and some of the B vitamins. The fat is half the amount rated for the same one tablespoon of butter or margarine.

Skim milk powder has its own sugar in the form of lactose; the non-instant skim powder I used has higher protein rating per tablespoon than the same amount of instant skim powerd but it lacks the increase of vitamin A and D commonly added to powdered skim.

Sunflower meal is simply ground sunflower seeds. Chopped seeds could be substituted for more crunchy texture. Both the peanut butter and the sunflower meal are good sources of protein, the minerals calcium and iron, and contribute the unsaturated fats so desirable for the absorption of fat-soluble vitamins. The lightly toasted wheat germ adds not only a pleasant texture and flavor but is rich in B vitamins, and minerals that aid nutrition.

Dates and prunes supply not only fructose, a natural sugar for energy, but the minerals calcium and iron plus some of the vitamins A and the B complex. So we see that although we are not making a meal of these concoctions, there are no empty calories; every calorie contributes nutrients.

STUFFED DATES AND PRUNES

2 Tbsp. blackstrap molasses
2 Tbsp. peanut butter (unsalted)
¼ cup non-instant skim milk powder
2 Tbsp. sunflower meal
½ cup (or less) wheat germ
2 Tbsp. sunflower oil
A little water as needed
Whole dates
Whole dried prunes.

Lightly toast about ½-cup wheat germ in a pan over low heat, shaking and stirring to prevent burning. If all is not used in this recipe, that remaining can go over granola or other cereals or into cookies.

First prepare 12 dates by opening lengthwise to remove stone; do not separate the halves. Dried prunes may need soaking if very dry, but should still be firm when handled. Some kinds need no soaking. Cut down into prunes just enough to remove stones.

Now make filling: In s small bowl, cream blackstrap molasses with the unsalted peanut butter with a wooden spoon. Stir in skim milk powder until smooth. Add sunflower meal and stir.

Begin adding toasted wheat germ gradually, working it in well with spoon. Add as much as the stiff mixture will hold. If it becomes too dry, a teaspoon of sunflower oil softens it; and more wheat germ can be worked in. A teaspoon of water can be added as softener if mixture suddenly becomes dry again with the wheat germ. It takes moisture up readily.

Stuffing the Dates and Prunes: Take a small piece of stiff mixture in fingers (it will be like a stiff dough) and mold into a wad to place in hollow of each date. Partially close the halves together; a gap will still show filling.

Do same with prunes; they will be more circular, and show an edging of prune around the filling.

If fruits seem sticky at this point, dust each lightly with skim milk powder, or roll in remainder of toasted wheat germ.

Place on waxed paper on tray to set firm on shelf in refrigerator for three or four ours. They improve with several days keeping in dry cupboard later.

Remaining filling mix can be smoothed out on waxed paper to chill in same way, and then cut into one-inch squares.

Store on waxed paper in covered tin in cool dry place.

The most noticeable immediate reaction to these snacks is that although slightly sweet with the fruits, they leave the mouth refreshed and moist.

They are indeed packed with nutrition at small cost, and for people without medical dietary restrictions they make inexpensive snacks for the middle of active spring and summer days ahead.

CITRUS SALAD DRESSING

⅔ cup salad oil
1 teaspoon fresh grated grapefruit peel
⅓ cup fresh squeezed grapefruit juice
2 tablespoons fresh squeezed lemon juice
2 tablespoons honey
½ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon salt

In a jar with lid, combine all ingredients; chill. Shake well before serving. Makes about 1 cup.

Lemony Dessert

1 egg
2 egg yolks
2 teaspoons fresh grated lemon peel
6 tablespoons fresh squeezed lemon juice
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup butter or margarine
Dash salt

In saucepan, slightly beat eggs; add remaining ingredients. Cook over low heat; stir constantly until mixture thickens, about 5 to 8 minutes. Serve hot or cold. Makes about 1¼ cups.

Serve over a selection of fresh tropical fruits.

A PAN-FRIED TREAT

¼ cup all-purpose flour
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 tbsp. water
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs, (approx.)
½ pt. oysters
⅓ cup butter (approx., add more if necessary)
2 tbsp. lemon juice
1 to 2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
Salt and pepper (to taste)
Hot buttered toast rounds
6 slices bacon, crisp-cooked, drained; crumbled
Parsley sprigs (garnish)
Lemon twists (garnish)

On waxed paper, place flour. In small bowl, combine egg and water. Place bread crumbs in separate bowl. Roll oysters first in flour; dip in egg mixture then coat well with bread crumbs (press crumbs into oysters). Cover; refrigerate for about 15 minutes to allow coating to set. In skillet, melt butter. Cook oysters on both sides in butter, over low heat until the edges start to curl. Remove oysters from skillet with slotted spoon; set aside; keep warm. Into drippings, stir lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Drizzle mixture over oysters. Serve oysters on hot buttered toast rounds.

TWO LIQUID BREAD COMING UP

By JACK SCHREIBMAN

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "Beer is liquid bread," says Gustav W. Chyba, brewmaster of Anheuser-Busch's new 16-acre brewery in Fairfield, Calif., east of here.

Although nutritionists say that isn't literally true, records indicate that many cultures believed the relationship between beer and risen bread to be more than just nodding.

Anthropologists have interpreted inscriptions on clay tablets dating back to Babylonia in 6000 BC as showing the preparation of a simple beer, a crude variation of the process of beer-making today — alcoholic fermentation of a grain, plus flavorings.

In Egypt of the Pharaoahs, beer was considered important in daily diet. The daily food allotment of ordinary people of the time included four loaves of bread and two jugs of beer. Mothers delivered lunch — including beer — to their sons in school.

In China 2,300 years before Christ, the peasants called their beer "kiu." The ancient Incas, long before the discovery of South America, even had light and heavy beers, which they called either "chicha" or "sora."

The classical Greeks kept careful records of their beer-making and described recipes that spread to Rome. Beer is believed to have been discovered independently in Northern Europe.

Columbus is said to have been given Indian beer on the Central American coast. Made of corn, it was considered a cousin of the beverage known to North American Indians for many years.

Reference works claim that the Pilgrims fleeing England in the Mayflower in 1620 suffered an emergency of the first order and chose Plymouth to start their New World.

A manuscript dated 1622 read, ". . . For we could not now take time for further search or consideration, our victuals being much spent, especially our beer. . . ."

Zip Loaves From Zucchini

- 3 eggs
- 1 cup oil
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 2 cups washed, finely shredded, unpared zucchini, well packed
- 1½ cups cake-and-pastry flour
- 1 cup whole wheat flour (preferably stone ground)
- ½ cup wheat germ
- 1 tsp. salt
- 2 tsp. nutmeg (preferably freshly grated)
- 1 tsp. baking soda
- ½ tsp. baking powder
- ½ cup chopped nuts.

In beater bowl beat together eggs, oil, sugar, vanilla and finely shredded zucchini. Now with beater on "low" begin adding all remaining ingredients as you measure them. This batter is quite thin.

Double-wax-paper-line two glass loaf pans and butter the wax paper. My glass loaf pans measure 8½x4½x2¾". Pour the batter in to about ⅔ full. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. 1 hour. Turn out on racks, peel off wax paper. Cool. Freezer-wrap one and use one current meal.

CAJUN TOUCH

- 1 cup chopped onions
- 1 cup chopped green peppers
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 tablespoons bacon drippings or oil
- 1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3 cups hot cooked rice
- 1 can (15 oz.) pinto beans or pinto beans seasoned with jalapeno pepper

Saute onions, green peppers and garlic in drippings until tender crisp. Stir in tomato sauce, beans and salt; simmer for 10 minutes. Serve over beds of fluffy rice. Makes 6 servings. Serve with barbecued brisket, ribs, or hamburger steak.

Vertigo: Deep Look Needed

By L. L. COLEMAN, M.D.

One of the most common complaints brought to the attention of doctors is dizziness. Vertigo, or dizziness, is not a disease. Rather it is a symptom. The degree of vertigo varies from a tiny, momentary feeling of imbalance to a sudden, severe incapacitating spell.

A great many people complain of "dizziness" when in reality they mean a sense of light-headedness, blurred eyesight or faintness.

Because the statement "I feel dizzy" is often so vague and confusing, doctors probe deeply into every facet of the complaint so that there will be no mistaken notion about what the underlying problem is.

For some strange reason, an attack of dizziness is thought by some people to be an attack of Meniere's disease. And stranger still is the fact that the name "Meniere's" has a terrifying connotation that seems to suggest impending disaster.

Meniere's disease is a relatively rare disorder. It is true that dizziness is a symptom of this condition, but not all dizziness is related to Meniere's disease.

There is a temptation, too, to identify an attack of dizziness, mild or severe, with an inner ear disturbance. The reason for this is that the centre of balance lies deep within the inner ear. There, three tiny, semi-circular canals contain droplets of fluid which constantly adjust to every change of position of the head. There can, indeed, be an inner ear disturbance that causes dizziness. This is known as "labyrinthitis." However, this is far less frequently the cause of dizziness than many other conditions.

The following is only a partial list of the factors that are taken into consideration by the physician in an effort to establish a positive reason for vertigo, or the sensation of dizziness: 1. high or low blood pressure; 2. side effects of drugs; 3. ear infections; 4. eye disorders; 5. sudden, rapid changes of position; 6. allergies; 7. excess alcohol, coffee or tobacco; 8. arteriosclerosis of the blood vessels of the brain; 9. excessive intake of salt and fluids; 10. extraordinary fatigue; 11. low blood sugar; 12. emotional stress; 13. stomach upset; 14. motion sickness on a plane, train, ship or car; 15. neurological diseases.

It should be apparent from this partial, yet far-ranging list that close co-operation between the patient and the doctor is essential if the exact reason for dizziness is to be uncovered.

Often this unpleasant symptom calls forth a great deal of anxiety. Many people become concerned and believe that the vague sensation of dizziness indicated the beginnings of a severe illness. Patients need a great deal of assurance at this time. This assurance can be gotten only by tracking down the exact cause of the dizziness.

Montreal House Prices Tumbled

Washington Post

MONTREAL — The classified ads tell woeful tales of $250,000 houses reduced for quick sale and tenants willing to take substantial losses on unexpired leases in the predominantly English-speaking sectors of this city.

In the 16 months since the Quebec government under Premier Rene Levesque came to power and passed legislation making French the official language of business and most education, the exodus from Montreal of English-speaking Canadians, along with Americans and other English-speaking foreigners, has accelerated.

As many as 60,000 residents, or five per cent of the population of the western city, may have moved away, according to Martin E. Borner, president of the Montreal Real Estate Board. This estimate is strongly disputed by French-Canadians, but no definitive figures seem to be available.

As a result, there is little movement in luxury residential properties priced above $100,000, Borner said. These houses are on the market for long periods, and when they do sell, it is often for well below the asking price, he noted.

The market value of these homes is off anywhere from 15 to 30 per cent from the peak prices of two or three years ago. Lenders have become more cautious, granting mortgages on a maximum of half the purchase price — at 10½ per cent interest.

Those who sell at a sacrifice, Borner said, tend to be executives whose corporations pay for their relocation or wealthy individuals who choose to forgo profits on houses purchased several years ago because they believe prices will go even lower.

Because of the tremendous appreciation of real estate until recently, home owners of long standing can still sell and come out ahead — if buyers can be found. Yet, when Montreal homeowners move to Toronto — as many corporations are doing — they find the reverse situation; the equivalent of a $85,000 house here costs $120,000 in Toronto.

Rentals and sublets are increasing as homeowners and corporations seek compromise interim solutions. Homeowners who are unwilling or unable to sell out look for tenants. Businesses adopting a wait-and-see attitude toward the Levesque government prefer to place their executives in rental accommodations so they can pull out easily if necessary.

In the middle price range, more activity is recorded as native English-speaking Montrealers who have decided to stick it out and French-speaking Montrealers trade up. Construction has halted in English areas and is beginning to slacken in traditionally French neighborhoods.

Housing starts in Canada this year are expected to total about 230,000 units, down from 246,000 in 1977.

In addition to the exodus of English-speaking residents, Quebec housing has also been hurt by trends affecting the entire country: The continuing economic recession, rising interest rate and land costs, plus a two months carryover inventory.

Federal urban affairs minister Andre Ouellet told the Housing and Development Association of Canada recently that the country has 45,000 excess units. He urged builders who can't find buyers to rent out the vacant units. This could help low-income renters find housing, the association's president noted.

Another problem is faulty construction. About 20,000 of the 45,000 vacant units need repairs to make them habitable. The largest share of those uninhabitable units — 16,000 — is in Quebec. On the commercial scene, the situation is stagnant. Real Estate Board President Borner said he could count on one hand the number of new office buildings constructed since the 1975-76 peak. Unemployment in the construction trades now stands at 15 per cent.

The office vacancy rate edged up during the last six months of 1977 from 9.3 to 9.6 per cent overall, leaving 1.5 million square feet of office space unoccupied, according to the Building Owners and Managers Association of Montreal. While the vacancy rate in prime commercial buildings dipped from 10.6 per cent in June, 1977, to 8.6 per cent in January of this year, it rose from 14.2 per cent to 16.2 per cent in the northern and western sections of the city.

Prices have softened somewhat in older buildings, although prime locations still command $11 to $12 per square foot.

Large Canadian developers are still building suburban shopping centres here, but since there is also a surfeit of commercial property in Toronto, many of the have turned their attention to building and investing south of the border.

Still, the situation is not entirely bleak, said Borner, whose firm, Montreal International Investment Properties ltd., specializes in attracting overseas capital into the North American market. He believes few foreigners who bought large office buildings in Montreal are selling because they look at their purchases as long-term investments and feel the political problems are only temporary.

And, as investors, they dislike the prospect of heavy losses they would encounter now, given the sinking Canadian dollar. Canada's currency is now worth 89 American cents. Like the American dollar, it has fallen sharply against European currencies.

BUFFALO PACT

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Employees at the Anaconda Co. Brass Division plant here changed their minds Tuesday and decided to end a six-month long strike. Workers at five other Anaconda plants across the U.S. agreed to return to their jobs following a weekend contract ratification vote, but union officials here had said unsettled local issues would keep Buffalo workers on strike.

Barnyard Tapes In Court

MILL HALL, England (CP) — Having read all about Watergate, Pamela Sanderson's neighbors knew just what to do when her farmyard pets kept waking them up at dawn — they made tapes of the sounds so they could be played in High Court to back up their complaints.

As in "Old Macdonald Had a Farm" there was a quack-quack here and a quack-quack there from Mrs. Sanderson's 15 ducks and 30 chickens; a cackle from her nine geese; a few squawks from her peacock and his two mistresses and a throaty bleat from Billy the Goat — all bottled up on tape.

At a preliminary court hearing in this rustic suburb of outer London, the neighbors said living next to Mrs. Sanderson's farm was absolute bedlam and they had sound tapes to prove it.

Mr. Justice Walton told them if they played the tapes in court they must provide their own apparatus.

"We all know these days what erasure of tapes can do," the judge said, and set down the hearing for a later date.

Outside the court, pretty dark-haired Mrs. Sanderson said:

"Some of my neighbors wouldn't know the difference between one of my ducks, a screech owl or a fox. They blame me for all the noises although there is a farm across the road and a spinney at the bottom of the garden. We have two acres of garden and we hardly live on top of our neighbors.

"This argument has been going on for two years, but I'm not going to give up. Would you give up if they told you to get rid of your pets? I happen to be passionately fond of animals and I breed ducks for a hobby. It has nothing to do with self-sufficiency."

On the way to the court, Mrs. Sanderson rescued a stranded duck from the middle of a lane of traffic.

"I think finding the duck was a good omen," she said. "I shall call it Justice."

Mrs. Sanderson, her husband Ian and their three children also have a cat but no one has complained about that.

Mother Teresa - Saint of the Gutters

VIJAYAWADA, India (AP) — The short woman with boundless determination and a soft but assertive voice counts on daily miracles to see her work succeed.

She is Mother Teresa, the Yugoslav-born nun who has been called a living saint, Calcutta's saint of the gutters.

The 67-year-old founder of the Missionaries of Charity order adopted the once prosperous farming community of Mandapakala in southeast India following last November's cyclone and tidal wave disaster.

Mandapakala was piled with dead bodies the day Mother Teresa arrived to supervise relief operations and she said she came "only to distribute the Lord's compassion."

The village lost 2,000 of its 3,000 residents. The five-metre-high tidal wave swept up mud-walled houses, drowned livestock and carried the living and the dead several kilometres farther inland.

She said the survivors "need to forget the disaster." "They must begin life again."

Mother Teresa has seen the situation before in relief operations after floods in Bangladesh and India and the earthquake two years ago in Guatemala.

She describes as a miracle the airline tickets becoming available without cost to fly her and seven sisters part of the way from her headquarters in Calcutta.

Another one occurred on the road to Vijayawada. Mother Teresa found a group of doctors stranded when their car broke down. They immediately decided to join her relief operations in the storm-ravaged villages of Andhra Pradesh state.

One official in Vijayawada, a local government centre and the base for cyclone relief operations said, "It's hard to say no to a living saint."

Mother Teresa was born Aug. 27, 1910, in Skopje, Yugoslavia, to Albanian shopkeepers who named her Agnes Gonxha Bejaxhiu. At age 12, she decided to become a nun and six years later joined the Sisters of Loreto, an Irish order, which sent her to India in 1928 to teach.

In 1947, she moved into Calcutta's slums and set up her first school. The following year, she took Indian citizenship and was given permission by Rome to start the Missionaries of Charity.

Mother Teresa then persuaded the City of Calcutta to give her a house next to a Hindu temple where derelicts "could die in peace, in human dignity and touched for once by the love of God."

Called The Home of the Dying Destitute, it created an uproar when it opened in 1952 and 400 Hindu Brahmin priests organized demonstrations demanding that the Catholics leave.

She overcame the crisis by one day saying to the priests: "If you want to kill me, kill me. But do not disturb the inmates. Let them die in peace."

In the morning, after two hours of prayer and meditation, the nuns go into Calcutta's streets to pick up the seriously ill. At the home, where half of the inmates eventually recover, an average of one person dies each day. Mother Teresa goes to the home once a week when she is in Calcutta, and after visiting the sick, proceeds to clean the toilets.

The Missionaries of Charity now run 81 schools, more than 300 hospitals and about 65 relief centres and missions in more than 50 Indian cities. They also have missionaries in North and South America, Africa, Asia and the Middle East.

Happy Birthday, Bette. . .

"It's just another birthday," she says of her 70th today. "A big one, I'll admit, but I don't believe in birthdays."

An expectable response from an actress who, unlike some others, has never been reluctant to reveal her age: She was born April 5, 1908, in Lowell, Mass.

At 70, Bette Davis exhibits no slackening of her enormous energies. She declined a recent birthday interview — "I'm much too busy with the Academy Awards and all that."

She has spent 47 years in films and during the past year appeared in three movies: Disney's Return from Witch Mountain, the television film Harvest Home and the all-star Agatha Christie mystery Death on the Nile, her 85th movie.

"That's the best thing for me, having my work," she said at the Egyptian location in October.

"I would never get married again; that just wouldn't succeed. When your children grow up and leave you, it can be very lonely. Luckily for me, I've got my work to fill the gap."

Miss Davis has always been free and open in her comments, and these are some of her remarks in recent times:

—"It took me along time to learn to fight. In the beginning I wasn't that way at all. It wasn't in my nature, but I realized that you have to force yourself to fight for what you want or they simply won't respect you. I never would have had the same career if I hadn't fought."

—"The only thing I worry about is dying without a cigarette in my mouth. People have suggested that I give up smoking, to which I answer, 'Whatever for?' "

—"Of Human Bondage was my first step up the ladder, the first time I was considered possibly a really good actress. The character I played was the first bitch heroine on the screen, and none of the well-known actresses would play it."

TV Sitcoms In Sex Rut: Professor

IOWA CITY, Iowa — Television situation comedies are in a rut with too many shows relying on sexual titillation, the instructor of a course in popular culture at the University of Iowa says.

"Television in general may be digging itself into a hole by so much sex," Instructor David Cohen said Tuesday.

The next step would be pornography on the screen, he said, but the FCC would draw the line at the bedroom door.

"TV has been teasing the public," Cohen said. Many new shows, such as the popular Three's Company, are nothing but repeated sex jokes, he said.

Cohen said there really has been nothing new on the screen since the Norman Lear (All in the Family) and Mary Tyler Moore shows appeared at the beginning of the decade. The latter, which depicted a single working woman and her female friends often discussing controversial topics such as sex, was a major innovation, he said.

Other recent shows are mere spinoffs and have carried sex about as far as it can go without showing all, Cohen said.

The Vanishing Duchess

SAN FRANCISCO — Several hours before the Queen Elizabeth 2 was to dock in Hawaii, an elderly woman whom curious passengers had nicknamed The Duchess vanished without a trace.

Carla Iris Bodmer, a 70-year-old widow from Switzerland, is believed to have fallen or jumped overboard the night of March 26 as the ship approached Honolulu during a 90-day world cruise.

"There is no indication of foul play," Othmar Hutter, the Swiss vice-consul in San Francisco, said Tuesday. "I wouldn't make a mystery out of it."

But a disappearance at sea is always mysterious.

"It's the kind of thing that haunts everyone," said Frederick Flemming, a passenger from Houston. "It seems so terrible and lonely to step off that railing in the middle of the night."

Mrs. Bodmer had gained her nickname because she wore floor-length gowns and made almost regal entrances in the dining rooms and ballrooms of the ship.

In Geneva, a spokesman for the Swiss foreign ministry said: "It must be assumed that she fell overboard. We don't have any background on her, but she certainly is not well known."

Cunard said the disappearance was reported to the British consulate in San Francisco because the ship sails under the British flag. The consulate ordered an investigation.

"Basically there is no reason to suppose there was any foul play," said a British vice-consul, who declined to give his name.

Jimmy Sends Prayers

BOSTON — John Wayne's recovery from open-heart surgery is routine—except for a presidential phone call and televised get-well wishes from Bob Hope.

Martin Bander, spokesman for Massachusetts General Hospital, said Tuesday that Jimmy Carter telephoned the actor's son, Michael, to say he was praying for him.

Bander also quoted the president as saying:

"John Wayne is a great national asset. If there's anything I can do for him, please let me know. He surprises all of us with his ability to recover. Tell him he is in my thoughts and prayers."

"We want you to know, Duke, we miss you tonight," Hope said. "We expect to see you amble out here in person next year 'cause no one else can walk in John Wayne's boots."

Innocent, Claims Begelman

BURBANK — Former Columbia Pictures president David Begelman pleaded innocent to grand theft and forgery charges Tuesday in a courthouse a few miles from the studio he once ran.

Begelman, the key figure in a financial scandal that has rocked the movie industry, was charged with forging cheques worth $40,000 in the names of three prominent Hollywood men including actor Cliff Robertson, who brought the case to public attention.

The 57-year-old Begelman answered, "Yes, sir," in a firm voice when Judge Bernard Kaufman asked whether he understood his legal rights.

The judge ordered Begelman to appear for further arraignment in Pasadena Superior Court on April 25. He released Begelman on his own recognizance without bail.

The former movie executive has publicly admitted misappropriating funds from Columbia, where he served as $400,000-a-year production chief until last February. However, the money has been paid back with interest, and Columbia has refused to press charges.

RECOUPERATE. . .AT HOSPITAL EXPENSE!

LAS VEGAS — You give us your appendix, we'll give you a chance at a $4,000 vacation. That could be the advertising pitch of a hospital which is trying to lure elective surgery patients in on normally idle weekends.

David Brandsness, the 42-year-old administrator of Sunrise Hospital, admits that hard-sell advertising usually is not associated with health care but says he sees nothing wrong with it — and he adds that it has certainly helped cut costs.

Sunrise is a 484-bed facility that had been bothered by a problem common to hospitals. Expensive equipment at the $40 million facility was overworked during the week but almost unused on weekends.

So, along with a local advertising agency, the hospital came up with a plan. Elective surgery patients were given a chance to win a trip, valued at up to $4,000, to wherever they want to go.

BETTER BOND
The new 721 steel cord has more bonding surface for better rubber to steel adhesion than in our previous steel belted radial.

TORTURE TESTED
Proven for 5,000,000 test miles in the heat of the desert, on the test track, on rough terrain, on the highway and on city streets.

LONG TREAD LIFE
EASY HANDLING
A more tear resistant rubber compound to isolate the belt motion and a wide tread pattern, add up to greater stability and long tread life.

LOW COST PER MILE
The long tread life means savings on replacement tires and low-rolling resistance of the 721 means extra savings on fuel costs.

NO-CHARGE SERVICES
When you purchase a set of 721 radials and pay for balancing all four wheels and a front end alignment, you'll receive a personalized "No-Charge" service card. This "No-Charge" card makes you eligible for the following "No-Charge" services: • Wheel alignment checked every 5,000 miles and if required, alignment is corrected; • Wheel balance every 5,000 miles if required; • Tire rotation every 5,000 miles and • Tire Inflation checked whenever you wish.
All at no additional charge.

Chinese Food Firms Stage a Tasty Lobby

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal politicians munched on free Chinese food, sipped free booze and witnessed a colorful dance by Chinese wearing sequined Lion's costumes Tuesday all in the interest of a protest against health regulations.

The food and booze were provided by representatives of the Chinese food industry from across Canada seeking to overturn health department regulations they said could ruin part of their industry.

Finance Minister Jean Chretien, Justice Minister Ron Basford and others were shepherded to trays of barbecued meat that had been stored at different temperatures and asked to eat.

MPs, members of the parliamentary Press Gallery and others got the same treatment in one of the most tasty, if not most successful, lobbies seen on Parliament Hill for some time.

The whole thing was staged by a Chinese-Canadian MP from Vancouver and representatives of the industry from across Canada as part of a campaign to pressure the government into amending federal health department regulations that spokesmen said say could kill the $30 million barbecued meat industry.

The reception was staged by the National Committee to Save Chinese Barbecued Products. It featured samplings of barbecued meat products, traditional Chinese dancers and musicians and a free bar.

Led by Liberal MP Art Lee (Vancouver East), the committee held a closed-door meeting earlier with Health Minister Monique Begin, who had earlier indicated to the Commons that the lobby effort failed.

Lee told a news conference the committee has so far failed to convince the health minister to grant an exemption from the regulations to the hundreds of Chinese restaurants and butchers that serve barbecued meat products.

Under the regulation, many prepared meats must be stored at a temperature of 60 degrees celsius. The committee says that at that temperature barbecued products continue to cook and lose their flavor by becoming dried out.

The committee says federal health inspectors have recently been rigidly enforcing the regulation although there have been no reported cases of food poisioning resulting from the consumption of barbecued meat products.

Merchants can be fined and subsequently charged, a move the committee says will result in the death of the industry.

Lee tabled a petition in the Commons with 26,000 signatures supporting the committee's stand, including those of Basford, Vancouver MP who is retiring from politics, numerous other MPs and civic politicians.

Lee said the committee hopes to pressure the government through MPs into changing the regulation which was created in 1973.

Since then, there have been sporadic attempts by various levels of government to enforce it. However, the Chinese community has successfully managed to convince officials to turn a blind eye.

Andrew Joe, the committee's legal adviser, said there have been unsubstantiated reports that the major meat packers are behind the recent campaign to crack down on the Chinese-dominated industry.

Joe said in an interview the meat packers are preparing to enter the barbecued meat market.

A news release said Chinese barbecued products have withstood the test of time. It is impossible from a practical point of view and unnecessary to store the products at the prescribed temperature, it said.

Lee will air the grievance today before the Liberal caucus in an effort to have the regulation changed. There appeared to be a good deal of support among the MPs at the reception for the committee's stand.

As the reception ended the leaders announced that all delegates were going downtown . . . for a Chinese meal.

STRIP SECRECY: LAWYERS

OTTAWA (CP) — It is not possible to judge the federal government's performance because of its mania for secrecy, the Canadian Bar Association said Tuesday.

With so many documents, reports and studies stamped confidential, the public is unable to know what its elected officials are doing and thinking, the association said in a brief to a joint Commons-Senate committee studying freedom of information.

"The veil of secrecy that surrounds governments in this country interferes with the inherent rights of the individual in a democratic society."

The brief declared that information is power and "concealing information can lead to the abuse of power."

On several occasions, federal solicitors-general have refused to release information to inquiries investigating the force because of alleged threats to national security.

The bar association said new legislation should clearly say what kinds of information can be released and alleged threats to national security should not permit exemptions. The term "national defence" would be better.

In preparation for future legislation, the government tabled a policy paper last June outlining its views on freedom of information.

The government clearly stated that it wants to continue tight control over information released to the public.

The paper said the cabinet, rather than the courts, should decide what information will be disclosed.

The bar association said the courts should decide because ministers can hardly be classified as disinterested.

Jacques Viau, association president, said: "In our system of government, the courts should be the final arbiter for decisions on the exercise of constitutional or civil rights."

Mobile homes are as important to us as they are to you.

Mobile homes are playing an important role in providing housing for British Columbians . . . and the Mobile Home Act has been introduced to provide an important service to those involved in mobile homes.

The Mobile Home Registry, a first for Canada, has been set up to recognize the rights and protect the interests of buyers and sellers of mobile homes. It's similar to the Land Registry in that it acts as an information centre that keeps a complete record of the ownership and location of all mobile homes. It means that all sales and changes of location are registered to protect ownership interests. It means that a title search can be requested to assure buyers that they are indeed getting legal title. And because it provides lenders with better security, it could mean better financial terms for purchasers of mobile homes.

The Act is in effect as of April 1, 1978. After that date all mobile homes must be registered before they can be sold or moved. If you're a mobile home owner at present, or are considering becoming one in the future, or are involved in the sale or financing of mobile homes, you should be aware of how the Mobile Home Act protects you. Information kits have been sent out to all known mobile home owners and other interested parties, but if we missed you . . . let us know.

Any information you may need is available from the Mobile Home Registry in Victoria, Regional Offices of the Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Housing and Government Agents.

Indian Development Aid Eyed by Bank

OTTAWA (CP) — The Bank of Nova Scotia has embarked on a program which might involve it in development of Indian enterprises.

The bank has established a department of Indian and Inuit financial services and last week had some top Indian politicians for dinner at its plush Toronto board rooms.

Among diners were Noel Starblanket, National Indian Brotherhood president, and Cedric E. Ritchie, bank president.

Starblanket said in an interview Tuesday the bank made the approach and asked about Indian aspirations and how it might help. The Indians had explained their problems in financing new ventures and how the federal government's Indian economic development program had been a disaster.

Bank executive David Atlee said in an interview from Toronto that the bank wants to bring Indians into its middle management, train more Indian staff and generally provide financial management assistance to bands.

He said the dinner meeting last week was to discuss Indian goals and to determine how the bank might help. He called the bank's move into the native economy "a significant decision."

The moving force behind the decision is believed to have been Lloyd Barber, University of Regina president and a Bank of Nova Scotia director. Barber has been a prominent figure in the native land claims process that began in the early 1970s.

Settlement of claims will bring Indians and Inuit hundreds of millions of dollars in the future. Cree and Inuit in Quebec's James Bay region already have settled for $220 million, plus other important considerations. Negotiations are continuing between the federal government and natives in the Northwest Territories, Yukon, British Columbia and Labrador.

Also, native people have some valuable land and resources holding. Next week some Canadian native leaders will travel to New Mexico to consider formation of a North American organization that would use large holdings as clout to achieve native goals.

Starblanket said he expects the bank's move to be beneficial to both sides.

SENATE SWORN IN

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate said hail and farewell to new members and those who have gone before them Tuesday night.

Before packed galleries, not usual in the red chamber, seven persons were sworn in and an eulogy was heard for one of their number — Liberal Senator John Ewasew of Quebec last month.

There were more people in the gallery than in the 104-seat chamber as five Liberals and two Progressive Conservatives were made members of the chamber.

It took 40 minutes to swear in: Duff Roblin, former Conservative premier of Manitoba; Revenue Minister Joe Guay, also of Manitoba; former multiculturalism minister Stanley Haidasz of Toronto; Jack Marshall, former Conservative MP from Newfoundland; Florence Bird, journalist from Ottawa; Derek Lewis, prominent Liberal from St. John's, Nfld, and Margaret Anderson, New Brunswick Liberal.

Tory Senate Reform Idea 'Cuckoo' — Diefenbaker

SCARBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker has attacked Progressive Conservative proposals for Senate and Supreme Court of Canada reforms as products "of cuckoo-land."

In a lecture at Scarborough College here, Diefenbaker said reform of the Senate has been a subject of talk for years because only a few members of the 104-seat chamber "make a contribution worthy of their position."

"It is the easiest job in the world; luxury without work for most of its membership."

But Diefenbaker sharply criticized proposals from Flora MacDonald (PC—Kingston and the Islands), his party's federal-provincial relations critic, to change the Upper Chamber.

Miss MacDonald, with the backing of Opposition Leader Joe Clark, has suggested the Senate should be reformed to become something of a "House of the Provinces," a forum for constant federal-provincial negotiation. She argues that provinces should have a greater say in appointments to both the Senate and the Supreme Court.

In his speech, Diefenbaker said he believes provinces should be consulted on Supreme Court appointments. But provinces should have no right to determine who should be appointed.

"To accept this, would it not mean a judge of the Supreme Court of Canada would be in the position of having to consider what the attitude of his province would be before making a decision?

"Such a proposition, as well as the one that the Senate should be a house of the provinces bears all the attributes of a product of cuckoo-land."

In the speech, Diefenbaker reiterated a call for a national constitutional conference to set out goals for Confederation. The conference would hear representations from governments, womens' groups, and organizations such as the Royal Canadian Legion and Kinsmen Clubs.

Since he last urged such a meeting, however, he says he has come to the conclusion that a national conference should be preceded by a conference of Canada's privy council members not now in the cabinet — a group that includes Prince Philip and all former members of a federal cabinet.

Prime Minister Trudeau and current members of his cabinet should be excluded, Diefenbaker said, because they would be restricted by cabinet solidarity to the same views.

"Such a meeting would bring together a cross-section of Canadians from all walks of life," Diefenbaker said of his proposal. It "would provide a wealth of ideas and suggestions."

Firemen's Award Planned

OTTAWA (CP) - A national award to honor firemen for outstanding acts of valor has been established, the Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs announced Tuesday.

The award, an inscribed plaque and a prize valued at up to $5,000, will be presented for the time in August.

"There are 2,500 communities with volunteer fire departments and their services are almost totally unrecognized," Emile Therien, executive director of the CAFC said.

He noted that firefighters have won Governor-General's awards for bravery, adding that anyone is eligible for those.

The new award, he said, will be available exclusively to firefighters and only through nomination by other firefighters.

Natives Boycott Hearing

YELLOWKNIFE (CP) — Members of the Task Force on Canadian Unity expressed disappointment Tuesday that their two days of public hearings here were boycotted by native organizations.

"It is our loss, but also theirs," said task force co-chairman Jean-Luc Pepin.

The group leaves today for Whitehorse for its last scheduled public hearings Thursday. Pepin said he did not know whether the Yukon's Metis organizations would be making presentations, but added he hoped they would.

Desite what Pepin termed the lack of native involvement in the hearings here, he said the task force has learned about some of the major concerns in the Northwest Territories.

He said political evolution was a common theme in the presentations, although the various speakers did not agree on how quickly Ottawa should transfer power to the N.W.T.

One of the strongest statements on the transfer of power came from the Territories' legislative assembly which declared: "It is no longer acceptable to us to remain a ward" of the federal government.

The assembly said the powers of the N.W.T. commissioner, the chief executive officer who is appointed by and responsible to the federal government, must be turned over to the elected reprsenteatives of the N.W.T.

The assembly's brief added that the people of the N.W.T. want to be full partners in Confederation.

"It is most ironic there should be areas of Canada attemting to leave Confederation when we are attempting to join it."

Foreign Aid Attacked

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal policy of requiring foreign aid receivers to buy Canadian products has come under attack.

Maurice Strong, chairman of the International Development Research Centre, said on the NBC television program The Fifth Estate that Canada should be honest and say that much of this money is intended to subsidize Canadian industry, and if this were not the case, Canada would be on the way to a better development aid program.

Paul Gerin-Lajoie, former Canadian International Development Agency president, said that "in the longer term, it may be better not to be supportive to a particular sector with Canadian funds." Gerin-Lajoie resigned as CIDA president last year and has been replaced by Michel Dupuy, a top external affairs official.

Dupuy has since overhauled CIDA management and has recently begun talking about the advantages to Canadian industry of the CIDA aid program. He has noted that 60 per cent of CIDA's $1.1 billion budget is directly linked to Canadian industry — foreign governments must spend the money on Canadian goods and services.

GROUP OUT TO STOP RCMP PROBE

OTTAWA (CP) — The Law Union of Ontario said today it will go before the Federal Court of Canada to get a writ to stop the work of a federal royal commission into RCMP wrongdoing.

The Law Union, a group of about 150 socialist legal workers, says close connections between the three royal commissioners and the Liberal party give rise to a "reasonable apprehension" that the commission will be biased in its operations.

The Law Union in February asked the commissioners themselves to resign on such grounds. The commission rejected the motion, saying it is not the kind of administrative body required by law to be unbiased.

"It was the only argument they could make, and we think it was wrong," Michael Mandel, a law professor at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, said in a news release.

The Law Union, in its February arguments, noted that Mr. Justice David C. McDonald, the commission chairman, is former president of the Liberal Party of Alberta.

It added that Guy Gilbert of Montreal had acted as lawyer for Marc Lalonde when Lalonde was minister of health and welfare and Donald Rickerd of Toronto was reported to be a close personal friend of former solicitor-general Francis Fox.

The three commissioners, in investigating acts of RCMP wrongdoing, would have to assess political responsibility for RCMP behavior.

The McDonald commission last month announced it would not question Liberal cabinet ministers and senior RCMP officers until July. The announcement came amid strong speculation that Prime Minister Trudeau will call a June election.

Drapeau Adamant

MONTREAL (CP) — Mayor Jean Drapeau, rarely on friendly terms with the Quebec government, says he is now ready for a showdown.

The issue: bilingual licence plates.

The mayor said Tuesday said city vehicles will continue to bear promotional plates which display the incription "Terre des Hommes-Man and His World" despite the fact that they have been declared illegal under provincial language legislation.

The province's French Language Office has sent the city a letter warning that the bilingual inscription violates the Charter of the French Language, he added.

$1,500 Fine For Grass

A 24-year-old University of Victoria student has been fined $1,500 by county court Judge Montague Drake for possession of 12.5 pounds of marijuana for the purpose of trafficking.

Kenneth Harry Borris was given six months to pay the fine. If he doesn't, he will spend six months in jail.

Borris, who pleaded guilty Feb. 16, has no previous criminal record and the presentence report recommended probation.

He was checked by Saanich police last May 4 while in a car in Gyro Park. The marijuana was found in the trunk.

Before The Judge

A 27-year-old man asked Tuesday by Judge Fred Green why he would risk a third conviction for possession of marijuana told the judge: "When somebody gives you something that makes you feel as good as that — you take it. It's better than liquor."

David Paul Hewett, who lives at the Salvation Army men's hostel at 525 Johnson, pleaded guilty in provincial court to possessing marijuana Jan. 8 and was given a 14-day jail sentence.

"I don't really have any alternative," Green said, after Crown counsel Chris Considine informed the court Hewett was convicted of the same offence Nov. 1, 1973, and Dec. 13, 1977, and was fined $75 in the first instance and given a suspended sentence and six months probation on the second occasion.

* * *

Saanich police, responding to an alarm shortly after 2 a.m., caught a youth in one of the classrooms.

* * *

Fined for drinking-driving were: John George Francis Johnstone, 51, of 5587 Sooke, $500; Claude Wyman, 39, of 3138 Earl Grey, $400; and Darrell Szczerba, 20, of 1475 Fort, $50.

In addition, Szczerba was ordered to perform 75 hours of community service work.

Young Scientists Compete

Tarantulas, solar energy and an analysis of Victoria water are among projects entered by students in the annual Vancouver Island Regional Science Fair at the University of Victoria starting April 7.

The contest is open to all elementary and high school students on Vancouver Island and more than 60 Greater Victoria students from Grades 4 to 12 have entered.

The competition is held annually as part of the Canada Wide Science Fair that takes place in Sudbury May 7-13.

The four top local winners at the Grade 7 to 12 level will be sent on an expense-paid trip to the national competition.

Awards will be presented to the top four overall projects, as well as the top five winners in each of three divisions.

The exibits will be set up in the Elliot Building on the UVic campus. Public viewing will take place Saturday between 9 a.m. and 8 p.m. and Sunday between 9 a.m. and noon.

Chile Curfew Ends

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Residents of Santiago have been given the right to stay out all night after a 4½-year curfew. The military governor of the region has ended the 2 a.m. to 5:30 a.m. curfew for pedestrian traffic in the metropolitan area but retained it for cars, trucks and mass transport.

Popular Pesticide Contains Hormones

A widely-used pesticide has been found to contain significant amounts of chlorotrianisene — a powerful female hormone — two University of Victoria scientists said Tuesday.

Doctors Reg Mitchell and Paul West, lecturer-researchers in the university's chemistry department, also said their studies have shown methoxychlor could have striking similarities to the long-term effects on the environment of the DDT family of chemicals.

DDT was banned in North America in the late 1960s partly because of its estrogenic effects on the food chain.

"Methoxychlor was supposed to have much less effect on the environment," Mitchell said in an interview.

'However, it contains an even more potent estrogen that DDT as an impurity."

They said chlorotrianisene, also known as CTA or TACE, does not retain its harmful properties as long as DDT, one of the reasons DDT was banned.

CTA is present in North American-made methoxychlor at a concentration of about 100 parts per million. A person would have to ingest about half a pound of concentrated methoxychlor to receive a clinical dose of the hormone which is used in treatment of cancer of the prostrate and inhibition of lactation in women.

Mitchell and West said they are not concerned that someone might ingest half a pound of methoxychlor and find their hormones out of balance.

However, the two said they are concerned about the long-term effect on the environment that methoxychlor poses and they suggested that environmental protection agencies and biologists should begin research into that aspect of the pesticide.

"We're not saying it should be banned but we ought to have our eyes opened when we use it," Mitchell said.

"It's interesting to note that methoxychlor has been patented since 1949 but no one has noticed these side effects until now."

Nearly all the methoxychlor sold in North America is manufactured by Du Pont, of Wilmington, Del., and resold to other chemical companies which dilute it.

Du Pont, contacted by West in 1974 about their findings on methoxychlor, which, at that stage had not reached the discovery of CTA, replied in a letter:

"As the original discoverers of methoxychlor, we have been studying its chemistry in commercial production since the late 1940s. We are, we believe, reasonably well aware of the nature of impurities which are likely to occur in the manufacturing process which we employ."

Mitchell said the manufacturer could remove the impurities in methoxychlor by re-crystallizing it or by using a different manufacturing process.

"Both these alternatives would, however, cost the manufacturers money and they probably wouldn't like that," Mitchell said.

Commonly-sold commercial brands say it is safe to apply a few days before harvesting a home garden crop but it is mildly toxic to bees.

"I wouldn't dust my cat with it," West said when asked what kind of a hazard the pesticide posed, "but I would spray my fruit trees.

The Bridge Expert

It is a fact that duplicate bridge is much more of a bidder's game than is rubber bridge. The reason, of course, is that each deal is the exact equivalent of each other deal; and since scoring is on a relative basis, with each competing pair playing the identical deals, the procurement of the maximum part score on a given deal can be worth more than the bidding of a grand slam on some other deal.

Had today's deal arisen in a rubber-bridge game, West wouldn't have given even a passing thought to bidding at his second opportunity. But the hand arose in the 1972 Life Masters Men's Pairs Championship, and it now became a horse of another color.

In justification of West's anemic double, it should be stated that North explained that South's two-heart response showed a poor hand, and "denoted a desire to play the hand at that contract."

West's double was, of course, of the takeout variety, and commanded East to bid one of the three unbid suits. When East named the club suit, South decided to bid hearts again. At the conclusion of the play South was a sadder man.

The East-West defense was letter-perfect. West got off to the lead of the club four, which put declarer to an immediate test — and declarer flunked by playing low from dummy. When East took the trick with the queen, he returned a diamond, West's ace capturing the trick. West next cashed the club ace, after which he played back a diamond to East's king; and, in time, East's king of trumps took the setting trick.

Had declarer guessed to play the board's king of clubs on the opening lead, he would have made an overtrick. With the king wining, dummy's three top spades would then have been cashed, South discarding his losing diamond on the third spade lead. South's only losers would then have been a heart, a diamond and a club — and West's gambling takeout double would have been in vain.

West deals.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Thursday, April 6
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Cycle is such that you make a mark, imprint style, personality. Exude confidence. Set pace. Sky is the limit. Make fresh start. Wear bright colors. Make personal appearances. Finish with burden not rightly your own.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): You get support, energy — you make some marvelous contacts. Study Aries message. Refuse to be confined by fears, doubts. Look behind scenes for valid answers. Leo, Aquarius individuals are in picture. Someone makes absurd proposal. Laugh rather than attack.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Accent on living the "good life." Fun, pleasure, wishes and friends are featured. Hunch proves on target. You get real chance to enhance financial and emotional security. Teacher from your past is again available.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Diversify — be versatile, give full play to intellectual curiosity. Gemini, Sagittarius figure prominently — so does the number 3. Spotlight on prestige, civic activity, how you relate to professional associates, superiors. Humor and inquisitiveness are to be encouraged.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Long-range projections are accented. You're able now to communicate, to enlist aid of those who have far-flung contacts. Philosophical, metraphysical interests surge to forefront. Aquarius, Scorpio persons are in picture.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Much is hidden, obscured; hold off on decisions, commitments until mystery clouds are dispersed. Partner or mate has questions concerning rentals, leases, investments. Take time to be thorough.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Emphasis on home, domesticity, establishing solid base, marital status. Be receptive, permit others to express their views. Taurus, Scorpio persons are part of scenario. You receive news concerning contract affecting possible partnership participation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Go slow, maintain low profile. Pisces, Virgo figure prominently. Your extrasensory perception works overtime. You know when something important is to occur — and you know why. Do something consructive with your knowledge. Do not waste time, energy brooding.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Accent on creativity, expression, motion, responses to member of opposite sex. Capricorn, Cancer figure prominently. Yes, "situation" is serious. If you're playing games, watch out. Stakes are high and for keeps.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You get on more solid ground, you gain tenure. Means no one will push you out of picture. Be aware and confident. Finish what you start. Stand tall, refuse to sell yourself short. In matters of sepeculation, stick with number 9.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Yes, take trip, send message, make call. Initiate action. Independent course is best — lead rather than follow. Creative juices are activated. Life, optimism replaces recent feeling of restriction. Leo figures prominently.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Emphasis on valuables, personal possessions, payments and collections. You are in position to analyze data, choose quality. Don't compromise integrity. Cancer, Capricorn and Aquarius figure in picture. Stick with number 11. Avoid rushing to judgment.

IF APRIL 6th IS YOUR BIRTHDAY your voice is persuasive, has unusual sound. You could teach, sing, entertain. Taurus, Libra individuals play important roles in your life. This is productive, power year for you — September could be your most significant month of 1978. You are independent, fond of luxury and must watch diet in connection with "sweet tooth" tendency. If single, you could marry before the year is finished.

FUN WITH FIGURES

By J. A. H. HUNTER

"Just the three of us, and we had three games," said Len. "Each game the lowest score paid the winner. The first game Joe paid me a third of what he had. The next I had to pay Doug a quarter of all I had, and the last game Doug paid Joe a nickel."

Elsie shook her head. "Sounds like real gambling."

Len smiled. Come on, Mom. We only had 99 cents amongst us, and we ended up all three exactly equal."

The Month of Miracles

April is a month to be aware of miracles. Early morning in the garden before the rush of the day begins is the best time. Perhaps the mind is rested by sleep for it then takes in the subtle changes in plant growth and notices whatever is new.

Just yesterday the buds of a favorite little anemone were seen; today they have raised their heads and show their coloring. The dainty soft light green foliage has made great headway in a couple of weeks. We believe this to be a form of Anemone nemerosa (one of the Windflowers) but every reference talks of blue, white and purple colors in this species. The one that flourishes in our shaded corner is the most delicate mauve-pink. Having no clues as to its arrival in the garden, it is rather difficult to trace.

This and others of the A. nemerosa group would make a pretty ground cover for dogwoods which cast a ground shade over their own root area in summer.

The Dogwoods are progressing rapidly now according to their kind. The native Cornus uttalli has shown its tight head of green buds all winter in a vertical position on the twigs. One early morning they were noticed as nearly horizontal on the end of the twig. Each day now they become flatter and wider.

Apparently the vertical position is for winter growth, to prevent rain from settling among the buds during development, a clever idea of Nature who knows all about Pacific Coast weather and its vagaries.

A miracle to be observed in any garden with a few rhododendrons is the gradual change in the flower bud clusters from one day to the next.

The scaly winter covering is pushed aside by the expansion of the flower within. There comes a day when color can be seen; it may be white, deep crimson, pink, purple or yellow.

Unless you know your varieties and their colors from experience, the final color cannot be accurately guessed until the flowers have fully developed. Some whites have a pink outer color to the petals; some pinks have a crimson bud. We have a fine looking seedling 30 inches high flowering for the first time this spring but can only guess its ultimate color though the flower clusters show rich pink between the protecting scales.

Miracles in color are also to be observed in the opening of choice narcissi. Just now "Roseworthy," one of the fine pink varieties, is coming into bloom. Some gardeners still refuse to consider these as daffodils because they are not yellow. But a world-renowned daffodil breeder has declared that breeding has brought out the characteristics which have been lying dormant for years in modern flowers, and they themselves are descendants of old varieties. The pink color in daffs has been developed from the orange in the cup of the old Phaesant's Eye narcissus, the orange already having red in its makeup.

You will thoroughly enjoy a few minutes' observation in the early morning garden, soon deciding that a miracle observed each day keeps boredom away.

Study-Work Bid By UVic Falters

A University of Victoria geographer didn't fare too well Tuesday when he went job hunting at city hall for his students.

Associate professor Peter Murphy delivered a brief to council's public works and personnel relations committee, urging it to become involved in a UVic co-operative education program.

The committee members expressed sympathy for the project but said that geography students could not be given any priority when it came to student hiring practices.

Under the newly-developed program students from the geography department are integrated into the labor force by interspersing their academic terms with work terms.

"In this way co-op education becomes an extension of the student's regular majors program and the employer becomes a component in the student's educational experience," said Murphy's brief.

The professor went on to say that the program benefits employers because the students are of high academic qualification and are partially under the supervision of university staff during their work terms.

The university, however, does not pay anything towards the student's salary.

City planning director Geoff Greenhalgh said that although the program is an excellent one it would be unfair to pre-empt openings exclusively for UVic geography students. He said students from many of the university's departments had been hired over the years and they had generally served the city well.

Molson Dies

MONTREAL (CP) — Thomas H. P. Molson, former chairman of the board and a director of Molson Breweries, died here Tuesday at the age of 76.

Molson was honorary director of the family holding company, The Molson Companies Ltd., at the time of his death, of an undisclosed illness, at the Montreal General Hospital.

Born in Montreal July 21, 1901, the son of Col. Herbert Molson and the former Elizabeth Pentland, Molson was educated at St. Albans School, Brockville, Ont., Bishop's College School, Lennoxville, Que., the Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., and Cambridge University and the University of Birmingham, England.

During the Second World War he served with the Royal Canadian Artillery, holding the rank of major.

Oil Firms Pump Profits Into Copper Purchases

BRITISH RIGHTISTS BOMB COMMUNISTS

LONDON (AP) — A right-wing group calling itself Column 88 told newspapers here today it sent the parcel bomb that exploded in the British Communist Party's headquarters Tuesday.

It also claimed credit for a bomb that was discovered Tuesday in a labor union office and turned over to police.

Scotland Yard sources said it has strong links with extremist right-wing groups in the United States and Europe and with some Protestant organizations in Northern Ireland.

Police would not give estimates of the group's size. This is the first time it has come to public attention.

A member of the Anti-Nazi League was injured by a parcel bomb in High Wycombe, north of London, last week. But detectives declined to link that with Tuesday's bombing incidents in which a caretaker was injured at the Communist Party headquarters in London's Covent Garden district.

There has been mounting violence between ultra-rightist movements like the National Front and leftwing groups like the Socialist Workers' Party.

Workers Rally Over Job Loss

BRUSSELS (AP) — Millions of West European workers walked off the job for at least an hour today, rallied inside their plants or demonstrated in the streets to protest rising unemployment.

It was the first Europe-wide "Action Day" called by the European Trade Union Confederation on the eve of a Common Market summit in Copenhagen to discuss the region's more than seven million jobless.

More than 10 million Italian workers in industry, commerce and agriculture launched a four-hour strike to protest both unemployment and the terrorist kidnapping of former premier Aldo Moro.

Transportation and hospital services were not affected, but most schools, universities and gas stations were closed.

In Belgium, many workers put down their tools for an hour or more, and in Brússels a group of demonstrators briefly occupied the office of State Secretary for the Budget Marc Eyskens. Steelworkers left their mills at 11 a.m. and marched to Marchienne-au-Pont to demonstrate against the threat of layoffs in their industry.

Thirty-one labor groups with a total of 40 million workers in 18 countries were expected to take part in the "Action Day."

The European Trade Union Confederation, which has mostly Socialist and Christian Democrat trade union members, includes Communist members of Italy's General Confederation of Labor but none in France and Spain.

In the nine-country Common Market, 6.26 million were out of jobs at the end of February, 485,000 more than a year before.

The confederation's secretary, Mathias Hinterscheid, blamed the rising unemployment on "inflexible and reactionary attitudes" of European employers.

Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Last December the world's largest oil company, the Exxon Corp., announced its intention to invest $1 billion over the next several years in Chile's La Disputada copper-mine.

Over the last 15 years, the major oil companies have quietly been using part of their profits from rising oil prices to acquire an imposing share of the world copper industry.

According to the financial weekly Barrons, the oil companies now control 40 per cent of the domestic copper industry.

From Cities Service's first copper acquisition in 1963 to Superior Oil's Hecla Mining takeover two weeks ago, oil companies have bought outright or acquired an interest in six of the 13 largest domestic copper companies.

Oil companies such as Exxon, Gulf and Standard of Indiana have spun off subsidiaries to manage their widening movement into copper and other nonferrous metals such as zinc.

Still other oil companies such as Continental, Getty and Occidental Petroleum have been exploring for copper deposits in the United States to be held for that future when world copper prices, which are now depressed, turn up again.

These low copper prices are one of the reasons the oil companies have been moving into copper in recent times. Copper prices are now at their lowest since the 1930s, copper company stocks are depressed accordingly, and those companies are regarded as good buys.

In any case, it is possible to imagine a future when the larger oil companies have as much market power in copper as they do in oil.

Their copper and other nonferrous investments are to some extent an embarrassment to the oil companies, which have been pleading with the Carter administration and Congress for higher oil prices they say they need to increase exploration for oil. To some extent, as with Mobil's acquisition of Marcor, the corporation that owns Montgomery Ward, several years ago, the oil companies are using their profits instead to diversify.

If the oil industry is embarrassed, however, it is not deterred. "We will be looking for places to park our money," said a senior executive of one large oil company now in the copper business, "and copper is one of the best after oil."

One respected Wall Steet metals industry analyst, William Seidenberg of Smith Barney Harris Upham & Co., sums up the oil-to-copper trend saying, "The oil companies have a big stake in copper today — what they are looking at is the other side of the valley, they are patient and can buy right."

The oil companies' investments in copper are large by almost any standards. Atlantic Richfield paid $700 million for Anaconda last year; that was 28 per cent of its total capital outlay of $2.5 billion for the year. The $1 billion Exxon plans to spend on the La Disputada mine is one-twelfth of the $24 billion it has budgeted for all capital spending over the next four years.

Oil companies have billions of dollars in holdings in coal and uranium as well. The American Petroleum Institute says that oil companies control more than 43.7 per cent of the nation's existing domestic coal production, in addition to more than 40 per cent of the minable coal under private leases.

Embassy Reopens

JAKARTA (Reuter) — Cuba is to reopen its embassy in Jakarta, 11 years after closing it, informed sources said Wednesday. A Cuban government mission is expected here next weekend for talks with Indonesian officials on the embassy, closed following the downfall of the late President Sukarno's leftwing government in 1966.

Moro's Party Vetoes Trade

ROME (AP) — The Christian Democrats appear determined not to release terrorists in exchange for former premier Aldo Moro despite a plea for a swap from the kidnapped political leader.

Premier Giulio Andreotti and other top leaders of the government party met Tuesday night after the receipt of the fourth letter from Moro since his kidnapping three weeks ago by members of the Red Brigades, Italy's most-feared urban-guerrilla group.

After the meeting Il Popolo, the party newspaper, said the captive, president of the Christian Democrats, was forced to make the appeal and did not mean it. It said: "The text of the letter reveals once more the conditions of absolute coercion in which such documents are written and confirm that this letter, too, is not morally attributable to him."

Andreotti said the same thing in reporting to parliament Tuesday on an earlier letter from Moro. He said then that the government can only "respond in rejecting in the most firm way any acceptance of blackmail."

This left the possibility of private negotiations by Moro's family. However, a communique from the Red Brigades said: "The trial of Aldo Moro will go forward."

The kidnappers in earlier communiques said the five-time premier was being given a people's trial for "crime against the people" during the years he has been an influential political figure. But one of the 15 leaders of the Red Brigades on trial in Turin said Monday that the organization does not "think it necessary to eliminate Moro individually."

Moro's earlier letter to the government, delivered last Wednesday, only hinted at the possibility that his captors might exchange him for the 15 defendants in Turin. His second letter was more specific.

UN Men Under Fire

Times News Services

Lebanese, Israelis, Palestinians and UN forces all flexed their muscles in southern Lebanon today, resulting in UN troops coming under fire.

A symbolic force of 30 Lebanese national policemen moved into southern Lebanon as the vanguard of a government effort to reassert sovereignty over the battle-torn region.

Officials in Beirut said the gendarmes would take up positions along the highway linking the city of Tyre, which is controlled by Palestinian guerrillas, to north Lebanon.

UN troops barred an Israeli patrol from entering the southeastern village of Hebbariyeh, the first such incident reported since the peace keeping force entered the south nearly two weeks ago.

In the west, French UN forces near Tyre said Palestinian guerrillas had fired on their roadblock at Maaliyeh, about 5 miles south of the port city, with rocket-propelled grenades and machine guns last Saturday, but no one was hurt. The position is between guerrilla and Israeli lines.

"We saw it as an important test," said one UN officer. "We fired back with small arms and machine guns. It showed them that they could fire over our heads all they want, but if they shoot at us, we'll shoot back."

UN and Israeli military sources reported gunners fired mortar shells at the town of Marjayoun and Lebanese Christian militiamen, who are allied with the Israelis, replied with artillery fire.

The sources said seven rounds landed near Norwegian troops of the UN force who were dug in at the Khardali Bridge over the Litani River, a few kilometres west of Marjayoun. No casualties were reported.

The shells, believed to have been fired from an outpost north of the Litani, then zeroed in on Marjayoun and Christian gunners returned fire, the sources said.

Reporters who visited southern Lebanon found little evidence that Israel was thinning out its forces in the south as promised in a military communique Monday. However, they said some positions seemed to be more lightly manned than they were two weeks ago, when reporters were last allowed into the area.

Meanwhile, in Bucharest, Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan said today Israel is awaiting a U.S. initiative to help revive Middle East peace negotiations.

Dayan said Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu has given strong support to the continuation of peace moves launched by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

"We are waiting for the Americans," Dayan told reporters at the end of a two-day visit to Romania. "I don't think we can do much more just now."

And in Egypt, President Anwar Sadat said that with an "even-handed" American policy and Israeli flexibility he believes that peace talks can be resumed.

Sadat said that the United States is helping in these efforts and during his February visit to Washington he had asked American lawmakers "to take their share as full partners."

SEARS ORDERED TO PAY $1 MILLION

CHICAGO (AP) — The 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has upheld a $1-million award to a Tennessee man who contended that Sears, Roebuck and Co. cheated him out of rights to a wrench he invented 14 years ago.

The court ruled Monday that a U.S. District Court decision against the giant merchandiser last year was proper, and ordered Sears to pay $1 million in damages to former Sears employee Peter Roberts of Red Bank, Tenn.

Roberts said in court documents that Sears had sold 19 million of the wrenches "and only paid me $10,000."

Roberts, 33, who was working for Sears in Massachusetts in 1964, invented a quick-release ratchet wrench for auto mechanics and offered it to Sears.

He said Sears officials told him the wrench would probably never be very profitable and offered him $10,000 for the right to produce it. He accepted.

Roberts sued the company in 1969, charging fraud, breach of confidential relationship and negligent misrepresentation. He won his suit last year before Judge George Leighton in Chicago, where Sears has its headquarters.

The appellate court ordered the case remanded to Leighton to decide whether Roberts' patents should also be returned.

A Sears spokesman said Tuesday that the company will appeal the circuit court's decision.

New Blood Test Spots Cancer of the Pancreas

HOUSTON (UPI) — Scientists have devised a blood test that may help doctors detect early signs of cancer of the pancreas, now one of the most deadly forms of malignant tumors.

Of the 21,900 cases of pancreatic cancer discovered last year in the United States, 20,000 died within a year of diagnosis.

Dr. Martin Goldrosen of the Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, N.Y., said in a report today that cancer of the pancreas is usually well developed and has spread to other organs by the time it is first detected.

It is a fast-growing tumor and the initial symptoms often masquerade as vague complaints such as indigestion, abdominal or back pain, weakness, weight loss and anemia.

Goldrosen said as the disease progresses, most patients become jaundiced. As a result, doctors often treat the patients for hepatitis, gallstones, pancreatitis or peptic ulcer. Symptoms may be present for four to six months before an accurate diagnosis is made.

"It is no surprise that few patients are candidates for curative surgery and the mean survivial from the time of diagnosis to death is approximately five months," Goldrosen told an American Cancer Society symposium.

He and his colleagues, building on the work in 1972 of Dr. William Hallowday of Queensland, Australia, developed a test that takes advantage of the fact white blood cells of cancer patients will react in a certain way when exposed in the laboratory to an extract of a pancreas tumor.

Goldrosen reported a test spotted 22 of 24 cancer patients. Only two of 68 people who did not have pancreatic cancer turned up positive.

SCHOOL GETS CANCER TEST

RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Testing began Tuesday to determine whether airborne chemicals near an elementary school could have caused cancer in six of the school's pupils.

As curious children watched, Stephen Papenberg of the local health board tested for benzene and styrene in front of the Pierrepont Elementary School. He said scientists have shown that benzene and styrene may cause cancer.

The six cases at the school are among a cluster of 16 cancer cases that have been reported in the area in the last three years. Fourteen of the cases have been diagnosed as leukemia, with one case each as Hodgkin's disease and lymphoma.

Three of the 16 have died, all from leukemia. Two of those were pupils at the school.

Papenberg said the local health department decided to test for the two chemicals because they are used in industries in surrounding communities.

Papenberg said his department plans to take air samples hourly throughout the working day, and take spot samples at night around the school.

Rhodesia Offers Amnesty Pact

SALISBURY (Reuter) — The new multi-racial government plans "free entry zones" on Rhodesia's frontiers for black nationalist guerrillas who want to stop fighting and return home in peace.

The new move to help end the guerrilla war was revealed by Ernest Bulle, vice-preisent of Bishop Abel Muzorewa's United African National Council (UANC), one of four parties in the new transitional government.

He said in an interview today that the zones will be set up at selected points along the borders with Mozambique, Zambia and Botswana.

"Any of the boys (guerrillas) who then go into these zones will be making known their intentions of returning," he said.

The majority-rule agreement was reached by Bishop Muzorewa, Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, Chief Jeremiah Chirau and Prime Minister Ian Smith. It ignores the Patriotic Front, which says it controls guerrillas fighting mainly from bases in Mozambique and Zambia and has promised the fighting will be itensified.

Bulle said the "free entry zones" will include rehabilitation centres where returning fighters would be questioned about their future intentions by representatives of the three nationalist leaders in the transitional government.

"If some want to go back to school, we will find places for them," he said. "We will also try to arrange jobs for those who need them and places in the army for those who wish to continue military careers."

PANDAS GET IN THE MOOD

TOKYO (UPI) — Spring has come to Japan and it's time for giant pandas, Lan Lan and Kan Kan, to try again to produce the first panda cub born in captivity outside of China.

As the mating season begins, keepers at Tokyo's Ueno Zoo are trying to get the popular pandas in the mood by allowing them to meet daily for an hour across wire nets that separate their quarters.

Cholera Grips E. Africa

NAIROBI (UPI) — Authorities have ordered a mass evacuation of Nairobi's shantytowns in a drive to halt a cholera epidemic that has killed an estimated 1,000 people in eastern Africa, the Standard newspaper said today.

In Tanzania, where most of the deaths took place, the government shut down all schools in the capital of Dar es Salaam and launched a crash program to build emergency sanitary facilities.

Special health committees were established in parts of Kenya to instruct the population on preventive methods and Somalia slammed shut its borders to Kenyan and Tanzanian produce in an effort to stop the spread of cholera.

"A mass evacuation affecting about 150,000 slum dwellers in Nairobi has been ordered as part of an intensified drive to prevent a cholera epidemic in the city," the Standard said in a front-page story.

"People living in high-risk areas will be forced to leave homes which have unsanitary toilet facilities and no running water," it said.

Thousands of shantytowns and grocery shops constructed of cardboard, tin and twigs have sprung up on the city's outskirts in the last few years to accomodate a burgeoning population.

Many of these shacks will be pulled down under the city's plans to stem a cholera epidemic.

"The demolition and health squads should be strengthened as a matter of urgency," W.N. Mugo, medical officer of health, said.

Zambian Lady Zap A Joke?

OTTAWA (CP) — The Zambian high commission here hopes a report carried April 1 in The Daily Mail — Zambia's government-owned newspaper — was only an April Fool joke.

Quoting Foreign Minister Siteke Mwale, the newspaper said all unmarried women would be recalled from Zambian foreign missions because their actions were damaging the country's reputation.

It accused them of "flirting and becoming pregnant" and misbehaving with foreigners.

In an interview here Tuesday, Deputy High Commissioner M.F. Kancheya said, "We are taking it as an April Fool's joke until we get an official communication from the government. We will just have to wait and see."

He said the newspaper report "came as a surprise to us."

Helpers Need Help

CINCINNATI (AP) — They tried to help. Now they need aid because of what they saw after last May's fire that killed 165 persons at the Beverly Hills Supper Club.

"Many of these people were traumatized by reaching into a pile of bodies and coming away with only a hand," said Jack Lindy, codirector of the Fire Aftermath Centre. "Many of the people who worked as volunteers have complained of having nightmares.

Lindy said Tuesday that of the 50 persons the centre has seen since opening in January, one-third were people who tried to help after the fire at the Southgate, Ky., supper club.

The centre, located at the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine, is trying to learn more about the effects of disasters such as Beverly Hills in addition to helping people who were affected by the May 28 fire.

Lindy, participating on a discussion at an Ohio Hospital Association convention, said some of those he has seen have suffered severe depressions as the result of their efforts to help.

"They shared not only the trauma and shock of the situation, but the guilt that they had survived," the psychiatrist said.

"They have sought each other out," Lindy said. "They are dealing with deaths of a unique and sudden quality.

Lock Change On Davis

This morning members of Davis' staff, including his personal secretary, were let into the office by security staff after they were unable to gain access.

Davis is removing his personal papers and other documents and has two weeks to complete the transfer to his new quarters in the Socred caucus office.

The Davis investigation involves a police agency, but the force involved and the nature of the investigation which led to Davis being stripped Monday of his cabinet post as minister of energy, transport and communications remained unknown today.

A senior government official revealed the police involvement when asked by the Times when details surrounding the case would be made public.

"I don't suppose anything will come out until the police investigation is completed," he said.

Questioned as to what police agency is involved, he refused comment.

Although Davis met Tuesday with Attorney-General Garde Gardom, through whom the investigation is being channelled, he claimed later he still does not know why he is being investigated.

Gardom refused to give any details.

The attorney-general said any premature statements could hamper the probe or hurt Davis.

Davis said he asked for the meeting with Gardom.

"He confirmed that an investigation is being conducted but that's all I know," Davis said.

Davis insisted he does not know any details.

"I really don't know," he said.

"I don't have a real focus for my defence if I need one."

He added he is not prepared to guess about the nature of the accusations against him.

The firing is expected to be discussed in cabinet Thursday.

Gardom told reporters: "I do not propose to comment. To comment now would not be in the interests of the investigation or of the individual."

"I have given my full response," Gardom said, adding he will make a full statement when the probe is completed.

Davis has been moved into a seat in the house between backbenchers George Haddad (Kootenay) and Walter Davidson (Delta).

NDP leader Dave Barrett criticized Bennett, who was sworn in Tuesday to Davis' portfolio, for refusing to explain why Davis was fired.

"Whole areas of rumor have been allowed to go crazy," Barrett said.

Means Test For UIC?

OTTAWA (CP) — The government plans to study use of a means test to establish eligibility of unemployment insurance claimants while the official opposition hears a proposal to eliminate the whole insurance program.

Employment Minister Bud Cullen said in an interview Tuesday an internal advisory council will be asked to study the idea of a means test which would bar high-income earners from receiving unemployment insurance benefits. No income cut-off line had been suggested.

Cullen said he personally does not favor the proposal but has been hearing complaints from the public across the country about individuals with annual incomes higher than $20,000 receiving benefits.

Cullen first mentioned the plan in the Commons in reply to Bill Clarke (PC — Vancouver Quadra) who suggested an individual's entitlement to benefits be based on his annual income. He complained of abuse in the system that leads to a rip-off of taxpayers.

Clarke said he plans to propose the Conservative party adopt a policy of advocating elimination of the system as an insurance program because "it's really already welfare now."

Clarke said some self-employed individuals, pensioners and others are contributing to the unemployment insurance fund now through taxes but they are not entitled to benefits. This was unfair.

Under Clarke's scheme unemployment insurance premiums would be eliminated and payments to the unemployed, based on a means test, would be made out of general tax revenues. He estimates half of the $4 billion cost of the program now comes from general revenues.

Under the present system, employers and employees contribute weekly to the fund and an individual must have worked between 10 and 14 weeks to be eligible for benefits. The length of benefits depends on the amount of time the claimant worked and amount to 66⅔ per cent of the person's insurable earnings.

Meg Given Choice

Times News Services

LONDON — The Queen is reported to have given Princess Margaret a royal ultimatum: end her relationship with brewery heir Roddy Llewellyn or withdraw from public life.

Buckingham Palace declined comment on the report today by The Sun.

"I wouldn't dream of contacting the Royal Family about private conversations," a palace spokesman said.

The Sun, quoting "a close friend of the Royal Family," says the Queen was "deeply upset" by criticism of the Royal Family because of the 47-year-old Margaret's friendship with Llewellyn, 17 years her junior.

The unidentified royal confidant was quoted as saying: "The princess is being forced to choose where her first loyalty lies. It's sad but inevitable."

The report came one day after royal spokesmen announced the princess has the flu and has cancelled public engagements.

Llewellyn, who hopes to become a pop singer, has been Margaret's frequent companion since her legal separation from Lord Snowdon two years ago.

Northern Pipeline Bill Moves on to Senate

OTTAWA (CP)—Legislation authorizing construction of the northern gas pipeline was given final approval in the Commons Tuesday night and was expected to rapidly become law after speedy handling by the Senate.

Progressive Conservative and Social Credit MPs voted with the government in favor of the legislation — slightly amended since its introduction in February — with only the New Democratic Party opposing it. The vote was 139 to 11.

Ray Perrault, government leader in the Senate, said in an interview the bill will receive expeditious handling this week.

The Senate special pipeline committee had a long "prestudy" in advance of the upper chamber receiving the bill from the Commons.

The Senate now had a "comprehensive comprehension" of the bill and did not want to delay it when many jobs are at stake.

The bill provides for the construction of a 5,000-mile pipeline to carry natural gas from Alaska through the Yukon, British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan to southern markets.

Construction is to begin 1981. A link will be built later to move Canadian natural gas from the MacKenzie Delta.

SHUT UP - CHRETIEN

Heavy Sales Ram Dollar To Another 45-Year Low

Times News Services

The Canadian dollar continued to come under heavy pressure on New York money markets today hitting yet another 45-year-low despite the Bank of Canada increasing its rate.

In New York, the Canadian dollar was down 1-50 at $0.8768 at noon. Pound sterling was up 3-5 at $1.8765.

At the close of what dealers described as an "extremely hectic" trading session in the interbank wholesale market Tuesday, the dollar closed at 87.70 U.S. cents, down nearly a-quarter-of-a-cent from Monday's price of 87.97 U.S. cents.

Today was the third day in a row the dollar closed below 88 U.S. cents, its lowest level since May, 1933, when it traded at 86.77 U.S. cents.

Government intervention and the suggestion by Finance Minister Jean Chretien that opposition critics "shut up" to prevent further speculation have failed to halt the slide.

"Obviously we're in definite trouble," said a trader for the Provincial Bank of Canada, "especially when the decline followed an increase in the bank rate."

Traders said the bank rate increase appeared to help the dollar in Tuesday morning trading, when it climbed to 88.23 U.S. cents. But in the afternoon "large" orders for U.S. dollars entered the market, pushing the dollar back below 88 U.S. cents.

"The fact the Bank of Canada has been forced to raise its bank rate twice in less than a month is really quite negative news," said one dealer.

"It seems the government is at its rope's end to support the dollar." He added that many market observers are speculating that yet another rate increase may be necessary to stem the dollar's decline.

The bank rate increases are designed to attract foreign investment to Canada and to ease downward pressure on the Canadian dollar.

One senior trader expressed doubts that the increase would do this. "The basic negative factors are still there — the only thing that's changed is the interest rate differential," he said.

The government's indecisiveness on how to treat the dollar has contributed to the dollar's decline, he said. "The government is reacting after the fact."

The government had a policy of letting the dollar float but then decided to intervene in the money mar-

MORE VOTERS UNDECIDED

Times News Services

A Gallup Poll released today shows the percentage of voters undecided how they would vote in a federal election rose five per cent between February and early March.

The survey, conducted in early March by the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion, shows 38 per cent were undecided.

The latest figures vary by two percentage points from the levels in the last federal election in 1974.

At that time, the Liberals won 141 seats in the House of Commons, the Conservatives 95, the NDP 16 and the Social Credit 11. There was one independent.

The poll also shows that of voters who have made up their minds, 45 per cent favor the Liberals, with the Progressive Conservatives favored by 34 per cent and the NDP trailing with 17 per cent.

In the February poll, Liberals had 43 per cent of the decided voters, Conservatives 36 per cent and the NDP 17 per cent.

As a result of the poll, Progressive Conservative Leader Joe Clark predicted today that Prime Minister Trudeau would call an election next week.

Although the Liberals increased two points to 45 and the Conservatives dropped two points to 34, Clark told reporters he is confident his party will win that election.

"We're pleased with the poll," he told reporters.

Senator Davey said timing of the election still has not been decided by Trudeau.

A spokesman for Ed Broadbent, New Democratic Party leader, said Broadbent is satisfied with the polls.

"What the polls indicate is that the Tories are in real trouble," the spokesman said.

QUEBEC — Fired-up members of the Canadian Labor Congress today served notice that they will work to defeat any politician who supports a proposal to tie public service wage increases to private sector pay raises.

"We say bluntly to any politicians who support that proposal: You are bastards and we are going to be out there working for your defeat in the next election," said Andy Stewart, president of the 177,000-member Public Service Alliance of Canada.

"This piece of legislation is the most union-busting legislation in the history of this country," said Kealey Cummings, secretary-treasurer of the 230,000-member Canadian Union of Public Employees.

"It will mean negotiations by computer."

Delegates to the CLC national policy convention gave thunderous approval to an emergency resolution which directed CLC executives to "organize wholehearted support for any demonstrations, meetings, lobbies or other actions necessary to defeat Bill C28."

The bill, now before Parliament, would require federal arbitrators to compare total compensation of public servants, including fringe benefits, to total compensation in related private-sector jobs when determining public service wage increases.

In a related development, delegates voted Tuesday to refuse CLC participation in

Tourist Flood Begins Rolling Into City

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Tourists continue to pour into the city and local officials are beginning to wonder what they are going to do with them all.

Hotels, restaurants and motels reported business up 25 per cent from the same time last year and an even bigger flood of visitors is expected this month.

A Canada Manpower survey showed business is good but there is a growing concern that not enough has been planned for visitors to the city, regional assistant manager Doug Yearwood said.

Thousands are coming for the Capt. Cook festival but the major events are in a short period in July.

"What will we do for the rest of the year?"

Yearwood said Victoria merchants are concerned about a lost opportunity with so many people arriving this summer.

"If there isn't something organized for them, they will leave again."

Yearwood said he noticed the problem on a personal basis when California friends indicated they were coming up and wanted to know what was happening.

"What can I tell them? There are so few package tours on the Island, especially in the off-season. How about a two-week golfing tour of Vancouver Island, playing on each course?"

"Where are the competitions that other cities have? Why don't we organize a tournament for left-handed golfers, the Sidewinders Championship? The bridge tournament here brought thousands of people to the city. We need more organized packages and events."

Yearwood said this view has been echoed by many Victoria merchants who are concerned the opportunities offered by the low Canadian dollar and the Capt. Cook festival will be lost by inadequate planning at the local level.

Meanwhile, local merchants are buoyant after a good month and they are optimistic about the immediate future.

Retail sales were strong in most departments and employment was high.

Oakland Fisheries employed 1,000 people in March for the herring roe season, which has now ended. The cannery will be quiet again until the salmon season in June.

March was a busy month on the agricultural front, with 780 workers being hired through Canada Manpower Farm Labor for the daffodil and tulip crop, which was unusually good.

The shipyard labor force is stable at 425 workers.

Weaknesses remain in construction with unemployment at about 30 per cent but more jobs will be available soon in major harbor construction projects.

Fair People Cry Foul Over UVic Manoeuvre

What's in a name? Shakespeare once asked.

That which we call a rose, by any other name would smell as sweet, the Bard explained.

Perhaps. But Gina Rohr and friends think there IS something in a name — particularly if it is a title that hasn't been earned and isn't deserved. That's just what's happening, they say, and the whole thing smells far from sweet.

The problem is that tomorrow a four-day craft fair opens in the Student Union Building at the University of Victoria. It is a UVic craft fair but it isn't THE UVic Craft Fair.

That may sound confusing but stick with me. It gets worse!

As all the Island's arty and crafty people well know, UVic Craft Fairs have been held each spring and Christmas for the last seven years. Between 8,000 and 9,000 people went last Christmas to look over what is regarded as the finest craft fair in B.C.

This year was to have been the eighth for the fairs at UVic. But it won't be. Feeling it wasn't getting enough out of such a popular venture, the Alma Mater Society this year tripled the rent for the site in the SUB from $5 a day to $15 a day for each of around 30 exhibitors.

"This means the rent for our usual three-day fair instead of being about $450 would be nearer $1,500," a rather angry Gina Rohr explains.

Gina, the fair co-ordinator, says she protested the rent increase but didn't get anywhere. So she took a lawyer with her and marched in to see Alma Mater Society officials and they were both thrown out.

The fair people decided that kind of relationship couldn't go on so they pulled out of UVic and will now stage their annual spring and Christmas craft fairs in the foyer of the McPherson Playhouse. Their first one will be on April 21 and 22 and will be billed as "the former UVic Craft Fair." From then on they'll be known as the annual "McPherson Craft Fairs."

This new spot is delighting the fair committee. It's more attractive and because it's so central they believe even more people will flock to the fairs. So all's well — but it hasn't ended well.

The UVic people decided to have a fair of their own. Naturally, it's being called the UVic Craft Fair because after all that's where it is.

There's already been a little skullduggery, though, as the new UVic fair (it's on this Thursday through Sunday) has been billed in the Martlet as "the popular spring craft fair." And everyone knows a thing can hardly be described as "popular" if it's the first one and hasn't been held yet!

★ ★ ★

"They're cashing in on our name and that's what we're objecting to," an irate Gina says. "Our exhibitors are all professionals and we judge all the crafts to ensure a very high standard," she explains. "They are not doing this up at UVic now and it will be mostly a student-oriented fair."

Gina is still upset by a letter in which Ben Webb, academic affairs director of the AMS, described her committee as "a mercenary group that has caused us a lot of problems."

"We just don't like being called mercenaries and feel the Alma Mater Society has acted very badly in this and extremely rudely," she says.

Webb doesn't know what all the fuss is about.

"It's a bit absurd that Mrs. Rohr should think we shouldn't use the words UVic Craft Fair since it's at UVic," he says. "We were thinking of canning the whole affair as she was just a renter in the building. But since we had built up a clientele, both of students and outsiders, we decided we may as well continue."

That's just it, complains Gina. It isn't THEIR clientele, she says, and they've made no attempt to explain this to the public.

"We feel we have a responsibility to the public to make this change clear," Gina says.

"We object to this — not that their new fair is on but that they're going under our banner."

So, now you know. When you go to the UVic fair it won't really be the UVic fair and when you go to the McPherson fair it won't really be the McPherson fair.

Well, they will be, sort of . . . . oh to hell with it!

SUDDENLY HER RADIO WENT BLUE

Mrs. Gordon Whyte was sewing a foot away from her kitchen radio Tuesday afternoon when it began to glow with a blue aura.

The glow was followed by the biggest clap of thunder she ever heard.

There was no discernible damage at the home but an electric transformer on Wilkinson Road was knocked out and an alarm system was triggered at Tillicum Lodge.

Mrs. Whyte said the whole kitchen seemed to light up and several small rumblings shook the house near Prospect Lake.

"I really was scared," she said.

"There were sparks all around the radio and stove, then this terrific boom. It was right over my house and I thought, 'the next one is going to get me'. I flew.

"My whole kitchen lit up. I just stood and watched it. I thought the whole place was going up in flames."

She called the fire department — first getting Victoria instead of Saanich — and was relieved to find the lightning had not started a fire.

She found no scorch marks on the kitchen counter or on the stove and the lights and stove worked fine afterwards.

Firemen said there should have been signs of damage if the lightning had made a direct hit on the house, which is among tall trees.

Gov't, Region Requested To Head Off Genstar Plan

The provincial government and the Capital Regional District will be asked to purchase 22 acres adjoining Butchart Garden to block its use for housing, stores and a marina.

The request to buy the land comes from the Thetis Lake Park Nature Sanctuary Association which opposes a Genstar Development Company proposal to develop the property.

"It will be a disaster for B.C. if the development is approved by Central Saanich council," said association directior Harry Bond.

Bond said the vista view of Tod Inlet from the gardens would be obliterated if the housing and marina development is allowed.

The association's other reason for wanting the land purchase is because it is waterfront property.

The provincial government and the CRD should give priority to waterfront property when it is purchasing land for park or greenbelt purposes, the association said in a prepared statement.

It warned as the population of the Saanich Peninsula increases, the lack of adequate publicly-owned seafront property will result in recreational and social problems.

It noted that Tod Inlet provides a unique setting for the gardens and should be preserved.

"I don't think Victorians realize yet the importance of preserving those 22 acres" said Bond.

"If they did, I think there wouldn't be any question of developing it."

Student Job Plan Okayed

A city of Victoria summer employment program for students that was earlier scrapped because of union objections will go ahead in part after all.

Municipal manager Jim Bramley told council's public works and personnel relations committee Tuesday that one of the two union locals blocking the student progam has changed its position.

Initially Canadian Union of Public Employees locals representing both outside and inside workers had been against the hiring of students under a Young Canada Works program.

But the inside workers local reconsidered its position last week and decided to approve the city's participation.

Last year 18 young people had been hired, mostly for inside positions, and this year there are 27 openings. Students are to be paid about $3.20 an hour.

CUPE was against the proposal because students were to be paid less than union rates.

The inside workers' local reversed its stand, however, after Bramley wrote to Ald. Larry Ryan, chairman of council's personnel committee.

In his letter Bramley said that he agreed when the union argued that no one should be expected to accept less than a living wage, but did not feel that the wages offered students were unfair.

"I certainly agree with this principle when one has a home and family to support. But in this case, most of the young people who would have been taken on would not have these family responsibilities, would be looking for work experience and would be very pleased to make a few dollars during the summer prior to going back to school or university this fall," wrote Bramley.

Saving Seen on Garbage

The City of Victoria could save an estimate $88,000 a year simply by picking up its garbage differently council's finance committee chairman Ald. Murray Glazier said today.

Glazier said that the saving could be achieved by completely switching over to the motorized carts that are being used by garbagemen on one experimental route at present.

'That one route using those buggies has worked extremely well and the men seem to like it," said Glazier.

Boulevard Soil Cost Going Up

Saanich residents will have to pay as much as 50 per cent more for the topsoil they buy from the municipality to improve municipal boulevards on a do-it-yourself basis, Saanich council decided at a budget session Tuesday.

In the past, residents have been able to buy the topsoil dirt cheap for $3 per cubic yard, which merely covered delivery costs. Meanwhile, Saanich has been paying $5, apart from trucking costs.

A sum of $12,000 was proposed for the boulevard soil service in this year's budget, but by a narrow 4—3 margin council voted Tuesday to reduce that by half.

The net result could be, according to estimates by municipal administrator William Tremayne, that residents will be asked to pay an additional $1 to $1.50 per cubic yard.

The cut was proposed by Ald. John Mika, who said at the very least residents should be charged the costs incurred by Saanich.

"It may be civic pride but it is also done by people to enhance their own property, their use of the land," he said.

But Ald. Ian Cass disagreed. He claimed that by providing the topsoil to residents prepared to undertake boulevard beautification, Saanich avoids boulevard maintenance costs many times higher than the cost of the material.

"There is no question in my mind but that the householders concerned are making a very substantial contribution to the municipality," he added.

Broadmead Submits New Plan

Broadmead Farms Ltd. has submitted a formal application to Saanich for a revised housing development on a 70-acre property in the Ten Mile Point area of Cadboro Bay.

A public hearing may be held on the application next month and a spokesman for the Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association said Tuesday the association's executive will meet soon to discuss the proposal.

Ratepayers' association president Richard Boss said although the design concept has been changed from an earlier proposal submitted by the company, the association is still concerned that the density involved would be incompatible with Cadboro Bay's single-family home character.

Golf Bill Sliced By Mika

Other recreational needs of Saanich residents are being ignored while the municipality is lavishing costly improvements on the Cedar Hill golf course, Saanich Ald. John Mika complained Tuesday.

Apparently teeing off at Ald. Ian Cass, chairman of the municipal golf course committee, Mika said the spending proposals presented for budget approval involve far more than merely completing a five-year development program begun three years ago.

"It is all being added to every year and the 1980 program is being doubled in richness," he said during a lengthy council meeting to review the draft 1978 budget.

"We're sinking a lot of money into this facility while the rest of the community is beginning to get uptight about the things they are not getting.

"What you are doing is a covert operation of improving that facility, not maintaining the original five-year expansion."

Cass retorted that he did not like being accused of sponsoring a covert operation.

And it ended with council agreeing to cut $36,000 proposed for the completion of the sprinkler system and $24,250 from a $35,900 request for parking improvements.

Those are in addition to two major capital projects earmarked for Cedar Hill this year: a $250,000 driving range and $120,000 for an addition to the clubhouse. Provincial government grants will offset $126,666 of the $370,000 total.

Cass objected strenuously to the cuts because he said the work would cost the municipality more in the long run.

He told council a new fee structure should produce a "profit" of $80,000 to $90,000

Stabbing Charges

A 16-year-old boy has been charged with attempted robbery with violence and wounding with intent to cause bodily harm after an 11-year-old girl was stabbed Tuesday.

The incident occurred in an access tunnel under Douglas Street Tuesday afternoon.

Saanich police said the girl was walking through the pedestrian way near Town and Country shopping centre about 5 p.m. when she was attacked and received one small wound to the abdomen. Treatment was given at Royal Jubilee Hospital and the girl was released.

They're Out for Blood

Red Cross Youth Has a Lot to Give is their motto and the organization of junior and senior high school students this month is after your blood.

The youths will sponsor a blood donor clinic competition between 10 Victoria high schools and the school that attracts the most donors will receive a trophy.

Red Cross Youths hope to make the competition an annual event, increase interest in the Red Cross Society's activities and meet their April goal of 1,925 donors.

Clinics will be held:

Monday, April 10, 2-8 p.m., at Reynolds; Tuesday, April 11, 2-8 p.m., at Dunsmuir; Wednesday, April 12, 2-8 p.m., at Spectrum; Thursday, April 13, 10 a.m.-4 p.m., at Oak Bay Sr.; Friday, April 14, 10 a.m.-3 p.m., at Mt. International seven cents at $2.45 and Alcan ¼ at $28¾. Du Pont lost ¼ at $12 and Dofasco A ¼ at $24. Among speculative issues, Dynamic Mining Exploration advanced one cent to $1.40 on a volume of 13,900 shares traded.

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Continued gains in resource issues sent the Toronto stock market moderately higher in active mid-afternoon trading.

Volume of trading by 2 p.m. totalled 2.97 million shares compared with 2.07 million at the same time Tuesday.

Trading was halted about noon in shares of Prado Exploration Ltd. at the company's request pending an announcement. Earlier, shares fell 20 cents to 70 cents on the sale of 7,000 shares.

Venpower Ltd. rose 20 cents to $1.00 a share and New Providence Development Co. Ltd. fell 13 cents to 47 cents following their resumptions at the opening.

Venpower has announced it will pay a 40-cent dividend, while New Providence denied any reason for Tuesday's 20-cent-a-share climb. The company reported a six-month loss in earnings of $334,000 in Bahamian dollars compared with a $420,000 loss the previous year.

Among other industrials, Great-West Life Assurance climbed 2 to $78, Markborough Properties 1½ to $14, Westburne International 1¼ to $24½, National Drug and Chemical 1⅛ to $10¾ and British American Bank Note 1 to $30.

Bow Valley Industries fell ⅝ to $25¼, Woodward Stores A ⅛ to $18½, John Labatt A ⅛ to $21¼, Bank of Nova Scotia ⅛ to $19 and Royal Trust A ¼ to $17.

Rio Algom rose ½ to $30, Hollinger Mines A ⅜ to $31⅛ and Yellowknife Bear 27½ cents to $5.12½. United Siscoe Mines slipped ¼ to $7 and Hudson Bay Mining A ¼ to $16¼.

Ranger Oil Canada gained ⅝ to $30, Numac Oil and Gas ⅜ to $24⅞ and Skye Resources ⅜ to $9⅛. Canadian Reserve Oil and Gas was down ½ to $8⅞ and Oakwood Petroleums ¼ to $5¼.

New York

Gainers outpaced losers by about an 8-to-5 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading was active. NYSE volume came to 17.18 million shares at mid-afternoon.

Marine Midland Banks climbed 1⅛ to 15⅞. Late Tuesday an agreement for Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corp. to acquire control of the company was approved by Marine Midland directors.

Meighen Heads Argus Corp.

TORONTO (CP) — Maxwell C. G. Meighen of Toronto has been elected chairman of Argus Corp. in one of several corporate changes announced following the recent death of John A. McDougald.

McDougald was both chairman and president when he died March 15 at his Florida winter home.

A. Bruce Matthews, who took over as acting president after McDougald's death, was elected president and chief executive officer Tuesday while Alex E. Barron was appointed executive vice-president.

The elections were revealed in a brief statement from Argus headquarters, and ended speculation as to who would succeed McDougald, who had been one of Canada's most powerful and influential industrialists.

Meighen is also a vice-president and director of Ravelston Corp. Ltd., the holding company created by McDougald and several Argus directors to insure control of Argus does not change hands.

Revelston owns about 61 per cent of Argus voting shares.

Christie Bread Sold

TORONTO (CP) — General Bakeries Ltd. of Toronto has reached an agreement in principle to buy the bread division of Christie, Brown and Co. Ltd., saving the jobs of 230 workers at Welland, Hamilton and Toronto.

Christie announced plans earlier this year to close its bread division May 6 because of poor sales and stiff competition in the industry.

Announcement of the sale was made by J. Peter Wygant, president of General Bakeries, and Lloyd Weir, president of Christie.

GM's Car Sales Near Record

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — General Motors of Canada Ltd. dealers sold a combined 49,820 cars and trucks in March, an increase from March, 1977 and within 33 units of the record for the month set in 1973.

Car deliveries of 35,859 exceeded last year's March mark of 35,396 by .5 per cent despite one less selling day.

Truck deliveries of 14,231 were within 130 units of the record March level of 14,361 established in 1977.

RECUPERATE. . .AT HOSPITAL EXPENSE!

LAS VEGAS — You give us your appendix, we'll give you a chance at a $4,000 vacation. That could be the advertising pitch of a hospital which is trying to lure elective surgery patients in on normally idle weekends.

David Brandsness, the 42-year-old administrator of Sunrise Hospital, admits that hard-sell advertising usually is not associated with health care but says he sees nothing wrong with it — and he adds that it has certainly helped cut costs.

Sunrise is a 484-bed facility that had been bothered by a problem common to hospitals. Expensive equipment at the $40 million facility was overworked during the week but almost unused on weekends.

So, along with a local advertising agency, the hospital came up with a plan. Elective surgery patients were given a chance to win a trip, valued at up to $4,000, to wherever they want to go.

TV Sitcoms In Sex Rut: Professor

IOWA CITY, Iowa — Television situation comedies are in a rut with too many shows relying on sexual titillation, the instructor of a course in popular culture at the University of Iowa says.

"Television in general may be digging itself into a hole by so much sex," Instructor David Cohen said Tuesday.

The next step would be pornography on the screen, he said, but the FCC would draw the line at the bedroom door.

"TV has been teasing the public," Cohen said. Many new shows, such as the popular Three's Company, are nothing but repeated sex jokes, he said.

Cohen said there really has been nothing new on the screen since the Norman Lear (All in the Family) and Mary Tyler Moore shows appeared at the beginning of the decade. The latter, which depicted a single working woman and her female friends often discussing controversial topics such as sex, was a major innovation, he said.

Other recent shows are mere spinoffs and have carried sex about as far as it can go without showing all, Cohen said.

The Vanishing Duchess

SAN FRANCISCO — Several hours before the Queen Elizabeth 2 was to dock in Hawaii, an elderly woman whom curious passengers had nicknamed The Duchess vanished without a trace.

Carla Iris Bodmer, a 70-year-old widow from Switzerland, is believed to have fallen or jumped overboard the night of March 26 as the ship approached Honolulu during a 90-day world cruise.

"There is no indication of foul play," Othmar Hutter, the Swiss vice-consul in San Francisco, said Tuesday. "I wouldn't make a mystery out of it."

"It's the kind of thing that haunts everyone," said Frederick Flemming, a passenger from Houston. "It seems so terrible and lonely to step off that railing in the middle of the night."

Mrs. Bodmer had gained her nickname because she wore floor-length gowns and made almost regal entrances in the dining rooms and ballrooms of the ship.

In Geneva, a spokesman for the Swiss foreign ministry said: "It must be assumed that she fell overboard. We don't have any background on her, but she certainly is not well known."

Cunard said the disappearance was reported to the British consulate in San Francisco because the ship sails under the British flag. The consulate ordered an investigation.

"Basically there is no reason to suppose there was any foul play," said a British vice-consul, who declined to give his name.

Jimmy Sends Prayers

BOSTON — John Wayne's recovery from open-heart surgery is routine—except for a presidential phone call and televised get-well wishes from Bob Hope.

Martin Bander, spokesman for Massachusetts General Hospital, said Tuesday that Jimmy Carter telephoned the actor's son, Michael, to say he was praying for him.

Bander also quoted the president as saying:

"John Wayne is a great national asset. If there's anything I can do for him, please let me know. He surprises all of us with his ability to recover. Tell him he is in my thoughts and prayers."

"We want you to know, Duke, we miss you tonight," Hope said. "We expect to see you amble out here in person next year 'cause no one else can walk in John Wayne's boots."

Innocent, Claims Begelman

BURBANK — Former Columbia Pictures president David Begelman pleaded innocent to grand theft and forgery charges Tuesday in a courthouse a few miles from the studio he once ran.

Begelman, the key figure in a financial scandal that has rocked the movie industry, was charged with forging cheques worth $40,000 in the names of three prominent Hollywood men including actor Cliff Robertson, who brought the case to public attention.

The 57-year-old Begelman answered, "Yes, sir," in a firm voice when Judge Bernard Kaufman asked whether he understood his legal rights.

The judge ordered Begelman to appear for further arraignment in Pasadena Superior Court on April 25. He released Begelman on his own recognizance without bail.

The former movie executive has publicly admitted misappropriating funds from Columbia, where he served as $400,000-a-year production chief until last February. However, the money has been paid back with interest, and Columbia has refused to press charges.

NEW STRONGER STEEL CORD
Seven brass-plated steel filaments wrapped around two and bound together with one more. Seven, over two, plus one. 10 steel filaments instead of 5 as in our previous steel belted radial

BETTER BOND

TORTURE TESTED
Proven for 5,000,000 test miles in the heat of the desert, on the test track, on rough terrain, on the highway and on city streets.

LONG TREAD LIFE
EASY HANDLING

LOW COST PER MILE
The long tread life means savings on replacement tires and low-rolling resistance of the 721 means extra savings on fuel costs.

NO-CHARGE SERVICES
When you purchase a set of 721 radials and pay for balancing all four wheels and a front end alignment, you'll receive a personalized "No-Charge" service card. This "No-Charge" card makes you eligible for the following "No-Charge" services: • Wheel alignment checked every 5,000 miles and if required, alignment is corrected; • Wheel balance every 5,000 miles if required; • Tire rotation every 5,000 miles and • Tire Inflation checked whenever you wish. All at no additional charge. This card is valid at any Firestone Store or participating dealer in Canada.
